Arabs Drive Deep Into Jerusalem's Modern City

Hand-to-Hand Fight Reported as Crack Troops of Abdullah Engage 8000 Jews

By Daniel De Luce

Within The Old City in Jerusalem, May 19 (AP).—Trans-Jordan troops slashed deep into modern Jerusalem today while in the Old City a small Jewish garrison was bombarded at intervals for 15 hours.

A high Arab official said Arabs expect the battle for Jerusalem will be decided within 48 hours.

These officials estimated that 8000 Jewish forces of Haganah, Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern group are engaged against Trans-Jordan's crack Arab Legion troops.

Truce Effort Fails

The foreign consular truce committee attempted today to arrange a truce for all Jerusalem, but their efforts failed.

Arab forces virtually cleared the Jews from a crescent-shaped front on three sides of the old walled city and drove more than half way through the Jewish quarter inside the walls.

The entry of King Abdullah's Trans-Jordan Arab Legion into Jerusalem turned the tide of battle yesterday. Outside the Old City the Arabs have gained control of most of Mount Scopus on the north save for Hebrew University and Hadassah Hospital, won Wadi El Joz below Mount Scopus and Herod's Gate, the Mount of Olives on the east and Mount Zion on the south except for a single Jewish-held position.

(Military headquarters in Tel Aviv said Jewish troops broke through the Arab-held Zion Gate on the south Tuesday midnight and linked up with Jewish forces in the Old City. In severe fighting the Jews broadened their breach in the Arab ring around the Old City, headquarters said. Capture of nearby Mount Zion preceded the attack, the Jews declared.

(The Jewish army said the breakthrough raised the months-long seige of the 1700 Jews and that food and medical supplies were rushed in.

Israel Reports Gains

(The army of Israel said it captured the huge former British army camp at Sarafand, 15 miles southeast of Tel Aviv, a strategic road fortress. It adjoins El Ramle, which was reported already under attack by Irgun Zvai Leumi fighters.)

A Damascus dispatch said Syrian and Iraqi motorized forces fanned out from captured Samakh on the southern tip of the Sea of Galilee and attacked Safad to the north and Beisan to the south. Safad and Beisan are strategic Jewish-held bastions in northeast Israel.

The dispatch said the Arab forces by-passed Tiberias on the western shore of Galilee but it was under plane and artillery assault.

A Trans-Jordan Legion communique said legion forces were forcing the Jews to withdraw from the Art Comes to Center Market . . .

Gaming Probe 'Mystery' Man Is Identified

A. F. Miller, Operator Of Steak House, Is Jury's First Witness

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

First witness to appear before the special grand jury probing Washington's gambling was identified yesterday as Albert F. Miller, Tuesday's "mystery witness."

Police Lieut. Roy Blick, vice squad chief, went before the grand jury yesterday at its second session.

Miller, who had refused to identify himself to reporters on Tuesday, operates a steak house at 5516 Colorado ave. nw. He is known to have a wide acquaintance among policemen, and for many years held an honorary police badge.

He told reporters at his store yesterday, "I'm completely mystified about what the grand jury wanted from me." He said he was going to get a lawyer to advise him, and "I might have a statement to put out later."

Rode in Scout Cars.

For many years, it is known, Miller used to ride with policemen and detectives in their scout cars and cruisers during his non-working hours because, it was said, he liked policemen and police activity.

He was known as a "good fellow," and a liberal spender for food and drink. During part of that time, he was employed as an official of a local printing establishment.

His honorary police badge was given him long before Maj. Robert J. Barrett, one of his many friends, was named Police Superintendent. About a year ago, Major Barrett and Miller reportedly had a "falling out," and were said to be no longer friends.

Miller yesterday parried, or refused to answer, most of the reporters' questions, but he said that he did know Major Barrett.

Asked if he had sought to testify,

Workers Ogle As Art Adorns Center Market

Butchers . . . sweepers . . . fishmongers . . . cleaners . . . they paused yesterday to consider a rare spectacle in the 73-year history of the Center Market City—the hanging of oil paintings.

Like connoisseurs at Paris galleries, the workmen watched and commented as Corcoran School of Art students carefully placed their finest works along the crude balustrade of the old shopping center at 5th and K sts. nw.

The exhibit opens Friday and will run a month.

The idea of art flavored with cauliflower and fish—as old as Athens in its heyday — pleased them virtually to a man.

The majority, like corpulent Bishop Thompson, seafood dealer, thought it was "wonderful . . . just wonderful." Thompson has never been in an art gallery.

Johnny Auth, a butcher who claimed to have cut his teeth on a cow, called the exhibit a "swell idea." But "really," he said, looking up at a still-life called "The Lost Weekend," "I don't understand this stuff . . . it's just beyond me."

"Looks to me like they have everything in it but the kitchen sink."

Obviously entranced was 64-year-old Joseph Porter, a cleaner of 913 M st. nw.

"It just takes my eyes," he said, smiling all the while. And he explained that he'd never seen a painting before.

Alton Cheseldine, a fish salesman, studied an abstract for a moment and said:

"I can't say I know what it is, but it sure looks pretty."

Charles F. Schomaker, manager of the market, described one serious model as a "Latin from Manhattan" and likened another to "Whistler's Mother without the rocking chair."

He thought the exhibit would be good for business at the market and wonderful for the artists as well.

Lewis Is Set To Close Mines As Talks End

Meeting Breaks Up In Disagreement on Seating of Moody

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

The national coal wage talks broke up yesterday, and John L. Lewis was set to close the mines again.

Lewis at once faced charges of violating the Taft-Hartley Act, by refusal to deal with the Southern Coal Producers Association. The courts may order him back to the bargaining table—as the association asks—in a day or so.

But the present contract runs out in six weeks. If a new one has not been signed by then, the United Mine Workers of America probably will recall their long-standing policy—"No contract, no work." The country then will be up against a strike of 400,000 soft coal miners, just like those that brought on crises in the last few years.

This time, UMW President Lewis may be able to claim he did not call the strike, and to have a third try at bucking the courts, which broke two strikes for him in the last 13

House Due To Get Rule Bill Today

Committee Likely To Clear Measure With 7 in Favor; Monday Vote Seen

By Edward Ryan
Post Reporter

The House Rules Committee today is expected to send the Washington home-rule bill to the House floor.

Rules Committee Chairman Leo Allen (R., Ill.) announced yesterday he would take the third and final shot at obtaining clearance for the measure in an executive session at 2:30 p. m. today. At least seven votes—a clear majority—are counted for clearing the bill. If all attend, approval is certain.

Legislative traffic lights flickered fast on the home-rule bill yesterday to red then back to green.

Allen, who personally favors clearing the home-rule bill for House debate, said after a Rules Committee executive committee meeting which broke up about 4:30 p. m.:

"I wouldn't say the bill is very much alive; my guess is that it will not come out."

House Action Possible Monday

Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) who also favors clearing the bill for House debate, went from the Rules Committee meeting to confer with House District Committee leaders.

They in turn conferred with House leaders. After further conferences, District committee sponsors of the bill privately expressed hope anew that the measure would be cleared today by the Rules Committee.

If clearance is given, Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.), chairman of the House District Committee, said that the way would be open for House action on the measure Monday.

A favorable Rules Committee decision would send the home-rule bill to the floor with some prospects for passage. Without clearance along lines requested by District Committee leaders, the bill could be the target of delaying action and drastic revision through points of order.

Favors "Day in Court"

Allen made clear there had been no formal action in the Rules Committee on the Washington bill. He said the bill was brought up for action, and was passed over at the request of several members.

Smith explained that he favors letting the bill go to the House to have "its day in court" in view of the extensive work that went into its preparation by the subcommittee headed by Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.). Whether he would vote for the bill finally would depend on what changes might be made on the House floor, Smith said.

The home-rule bill would reorganize the present District government and place an elected city council in charge. The council would appoint a city manager to supervise most city agencies, which would be streamlined into 12 major departments. There would also be an elected school board in charge of Washington's public school system.

Major District legislation would, as now, have to be approved by both houses of Congress and the President. The bill also would give the District a nonvoting delegate in the House.

Marshall Tells Russia To Offer Some Proof Of Seeking Agreement

Bill to Control Reds Passes House, 319-58

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The House yesterday passed the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill without important modifications by a one-sided 319 to 58 roll call vote.

Imposing heavy penalties against Communist subversion without actually outlawing the Communist Party, the "Red control" legislation was sent to an uncertain fate in the Senate.

Senate Republican Steering Chairman Robert A. Taft (Ohio) said the bill requires "careful study." He said its punitive provisions "go so far you may not be able to get Communists to register."

Acting Senate Majority Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) told reporters, however, that the top-heavy House vote "makes it mandatory we act on that bill or something like it before adjournment."

Just before the House vote, Representative Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.) predicted the Senate will act and told the House:

"This severs the umbilical cord between the Communist Party and Russia."

A large majority of both major parties, 215 Republicans and 104 Democrats, voted for it. Voting "No" were 48 Democrats, 8 Republicans and the New York American Laborites.

A motion by Representative Chet Holifield (D., Calif.) to send the bill back to committee was shouted down. Holifield asked a roll call recommittal vote, but failed to get one when only 28 members backed his request.

The recommit motion called for a report by the Attorney General on the adequacy of existing Communist control legislation and recommendations for additional laws if needed.

Drafted and approved by the Un-American Activities Committee, the bill already has figured in the Republican presidential campaign, with leading candidates in dispute about just what it does.

Its authors say it doesn't outlaw the Communist Party if it cuts away from Russia, but does outlaw any foreign-controlled subversive activities.

Main provisions:

1. Punishes with 10-year jail sentences, $10,000 fines and loss of citizenship any efforts to establish a totalitarian dictatorship under foreign control in this country.

2. Denies non-elective Federal jobs and passports to Communists.

3. Requires Communist and Communist front organizations to register with the Justice Depart-

Stalin Is Advised To Take Remedial Action in Three Trouble Spots

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Secretary Marshall yesterday called for proofs that Josef Stalin really wants to see a settlement of Soviet-American differences.

The proofs should come in the United Nations, the Secretary told his press conference, or in other places where discussion of major problems has been deadlocked until now.

What the world needs so urgently, he said, is constructive and remedial action, especially in areas like Berlin, Vienna and Korea.

He added that the sincerity of the Soviet Government's stated desire, as expressed by Stalin, would be determined by its attitude in the various negotiations now under way, where progress has been prevented by the Soviet attitude.

As a further reply to Stalin, the State Department issued an analysis of 11 major issues on most of which, it said, agreement had been blocked by the Soviet Union. These were mentioned by Henry A. Wallace in his "open letter" to Stalin, and some of them in Stalin's reply.

Here is a summary of the State Department's list:

1. REDUCTION OF "ARMAMENTS—The regulation of "conventional armaments" was discussed in the 1946 U. N. Assembly, and has been under consideration ever since in the commission of the Security Council set up for this purpose.

2. ATOMIC ENERGY—"Agreement on an effective plan for international control has so far been blocked by the Soviet Union . . . Fourteen out of 17 of the nations which are or have been represented on the commission are agreed on the basic and indispensable requirements of an international control plan; the Soviet Union, Poland and the Ukraine have been the only members of the commission to disagree." In spite of the commission's failure to get agreement, "the United Nations is still confronted with the problem of international control of atomic energy, and the United States Government is still ready to participate in genuinely effective control."

3. GERMAN PEACE SETTLEMENT—"Soviet opposition to virtually every proposition put forward by the United States, Great Britain and France has thus far blocked all progress on this question" in two long meetings of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

4. JAPANESE PEACE SETTLEMENT—Nine out of 11 countries on the Far Eastern Commission have favored a preliminary 11-nation peace conference, with voting by a two-thirds majority. China wants such a conference, but with the great powers holding a veto. Russia wants the Japanese treaty handled by the Council of Foreign Ministers, composed only of the great powers. "It has so far been impossible to resolve the conflict between these widely different concepts."

UPWA to Seek $3000 'Floor,' 35-Hour Week

$3500 Minimum Held Needed for Decency By Average Family

Atlantic City, N. J., May 19 (AP).—The CIO United Public Workers of America notified Government today it will seek a 35-hour, five-day week at a minimum of $3000 a year for its members.

Some 500 delegates to the union's second biennial convention approved resolutions to that effect.

One resolution said the cost of living had risen so high the average American family needs $3500 a year "to maintain minimum health and decency."

Benjamin H. Brown of New York, UPWA research director, said Federal employes now receive a minimum of $2800 a year; teachers, $2500; and State, county and municipal workers, $2000.

A resolution called the Keefe rider to the Labor Department's appropriation bill "unconstitutional" and urged early interpretation by the Supreme Court if the Senate passes the bill.

The Keefe rider would bar payment of wages to employes belonging to a union that has not complied with the Taft-Hartley Act's noncommunism provision. The UPW officers have not signed affidavits saying they are not Communists. The rider has passed in the House and is now before the Senate.

Law to Bolster U. N. Expected In This Session

Vandenberg Resolution Cleared to Senate Floor As House Group Acts

Before Congress adjourns, both houses probably will pass a single bill or concurrent resolution to strengthen the U. N., especially by new collective security pacts within the present Charter.

The prospect of joint action was opened up yesterday by decisions on both sides of the Capitol.

On the Senate side, the Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved a six-point resolution encouraging, among other things, American "association" with self-defense groupings like the new western European union. Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg later introduced the resolution on the Senate floor, and asked that it be given a place on the calendar.

The resolution calls for "association of the United States by constitutional process with such regional and other collective agreements as are based on continuous and effective self-help and mutual aid, and as affect its national security."

The words "continuous and effective" were added to Vandenberg's draft by the committee yesterday. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. (R., Mass.) interpreted them to mean that a defense alliance would have to centralize its military command if it expected to get American support.

On the House side the Foreign Affairs Committee adopted a different procedure for reaching the same goal—namely, a declaration by Congress in favor of strengthening the U. N.

The House committee voted unanimously to include a declaration of policy in a single-package bill "to state the policy of the people of the United States respecting the United Nations and to amend the United Nations Participation Act of 1945."

In addition to stating American

White House Puzzled

Quarrel Over Guard Command Vanishes in Maze of Echelons

The battle of the D. C. National Guard colonels, sent to the White House, yesterday appeared lost in a maze of echelons.

Court-martial charges of failure to obey orders of a superior officer were filed at the White House by Col. Le Roy S. Mann against Col. Peyton G. Nevitt.

Colonel Mann confirmed reports of filing the charges, but White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that the first he'd heard of it was when the matter was brought up by reporters at a press conference yesterday. He added: "It seems to me it is a War Department affair."

The War Department said it had not received anything from the White House, but that any question probably would go to the National Guard Bureau.

A spokesman for the National Guard Bureau declared that the President would no doubt forward the matter to higher echelons before it trickled down to the bureau.

The intra-fraternity scrap started in the absence of Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, D. C. Guard chief. When Cox left for Europe last month, Colonel Nevitt, Guard adjutant general, issued an order "by command of General Cox" making Nevitt acting commander.

This struck Colonel Mann, commanding officer of the 260th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group, as presumptuous, in that, Mann says, he outranks Nevitt through seniority.

Not only that, Mann contends, but Nevitt's order was illegal since, under regulations, he says, a staff officer can only command troops in his immediate branch.

Last Wednesday, Colonel Mann, asserting he was legally entitled to command the Guard, wrote Colonel Nevitt to issue an order to that effect.

Colonel Nevitt issued an order reiterating that he was in command during Cox's absence.

Colonel Mann said he took up the matter with the White House because the President is the next higher commander of the Guard after General Cox.

The battle is expected to reach a climax early next week, when Cox is due back from Europe.

Speech Forces Truman To Cancel Press Parley

Riot at Iowa Plant

National Guard Called Out After Meat Picket Is Slain

Waterloo, Iowa, May 19 (AP).—The Iowa National Guard was called out tonight to help Waterloo police quell a riot which broke out at the strikebound Rath Packing Co. plant here when a picket was shot and killed.

Company B of the 133d Infantry, stationed in Waterloo, went into action less than an hour after Gov. Robert D. Blue ordered out the guard, moving with fixed bayonets into the area, where the county sheriff said several thousand persons were milling about the meat packing plant.

Automobiles in the area had been overturned, windows smashed and a building across the street from the plant set afire by the mob as it vented its wrath at the fatal shooting of the picket, allegedly by an employe of the packing house.

Lieut. William A. McLemore, commanding officer of the Waterloo Guard unit, said he had sent 91 men to aid the town's 55-man force.

At Des Moines, a State National Guard official said units from at least six other Iowa cities were speeding to Waterloo.

W. H. Coffin, plant superintendent, said at 10:45 p. m. (EDT) that the rioting had "quieted down a little." He said the pickets "apparently have heard that the troops are being mobilized and are dispersing."

Coffin said there was no damage to the plant although "about a dozen cars were overturned in the parking lot outside the plant gates."

One of the cars burst into flames, he said, and a fence around

Committee Votes Regular Service Status for Women

Legislation to give women reserve units a permanent regular status in each branch of the armed services was approved by a Senate-House Committee yesterday.

The House had voted to keep units in the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marines on a reserve or emergency wartime basis. The Senate version called for immediate transfer to regular service status. The compromise provides for regular status, but the transfer would be over two or more years.

The bill is designed to attract women into the services on a career basis. It now must be approved by the Senate and House.

GWU Hospital to Turn Over Top Floor to Mental Patients

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

George Washington University's new hospital here is opening up its entire top floor for the treatment and care of private patients suffering nervous and mental disorders.

In announcing the program last night, hospital administrators said special emphasis would be given to a broad program of occupational therapy for recovery of mental patients, including those undergoing lobotomies, widely known but still controversial operations on the brain. The operations were developed here 11 years ago by Drs. Walter Freeman and James W. Watts, of the hospital and university staffs.

Convalescent care for mental patients in Washington has heretofore been offered only at St. Elizabeths Hospital, which is restricted to Federal patients, and at Gallinger Hospital, municipal hospital for the city's indigent.

The entire sixth floor of the GWU Hospital, with 50 beds, will be used exclusively for neurologic, neurosurgical and psychiatric patients. Windows are equipped with safety screens, but unbarred. Acutely disturbed patients will be kept within a special security section of six enclosed rooms.

Elsewhere on the floor, there will be routine hospital freedom.

PEOPLE In The NEWS

A schoolteacher, fisherman and editor who went into politics, Representative Karl E. Mundt has successfully sponsored one of the most controversial pieces of legislation in years.

His bill to force potentially subversive organizations to register was passed yesterday by the House with a huge majority. But on its way through it was the target of both attack and praise. Republican Presidential Candidates Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen made it the center of their Oregon debate Monday, Stassen contending it would outlaw the Communist Party and Dewey insisting it would not.

KARL E. MUNDT
His bill passed

Mundt himself, one of South Dakota's two Republican Representatives, has consistently maintained it would not outlaw the party or drive it underground, but would force it to the surface where all men could see it at all times. His bill climaxed a long war of words with Communists here and in Europe which he has waged since V-J Day.

Mundt represents a district in South Dakota which in most other States would be enormous: all that part of the State east of the Missouri River containing 44 counties. In him, they have a fiery delegate, a finished orator who injects a sprinkling of cayenne into most of what he says on the floor, in committee hearings and to his news conferences.

Karl E. Mundt is a native South Dakotan, having been born 47 years ago, on June 3, 1900, at Humboldt. After attending public schools of the State, he earned his A. B. degree in 1923 at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., was married in 1924, and took his A. M. at Columbia University in 1928.

He taught school for a while at Bryant, S. Dak., and became superintendent. From there he went to Eastern State Normal School at Madison, his present home, where he taught speech and social science.

Perhaps he found school teaching a bit confining for a man whose hobbies lay outdoors, because he is found a few years later operating a farm from which he sold vegetables door-to-door. He also took a whirl at the real estate business, sold insurance, did considerable writing and edited a couple of magazines devoted to forensics.

Mundt's first political job came along in 1931, when he was appointed to a six-year term on the South Dakota Game and Fish Commission. Then, in 1938, he was elected to Congress and has been steadily reelected every two years since. He will complete his tenth year in Congress next January.

Aside from his writing, legislating, speech-making and making things hot for the Reds, Mundt is a fisherman and onetime national vice president of the Isaac Walton League. A stocky, blond, ruddy-faced man, Mundt looks the outdoorsman he is.—MARSHALL ANDREWS.

ment, file an annual financial accounting, and give the names and addresses of officers. Communist political organizations would have to file names and addresses of all members.

4. Their propaganda sent through the mails or broadcast would have to be labeled as coming from a Communist organization.

All independently sponsored changes were defeated, but a few modifications put forward by the committee itself were adopted.

Changes in Wording

The House made the committee-proposed changes:

The tight judicial review section, making the Attorney General the judge of facts if supported by "substantial" evidence, was changed to read "if supported by a preponderance of evidence."

The provision barring persons from Federal employment if they knew or believed they belonged to a Communist political organization, or the appointing official did, was revised to read "knowing the organization is a Communist political organization."

Organizations accused of being Communist fronts must be given a public hearing, with the right to cross-examine witnesses, before the Attorney General.

Communist Party members would be given 120 days in which to resign and escape liability for any penalty which the party may incur for violating the law.

Representative Sam Hobbs (D., Ala.) tried to further open up the judicial section to provide court review both as to the law and the facts, but was defeated by a 88 to 38 count.

Representative Jacob K. Javits (R., N. Y.) moved to strike out the loss of citizenship penalty but lost on a voice vote.

Representative Abraham J. Multer (D., N. Y.) tried to strike out the bill's definition of what constitutes a Communist-front organization, saying it might take in Henry Wallace's third party organization. Bill managers denied this, and the amendment was shouted down.

For seven hours the House voted down other amendments from the floor with the same regularity.

House Majority Leader Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.) sat near the committee table during the final drive and helped steer the bill to passage. He tangled with Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP, N. Y.) when the opposition leader compared the bill to "Hitler's edicts." Halleck said the charge was "ridiculous"—that it was "common sense" for this Government to take measures to preserve itself.

Reds Detained British Liaison Officer, He Says

London, May 19 (AP).—Igor Klein, Russian-born former liaison officer of the British Control Commission in Germany, said tonight he had been "detained against my will by the Russians."

Klein made the statement after landing in a British military plane from Germany where he had made a previously unexplained stay of three weeks in the Soviet zone.

"I strongly resent any suggestion that I deserted to the Russians from the British Control Commission," Klein said.

"I was taken while motoring in Berlin—I believe I was in the Russian sector—on April 25. The Russians did not ill treat me, but I was in solitary confinement."

The Russians quoted Klein as saying that he feared to return to Britain after his job with the British ended because of possible persecution.

Truman Requests $150,000,000 for Pacific Recovery

President Truman asked Congress yesterday for 150 million dollars to help the economic recovery of Japan, Korea and the Ryukyu Islands during the 12 months beginning July 1.

The request, made in a letter to House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., (R., Mass.) gave no breakdown on the proposed spending.

It would increase the Administration's appropriation estimate for military government and relief in all occupied areas from $1,250,000,000 to $1,400,000,000.

Law to Bolster U. N. Expected

policy, the House bill would authorize a 65-million-dollar loan for the U.N.'s new headquarters, would provide for the loan of American officials and services to international organizations, and would approve the recent agreement on the privileges and immunities of United Nations officials.

The single-package technique was in line with the House procedure last March in combining a series of foreign-aid measures, including the European Recovery Program, into a single act of Congress. At that time the single-package procedure proved quick and effective in getting the foreign-aid bill passed, and the Senate combined its separate bills accordingly.

Would Have Force of Law

In the present case, another effect of the proposed House procedure would be to give the force of law to the declaration of policy on the U. N. Instead of being simply a Senate resolution of advice to the President, as Vandenberg originally planned it, or a concurrent resolution without binding force, it would become part of a full-fledged Act of Congress.

The exact wording of the House declaration will be considered by the committee this morning. In its essentials it is expected to follow a resolution introduced Monday by Representative Robert B. Chiperfield (R., Ill.) after consultation with the State Department and other members of the committee.

The Chiperfield resolution in the House resembles Vandenberg's in the Senate, although with somewhat different wording. The vital clause dealing with collective self-defense arrangements is almost identical.

Joint Agreement Likely

If the House committee today takes Chiperfield's proposal, or something like it, as its declaration of policy, there is every prospect that the two houses will be able to agree on a joint text.

Vandenberg told reporters yesterday that his committee would gladly consider changing the Senate document into a concurrent resolution if the House wants it.

He called attention to a clause reaffirming the aims of world peace and security through the U. N. "so that armed force shall not be used except in the common interest." The "armed force" clause, he said, "is an additional precaution to make plain that this resolution is aimed at peace and cannot be otherwise construed."

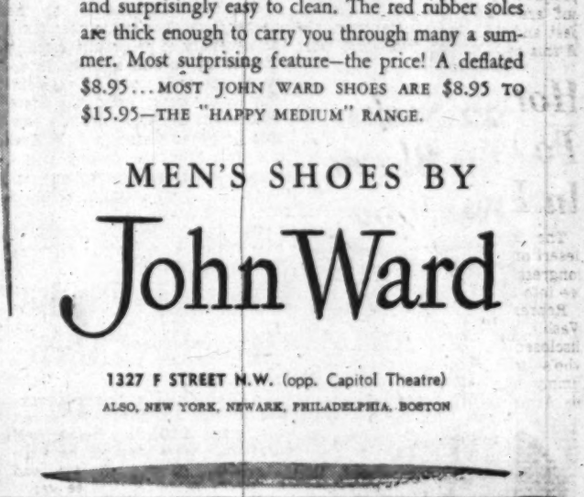

He said he had not aimed the resolution at Russia or any other world power.

Tass Blames U. S. For Stalemates

Austin Bids Soviet Talk Peace in U. N.

New York, May 19 (U.P.).—Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate to the United Nations, challenged Russia tonight to bring its latest peace talk into the United Nations in the form of agreement with the majority of vital issues like world atomic energy control, a U. N. police force and international disarmament.

"The Soviet Union," said Austin, "has immediate and continuous opportunities for demonstrating its willingness to collaborate with the United States in the cause of peace.

"This opportunity is daily presented at the conference tables of the United Nations."

Austin spoke at the annual dinner of the National Institute of Social Sciences, where he was awarded the Institute's gold medal award for distinguished service.

Says Reds Have Failed In East

Like Secretary of State Marshall, Austin flatly rejected the idea of bilateral American-Russian negotiations on issues which involve other nations as well as the two great powers.

The American U. N. delegate declared that "The rulers of the Communist ideology have failed in their effort to gain control of the Near East without invasion" — a statement which appeared to claim victory for the Truman doctrine and the rest of America's anti-Communist containment program in that corner of the world.

Austin emphasized that the world's current troubles are not due to any imperfections or inadequacies in the U. N. charter, but are an inheritance from the past and from the two world wars of this century.

London, May 19 (AP).—Tass, official Russian news agency, said tonight "leading circles" of the Soviet Union are convinced the deadlock with the United States is due to the "aggressive attitude" of President Truman's Administration.

The news agency declared in a Moscow broadcast that the American State Department had contradicted itself by its negative attitude toward the proposals for direct Soviet-American negotiations contained in an exchange of open letters between Prime Minister Stalin and Henry Wallace, third party candidate for President.

It said Soviet-American difficulties were caused by the American Government's departure from the policies of President Roosevelt.

Saying it was in a position to report "the opinion of leading circles of the USSR" on the United State State Department statement yesterday, Tass said this Washington response had evoked surprise in Moscow.

Tass said Stalin had addressed his letter to Wallace and had not addressed himself officially to the American Government, but nevertheless the State Department "considered it necessary to make a special statement to the press on J. V. Stalin's reply to Mr. Wallace."

"The attitude of the State Department is in complete contradiction to the statement of the U. S. Government of May 4," said the broadcast. That was the date when U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith in a statement to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had declared that U. S. Government policy had the solid support of the American people, but that the door was always open to discussion and settlement.

In that conversation, said Tass, "the possibility of bilateral negotiations was not only not denied but, on the contrary, assumed as something obvious."

"The State Department, on the one hand, recognizes the possibility and necessity of peacefully settling outstanding questions in the interests of universal peace," Tass said. "But on the other hand, the State Department declares that the concrete proposals listed in J. V. Stalin's reply cannot serve as the subject of bilateral discussions between the U. S. A. and the USSR, but that the discussion of these questions with the participation of other countries, as for example the question of the control of atomic energy in the U. N. O., as well as the discussion of questions in the Council of the Foreign Ministers, gave no positive results, allegedly because of the attitude of the Soviet Union.

Tass said that under the administration of President Roosevelt "the most difficult international questions" were settled between the United States, Britain and Russia for more than three years.

"The question therefore arises, why now is it considered impossible to reach agreed decisions of the powers on new, less difficult questions. Is it not perhaps because the present Government of the U. S. A. has departed from the Roosevelt policy and is pursuing a different policy?

"The Soviet public considers that the situation that has arisen is the result of the aggressive attitude adopted by the present Government of the United States of America."

Horan Seeks To Pin Blame In Desertion

The McMillin-Moscow-romance-desertion episode has evoked a congressional demand for a look-see into State Department policies.

Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), the Congressional Record disclosed yesterday, wants to know who's to blame for 21-year-old Jimmy McMillin's desertion from his Army post with the American

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
JAMES M. McMILLIN

Embassy in Moscow and his running off with a beauteous Soviet agent last week.

"Let's not waste our outrage on a young and impressionable boy," Horan urged. "His superiors owe a definite explanation to the people of the United States."

Meanwhile, in Moscow, the American Embassy admitted that young Sergeant McMillin had had a job in the secret code room, confirming a story in The Washington Post Tuesday revealing that McMillin was not a minor employe —as the State Department had announced—but a cryptographer in the office of the United States military attache.

Representative Horan, in demanding an explanation of the case, said that during the war, Army and Navy supervising personnel took special pains to screen persons engaged in cryptographic or other secret work, both for loyalty and emotional stability.

"It is amazing to think that the State Department, which has full information on Soviet activities the world over, would not take the same precautions."

The State Department, still studying the case, yesterday replied that the Army, not the State Department or Embassy, had cleared Sergeant McMillin for duty in Moscow.

2 Scandinavian Countries Ask U. S. for Arms

By The Associated Press

Norway and Denmark have appealed to the United States for arms and ammunition to bolster their defenses, Government officials said yesterday.

The officials, who cannot be identified, reported the Administration is giving these requests "sympathetic consideration."

Both countries, the targets of repeated attacks by Radio Moscow recently, have expressed keen interest in American machine guns, rifles, antitank and antiaircraft weapons and ammunition of all kinds.

This is the first disclosure that any member of the Scandinavian bloc is turning to the American Government for military help in the present tense world situation.

Secretary of State Marshall has revealed the Administration is considering reviving military lend lease to supply arms to the Brussels pact countries — Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The Danes have made known their requirements, said officials during numerous talks with United States Government diplomatic and military authorities.

U. S. Forbids Red Papers in German Zone

Berlin, May 19 (U.P.).—The American Military Government banned Russian-licensed publications in the United States zone of Germany today.

The order prohibits the "import, sale, distribution or display" of publications authorized by the Soviets.

Col. Gordon Textor, director of the U. S. military government's information control division, said the action was taken because of the "habitual banning, confiscation and smothering out" of American publications in the eastern zone.

He said the order applied only to the U. S. zone of Germany and did not affect the American sector of Berlin. He did not know whether the British and French planned a similar move.

Textor said 13 letters to the Russians protesting the bans had not even been acknowledged.

Frankfurt, Germany, May 19 (U.P.)—American and British taxpayers gave the Germans more than two billion dollars worth of food since the end of the war, officials of the Anglo-American Export-Import Agency disclosed today.

Marshall Calls on Russians For Proof of Good Intentions

1948, there were 1496 American Army personnel and 4125 Navy and Marine personnel in China, "at the request of the National Government."

6. EVACUATION OF TROOPS FROM KOREA—The U. N. Assembly last November recommended a plan for Korean independence, to be followed promptly by the withdrawal of all foreign troops. The Ukraine was elected to the U. N. Commission formed to assist in this program, but refused to serve. The Soviet Union denied the Commission entry into the northern zone of Korea. "It has not only refused to collaborate in any way in the implementation of the U. N. plan, but has attempted to proceed unilaterally with a plan of its own which threatens to lead to civil war among the Koreans themselves."

7. RESPECT FOR NATIONAL SOVEREIGNTY AND NONINTERFERENCE IN DOMESTIC AFFAIRS—"The facts bearing on this subject are too voluminous for presentation here. The actions and policies of the two governments in this respect are a matter of public record, and speak for themselves."

8. MILITARY BASES — American policy on this subject is governed by a U. N. Assembly resolution permitting troops to be kept in the territories of member-nations if those nations give their "freely and publicly expressed consent." The United States has registered all such agreements with the U. N. Incidentally, the United States has proposed, and the Soviet Union has rejected, a proposal that armed forces acting under the Security Council should have unlimited rights of passage and rights to use bases anywhere.

9. INTERNATIONAL TRADE—The Soviet Union declined to take part in the 23-nation conference at Geneva last year or in the subsequent 56-nation conference at Havana which agreed upon a charter for the International Trade Organization.

10. ASSISTANCE TO WAR-DEVASTATED COUNTRIES — "The aid being extended by the United States to other countries on a world-wide scale, through both United Nations channels and others, should be an adequate answer to this point. In the case of the European Recovery Program, in which the USSR declined to participate, the proposal to create a new organization came from the participating European countries."

11. HUMAN RIGHTS — The U. N.'s Human Rights Commission may soon recommend a draft declaration and covenant on human rights. Since this is a problem affecting many nations, the U. N. is a "wholly adequate forum" in which to debate it.

Secretary Marshall was asked yesterday whether the Soviet Union couldn't show its sincerity in other ways, such as in helping to settle strictly Soviet-American disputes through the regular diplomatic channels in Moscow.

Of course, he answered, such matters could be taken up quite properly—matters involving American consulates, freedom of movement and other American diplomatic rights in the Soviet Union.

He said one of the difficulties he had often encountered before congressional committees was the feeling that the Russians did not treat our representatives as we treated theirs. Such questions are minor in the light of world events, he said, but they can be taken up with propriety, perhaps when Ambassador Smith returns from his vacation in France.

Finn Parliament Votes Censure of Red; Crisis Feared

Helsinki, Finland, May 19 (U.P.)—Parliament passed a vote of censure tonight against Communist Minister of Interior Yrjoe Leino. The Finnish constitution requires that a cabinet member receiving such a vote of nonconfidence must resign.

Introduced by the Conservative Party and passed by a vote of 80 to 60, the motion censured Leino on the grounds that he extradited 14 Finns and 10 foreigners from Russia in 1945 without cabinet authorization.

Leino in parliamentary debate said the Russian Control Commission forced him to approve the extradition.

Inormed observers feared that the country would be plunged into a serious crisis as a result of the vote. There were reports that Premier Mauno Pekkala would resign.

Socialist Europe State Backed

Scarborough, England, May 19 (NYHT.).—The British Labor Party gave qualified support at its annual conference today to a demand for a United Socialist State of Europe and cheered several bitter denunciations of the United Europe movement headed by Winston Churchill.

At the same time, Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, sidestepped a strong appeal from the Jewish Socialist Party for British recognition of the new state of Israel.

The resolution on a United Socialist State of Europe called upon the Labor government "actively to promote the closer integration of the countries of Europe and of the liberated peoples of Asia and Africa." It also urged the Labor Party to "cooperate with the European Socialist States of Europe (including the establishment of supranational agencies to take over from each nation powers to allocate and distribute coal, steel, timber, locomotives, rolling stock and imports from hard currency countries) in complete military and political independence of the United States and the USSR."

Fenner Brockway, former secretary of the left wing Independent Labor Party, said Churchill's United Europe movement would organize western Europe on a "capitalist" and "imperialist" basis that would put it "in the front line in the threatened war between America and Russia."

Hugh Dalton warned against the danger of Britain becoming involved in a federation dominated by "reactionaries riding to power in western Europe."

Italian Communists Ordered To Step Up Fight on ERP

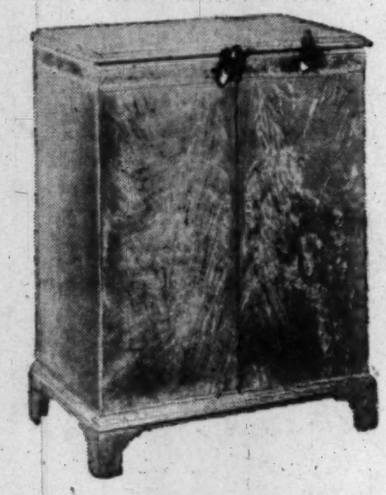

Rome, Italy, May 19 (U.P.).—Italian Communists were urged today to redouble their fight against the Marshall Plan.

Unita, Italian Communist newspaper, published a 3000-word report on the April 18 elections which said the victory of Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrat Party was brought about by "foreign imperialist intervention, religious terror, and government election frauds."

The Communist newspaper called on all party members to fight the European Recovery Program, the De Gasperi government, and Italy's right-wing Socialists.

A dispute with right-wing Socialists, meanwhile, blocked De Gasperi's efforts to form a new cabinet. Defense Minister Cipriano Facchinetti, who resigned last week along with the rest of De Gasperi's cabinet, repeated his resignation today. He said the trouble seemed to "touch" on the defense post and that he wanted to give the Premier "a free hand."

Wants To Stay

Hungarian Resigns as Envoy Here

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Rustem Vambery resigned yesterday as Hungarian Minister to the United States because his Soviet-dominated government would not support his efforts to bring the two countries amicably together.

Vambery

Appointed only last July by the same government he denounced yesterday, Vambery made it clear that he accepted the post solely in hope of "improving the deteriorated relations between Hungary and the United States." He added that he would not return to Hungary but would seek American citizenship.

Vambery, no politician, but a stooped and bearded scholar at 76, declared he had no intention of joining forces with former Premier Ferenc Nagy and former Smallholder Party President Tibor Eckhardt, both refugees from the present Hungarian government. He expressed his opinion of both in language remarkably vigorous for so mild and scholarly a man.

The former diplomat announced his resignation from his first and last diplomatic job in a news conference at the legation yesterday. He spent the remainder of the day receiving reporters and photographers in his Wardman Park suite, and broadcasting over the networks.

He told his news conference he had based his hopes for bringing Hungary and the United States closer together on "the experience and friends I have made during a decade of my stay in this country." He has lived in the United States since 1938, except for the visit to Hungary which resulted in his accepting the diplomatic post last year.

"I regret to say," he continued, "that my hopes have not come true. Maybe I overrated my ability to negotiate in the tense atmosphere between East and West, but I cannot overlook the fact that the coalition government I had the honor to represent did not prove cooperative either.

"The tone of the interrelations had become more and more unfriendly. A hostile attitude became manifest in attacks in the press and radio, especially in singling out the Voice of America even for telling plain truths.

"Instead of a connecting link, Hungary has become a dividing line."

Vambery also said the present Hungarian government has failed to provide proper representation of its economical interests here. The legation staff, he pointed out, has dwindled from the original eight to only four, including himself. Efforts and entreaties to his government for commercial and press attaches, he said, have been unavailing.

But Vambery insisted he wasn't angry at anybody; he was just disappointed that he had not succeeded in his self-imposed mission of peace and friendship.

Professor of criminal law at Budapest for 22 years, Vambery is a distinguished criminologist. During his 10-year stay in this country, he taught criminology at the New School for Social Research in New York.

He said he soon would go to Rockport, Me.

War Stunted French Child, Doctor Says

Langhorne, Pa., May 19 (AP).—A French health authority said last night that malnutrition during the war lowered the height of French children by as much as 2 inches.

Dr. Alice Doumic, of the Ancien Interne des Hospitaux de Paris, told a child research clinic at Woods School that malnutrition also affected child development and behavior and that cases of child delinquency due to stealing were three times greater in 1943 than in 1938.

She added that only 68.1 per cent of school children surveyed in 1943 had gained weight, as compared with 98 to 99.5 per cent in pre-war years.

She added: "Lack of heat and clothing, emotional and physical insecurity, fear and anxiety were all part of the wartime environment which left happy children anxious, and healthy children crippled."

She concluded that "if we are to plan for world stability, we must provide in the adults of tomorrow the security of mind that comes from proper nourishment in childhood."

Dr. Frederick J. Stare, professor of nutrition at the Harvard University School of Public Health, told the clinic that "education in food and nutrition is beginning to play a major role in health education, and is assured an even more important role in the health education of tomorrow."

Vivien Kellems Nicked by U.S. in Defiance on Tax

Westport, Conn., May 19 (AP).—The Government collected $1,685.40 from Miss Vivien Kellems today, and the critic of the holding tax law promptly cried, "Outrage!"

The Government slapped a lien on her bank account in the contese which began several weeks ago when Miss Kellems refused to continue paying withholding taxes on wages of her employes, and invited indictment.

The Westport Bank & Trust Co. notified the feminine industrialist this morning that it had turned over the money to the Government to satisfy the lien. The sum collected represented $837.70 in withholding taxes due, a 100 per cent penalty for nonpayment and $10 interest.

"Neither the bank nor I can ask for an injunction," she said. "We are both utterly helpless to stop them from taking the money. Our constitutional rights have vanished."

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Washington, Marlboro and Annapolis Motor Lines to establish two new bus routes linking Oxon Hill, Md., and Forest Heights, Md., with Washington.

Starting point within the District will be S. Capitol st. and Nichols ave., with one route over Maryland Highway 224 and the other over 414. Earliest possible inauguration of the lines will be late June or early July, R. A. Chew, WMA traffic manager said last night.

Service will be at "frequent" intervals, Chew said. The company, he said, will immediately undertake a new survey of the areas before establishing a final schedule.

Britain, China Reject U.S.-Soviet Plan For Forcefully Halting War in Palestine

Lake Success, May 19 (AP).—Britain and China rejected today the American-Russian demands for forceful action to stop war in Palestine.

The British proposed instead that the Security Council appeal again for a Jewish-Arabic truce and peaceful mediation by the United Nations in Palestine.

The United States promptly turned this down. The U. S. stood by its original resolution which would invoke the most stringent part of the U. N. charter against an aggressor yet to be designated by the council.

The break between Britain and the United States over Palestine, which became apparent during the recent special assembly, thus became definite and complete. It foreshadowed defeat for the U. S. in the council on this issue.

Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain told the Security Council his government could not agree to the use of sanctions and actual U. N. armed force, especially since the U. N. does not now have any armed force.

Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate, said council demands for a truce so far have been futile and stronger measures are required now.

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, China, said his government could not support the U. S. proposal. He said the U. S. plan called for peace with partition. China has consistently stood for a peaceful solution agreeable to both Arabs and Jews.

The Council adjourned until 9:30 a. m. Thursday.

Finletter to Head Marshall Plan British Mission

By the United Press

Thomas K. Finletter, New York attorney who recently served as chairman of President Truman's Air Policy Commission, was named chief of the special Marshall Plan mission to Britain yesterday.

Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Cooperation Administrator, announced the appointment.

W. Averell Harriman, ECA roving Ambassador, meanwhile filled three key posts in the staff of his Paris headquarters.

Alfred Friendly, reporter for The Washington Post, was appointed his public relations director. Ben H. Thibodeaux, first secretary of the United States Embassy in Paris, was named director of the food and agriculture division. Langbourne M. Williams, jr., New York metallurgical engineer, will head the industry division.

Police Guard Removed From Egyptian Embassy

A police guard was removed from the Egyptian Embassy, 2310 Decatur pl. nw., yesterday after a phoned threat that the building would be blown up failed to materialize.

Anis Azer, Egyptian Minister Plenipotentiary, said the threat was received at about 2:30 p. m. Tuesday.

"We notified police and the FBI," Azer said. "I don't think Jews would dare do anything like that. In Egypt there are 80,000 Jews. My government has issued a warning that if any Egyptian is killed, 20 Jews will be executed. Jews in my country have never been touched in any way. We have stressed that the present action is one against Zionists and not against Jews as such."

Sheikh Jarrah area in Jerusalem and its surrender was expected.

[The United Press said the legion captured Jerusalem's northern suburb of Sheikh Jarrah today.]

On the vital Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway to the west the Legion advanced to Latrun, 14 miles from the Holy City, and with artillery assault compelled the Jews to evacuate Ishwa Artuf, about 3 miles southwest of Latrun, the communique added. Heavy Jawish said the bulletin. Latrun is 9 miles southeast of Ramle and 19 miles southeast of Tel Aviv.

Heavier Bombs Used In New Tel Aviv Raid

Tel Aviv, Israel, May 19 (AP).—Planes bombed Tel Aviv late today with explosives heavier than the 50-pound missiles which killed 41 persons and injured 60 in a midtown bus station yesterday.

Some damage in the northern district was caused by the latest raid. It was the fifth successive day of air assaults on Tel Aviv, which underwent its first night bombing last night.

Israel's provisional government granted Premier David Ben Gurion the power to declare a state of emergency and 30 minutes later he declared it, vesting himself with powers to issue regulations for "defense purposes," maintain supplies and services and requisition property.

British sources said that many parts of Jerusalem were becoming a shambles. Arab batteries with at least eight 25-pounders were shelling Jews in the Old City and several large fires were raging there, the British reported.

Britain to Redeploy Troops in Middle East

London, May 19 (AP).—A government source said today Britain will bring home nearly 15,000 troops from Palestine, and begin this week redeploying her forces in the Middle East.

Five troop transports are standing by in Haifa to carry the troops home in an operation scheduled to be completed by June 2.

The rest of Britain's Palestine army will be assigned, at least temporarily to Cyprus, Cyrenaica, the former Italian colony in North Africa; and to Kenya, East Africa, where a big military base is being constructed.

Britain to Aid Arabs Until U. N. Objects

London, May 19 (U.P.). — Britain will continue to fulfill treaty obligations to the Arab states of Transjordan, Iraq, and Egypt "unless and until" the United Nations decides they have acted illegally in Palestine, it was announced tonight.

A Foreign Office spokesman said treaty obligations included financial assistance, military training and equipment.

The spokesman said Moshe Shertok, foreign minister of the new Jewish state of Israel, had sent a formal request to London for recognition, but the British cabinet had reached no decision.

Eight nations now have recognized Israel. These are the United States, Russia, Guatemala, Uruguay, Poland, Nicaragua, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovakia recognized the new state today. Dispatches from Stockholm said Sweden, Denmark and Norway had agreed to recognize the new state this week.

In Paris, a Foreign Office spokesman said France probably would recognize Israel within the next few days.

Official British circles said there was no evidence the Arab Legion had acted illegally in Palestine and that Britain would continue to give the legion its subsidy. A Foreign Office spokesman said Britain's treaty with Trans-Jordan provided that none of the military obligations should conflict with obligations imposed on Britain and Trans-Jordan by the United Nations.

U. S. May Send Jews Arms If Arabs Balk Truce

The United States may let the new state of Israel have arms if the U. N. Security Council issues a cease-fire order and the Arabs fail to obey it.

This, it was learned yesterday, was behind a somewhat cryptic remark by Secretary Marshall on the subject of the present arms embargo at his press conference yesterday.

The Secretary said the United States had to consider the attitude of the Security Council in deciding whether to keep the embargo, imposed last December against Jews and Arabs alike.

He reminded his questioners that the United States had proposed a cease-fire order on the basis of Chapter VII (the enforcement chapter) of the U.N. Charter. But he declined to say whether the decision to keep or lift the embargo would be delayed until the Security Council acted.

Chairman H. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) yesterday joined the congressional chorus advocating a lifting of the embargo.

"It is everywhere acknowledged," he said, "that the forces of communism are undermining freedom in many areas by supplying arms to those who support their totalitarian cause. It follows, then, that it would make good sense for the Government of the United States to lift the arms embargo, in order that small nations can achieve and maintain independence and help us restore order in the world."

17½ Billion Yearly Cost Put on Defense

By The Associated Press

Representative Andrews (R., N. Y.) yesterday estimated the cost of the defense program, including the draft, at $17,500,000,000 a year.

Andrews, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, made the estimate during testimony before the House Rules Committee in support of his draft bill.

This was the first cost estimate the Rules Committee has received during its consideration of the draft legislation.

Administration estimates have placed the cost of the defense program in the fiscal year beginning July 1 in the neighborhood of 14 billion dollars.

Representative Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.), chairman of the House Rules Committee, said the Andrews bill may be returned to the Armed Services Committee for rewriting.

"It could happen very easily," Allen said.

The Andrews bill already has been approved by the Armed Services Committee but cannot reach the House floor for action without clearance by the Rules Committee. Return of the bill to the Armed Services Committee would mean a considerable delay in reaching the floor.

Allen did not say specifically how the bill should be rewritten.

Cost Estimate Given

There was no mention during yesterday's Rules Committee hearing of Allen's suggestion for a substitute for the draft. He proposed to pay volunteers up to $1500 for enlisting. President Truman called this asinine.

Representative Andrews (R., N. Y.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, for the first time put a definite cost estimate on the defense plan.

Andrews said it would cost $17,500,000,000 a year to build up the Armed Forces and finance a draft.

Andrews' testimony highlighted the second day's hearing before the Rules Committee.

Andrews said this country "must probably accept either UMT (universal military training) or selective service on a permanent basis for the foreseeable future."

Army "Mistake" Cited

The proposed House bill calls for registration of men 18 through 30 years old with a two-year draft of men 19 through 25. It would build the armed forces up to a total strength of 2,005,882 men compared with about 1,384,000 now. It also provides for a 70-group Air Force. It does not mention UMT.

Inducted men would have to serve five years in the reserves after ending their draft service.

'Demoralized'

Oak Ridge Resents AEC Investigation

Oak Ridge, Tenn., May 19 (U.P.).—The Association of Oak Ridge Scientists and Engineers said today that technical personnel at the atomic plant here is "seriously demoralized" by recent accusations against the loyalty of five colleagues, and the possibility of additional cases against 30 others.

The association issued a statement in which it said the charges were "mostly trivial," chiefly based on "unsubstantiated rumors," and some were completely false.

Dr. M. M. Shapiro, chairman of the association, released the statement soon after it was disclosed by an official of the Atomic Energy Commission that investigations were being carried on here "in addition to the requirements of the law," at the request of the AEC in Washington.

"Scientists and engineers realize the necessity for loyalty checks," the association statement said. "However, they feel that they should not be required to defend themselves at formal hearings unless the charges are serious and well-founded, and unless they have an opportunity to confront their accusers."

"These present procedures will make it increasingly difficult to enlist the services of scientists on Government projects," the statement said.

Most of the charges against the scientists, the association stated, "consist principally of insignificant statements that could be made about almost anyone who has the varied contacts normal in college and work."

"Some of the accusations are completely false. None are supported by sworn statements, and there is no opportunity for the accused people to learn their sources," the association added.

B. W. Menke, chief of security for the AEC here, said, however, that the investigations were of an "informal nature" and were being conducted by a three-man "personnel security board" in particular cases." He declined to name the nature of the cases or the number of scientists who had been brought under the board's surveillance.

4 Scientists Got Radiation Burns In Eniwetok Test

Los Alamos, N. Mex., May 19 (AP).—Four Los Alamos scientists received limited radiation injuries to their hands during the recent atomic weapon tests at Eniwetok.

The announcement came from Carrol L. Tyler, manager of the Santa Fe office of the Atomic Energy Commission. He said the men were injured while handling radioactive material.

He identified the scientists as: James E. Sattizahn, 27, Duluth, Minn., Ernest J. Lang, 25, Chicago, Ill., John P. Balagna, 27, Canon City, Colo., and Charles W. Stanley, 27, Kansas City, Kans.

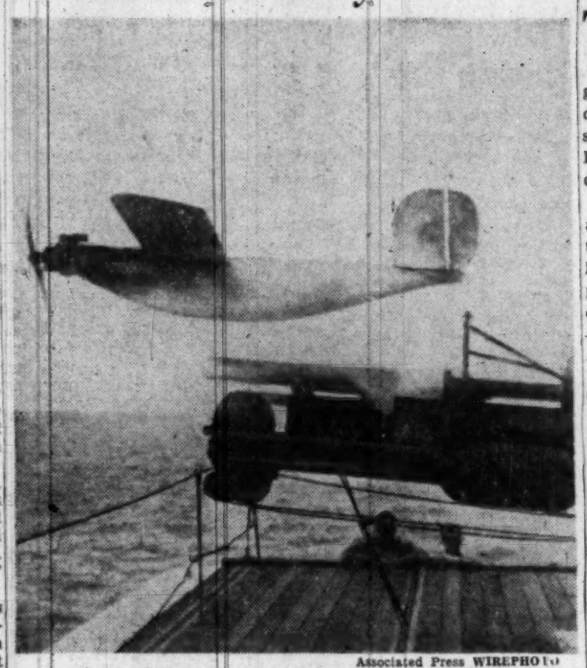

Tyler said "careful studies show the injuries to be chiefly due to radiation similar in its effect to 'soft' X-rays in that it produces local damage to the skin."

The announcement said the four men have been hospitalized at Los Alamos and that their attending physicians described their general condition as excellent.

Atom Scientists Too Cautious In Releasing Data, Pike Says

Scientists at work on atomic energy projects have become too security-minded, complained United States Atomic Energy Commissioner Sumner T. Pike, last night.

"The commission is thinking of issuing a low but determined growl at some of our scientific personnel to see if we can't shake some more information — especially engineering information—out into public view," Pike said.

Scientists, he said, while "expressing resentment" at security measures of their work, have tended to be "extremely cautious" about releasing information in their own fields.

"This, I might say, causes the commission both some concern and some amusement, since it is commonly thought that only the military mind tends to keep everything Top Secret," he declared.

Pike spoke at the annual dinner meeting of the American Psychiatric Association, at Hotel Statler.

He asked the Nation's mental health specialists to do their part in helping steer the public into clear thinking. Today's reaction to the atom bomb and atomic energy, he said, is "one of great disillusionment" about the possibility of international agreement.

The largest segment of the population is the one which has responded with a sense of futility and apathy," he declared, adding that it was this majority that was causing the most concern.

One of the commission's greatest problems, he said, was to convert some of the apathetic people "to a status of awareness, to where they'll do things."

He criticized the scare technique, which he said was used by many well-intentioned groups to create some form of world government.

"Terror by itself is not a good motivation for even good causes," he declared.

Earlier in the day, the psychiatrists split up into technical sessions to discuss progress in their varied fields. Some 2500 of the specialists in mental ills are convened here for the 104th annual meeting of the APA, which ends today.

Dr. Walter Freeman, professor of neurology at George Washington University and a pioneer in lobotomy (operations on the lobes of the brain), told a treatment section of his successes with a new type of the delicate operations, transorbital lobotomy.

In this technique, he said, the surgeon enters the brain with a sharp instrument through the orbital plate, protective bone above the eye cavity. He then sweeps that front section of the brain, which Dr. Freeman said is believed to control fantasy, severing the brain fibers there.

The operation is designed, he said, to rid schizophrenics (split personality cases) of hallucinations and other manifestations of their mental ills. Only those patients who show no progress in electro-shock therapy are considered for the special operation, he said.

The operations, which he said do not necessarily supplant previous prefrontal lobotomies in which the brain is entered through holes cut in the skull, take about 10 minutes. Patients are anesthetized against pain by electro-shock, he said.

and visitors will be allowed during the hospital's regular visiting hours of 3 to 4 and 7 to 8 p. m., daily.

Treatments will include hydrotherapy (continuous tubs and hot and cold packs for sedative effects), insulin shock therapy and electric shock therapy.

A special service, electroencephalography for the diagnosis of tumors, scars and epilepsy, is provided. The apparatus is said to be the only diagnostic machine of its type in a private Washington hospital.

Facilities for the convalescence of the mentally ill include lounge solaria and an air-conditioned gymnasium. Patients will be encouraged to engage in creative arts, play bridge, dance and exercise in the gymnasium. Plans also call for the patients to serve as actors in motion pictures they'll later be permitted to see.

Full treatments and care will be under the supervision of Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent at St. Elizabeths Hospital and GWU professor of psychiatry; Dr. Freeman, GWU professor of neurology, and Dr. Watts, GWU professor of neurological surgery.

The three codirectors will be aided by a clinical psychologist, technicians, social workers, and the services of Red Cross Gray Ladies. Resident physicians will be added in both neurology and neurosurgery.

13 Workmen Injured When Roof Collapses

Baltimore, May 19 (AP). — At least 13 workmen were injured today when the roof of a partly-finished warehouse collapsed, spilling some of them to the floor and showering others with bricks and debris.

None of the injuries seemed critical.

Argentina Denies Planning To Request Loan From U. S.

Buenos Aires, May 19 (AP).—A government spokesman denied today a report that Argentina will seek a loan from the United States. He said Argentina does not need dollars.

The statement came four days ater the Central Bank suspended the transfer of dollars and other hard currency in payment of imports. Diplomatic sources said Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia had told United States Ambassador James Bruce that Argentina was forced to do so because of her dollar shortage.

The cabinet met for four hours with President Peron. An official account said Chairman Miguel Miranda of the National Economic Council and President Orlando Maroglio of the Central Bank declared "the economc and financial status of the country is satisfactory."

The spokesman denied reports Argentina is seeking a billion-dollar loan in the United States.

Private bankers said the government has about 180 million dollars in gold in Buenos Aires, but its dollar reserve in the United States is reported exhausted.

There is no doubt Argentina's financial position is strong. The country expects to get at least one billion dollars from the sale of food for the Marshall Plan.

Meanwhile, Argentina is buying what she can from England, where she has credit—Britain advanced her the money to buy the British railroads here. Argentina announced she would buy 12 million dollars worth of British woolens, gloves and hats immediately.

China to Hail Elected Rulers

Nanking, China, May 19 (Thursday) (U.P.). — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Lieut. Li Tsung-jen were inaugurated today as China's first constitutional President and Vice President.

Celebrations have been planned despite military reports which admit the Communists are driving toward rich Szechwan Province in the south, and have cut Nationalist supply lines to Mukden from North China and Southern Manchuria.

Communist Gen. Liu Po-chen's forces crossed the Han River after capturing the key city of Laohokow yesterday, and were reported advancing toward Szechwan, the richest food supply center in China.

Reports from southern Manchuria said the three-day battle for Chengteh, capital of Jehol Province, still was going on.

Most of 25 Witnesses in 3-Hour Hearing Favor Easing Hatch Act in Local Politics

The Civil Service Commission heard directly from the people yesterday on whether it should modify its interpretation of the Hatch Act and let Government workers in nearby Washington counties take an active part in local politics.

Commission President Harry B. Mitchell and members Frances Perkins and Arthur S. Flemming listened for nearly three hours to about 25 interested citizens. Mitchell said he hoped a decision could be announced "within days."

A great majority of the witnesses favored relaxing of certain Hatch Act provisions to permit Federal employes to campaign for party candidates, even run for office themselves, on the local level.

These witnesses, for the most part, represented political parties in power.

Support for continuing the restrictions on political activity came almost entirely from the Arlington County Better Government League, longtime proponent of nonpartisan elections and stanch foe of the Democratic "ins."

Under the Hatch Act, the Civil Service Commission has the power to permit Federal employes in certain areas near Washington to be active in local politics. It already has ruled they may take part in local government, but only as independents, unaffiliated with any national party.

The communities involved are: in Virginia—Alexandria, Arlington, Clifton and Falls Church; in Maryland — Annapolis, Bladensburg, Brentwood, Capitol Heights, Cheverly, Chevy Chase sections 1, 2, 3 and 4, Martin's Additions 1, 2, 3 and 4 to Chevy Chase, Chevy Chase View, Cottage City, District Heights, Edmonston, Fairmount Heights, Garrett Park, Glenarden, Glen Echo, Greenbelt, Hyattsville, Kensington, Mount Rainier, North Beach, North Brentwood, North Chevy Chase, Northwest Park, Riverdale, Seat Pleasant, Somerset, Takoma Park, University Park and Washington Grove.

Representatives Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.) and J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) both appeared to urge relaxation of the restrictions on Government workers.

Sasscer, whose constituents include residents of Prince Georges County, said the change would be in the "best interests of good government." Beall, whose Sixth District includes Montgomery County, declared "it is only fair" to permit the local political activity, since Government workers already participate in other community affairs.

Malcolm D. Miller, chairman of the Arlington Better Government League, argued to retain the present regulation, which allows political activity apart from national parties and under other limitations.

Alabama May Try Eisenhower Stampede

By the Associated Press

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's name may be the first placed in nomination for the Presidency at the Democratic National Convention.

When nominating time comes, the roll of States is called alphabetically. If present plans pan out, the Alabama delegation may use its top listing to try to start an Eisenhower boom before President Truman's name is put up.

Alabama electors already have been instructed never to vote for Mr. Truman. Its delegation, to be completed in a run-off primary soon, is primed to walk out of the convention if a platform supporting Mr. Truman's civil rights views is adopted and if the President wins the nomination. Most politicians regard the latter outcome as almost certain.

The Eisenhower move apparently is designed to give Southern civil rights rebels a name to rally around in a fight against Mr. Truman's nomination.

President Truman was described yesterday as taking a hands-off policy toward organizing the July 21 Democratic National Convention.

Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.), who called at the White House to seek the President's indorsement of Senator Myers (D., Pa.) for keynote speaker at the convention, told reporters:

"The President said he was leaving all that matter of organization to the executive committee and to the national chairman, Senator J. Howard McGrath."

The executive committee of the National Committee meets in Philadelphia today to select a keynoter.

State Senator Expresses Views

CHARLES FENWICK, of East Falls Church, a Virginia State Senator, testifies before the Civil Service Commission yesterday. He was one of several persons who expressed themselves on the possible relaxation of Hatch Act provisions

Republicans Of Maryland Meet Today

Baltimore, May 19 (AP).—The Republican Party of Maryland will hold its State convention here tomorrow to elect the State delegation to the national GOP convention next month.

Indications are the delegation will go to Philadelphia without instructions to cast ballots for any specific candidate for President.

The convention will begin at 10 a. m. in the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Immediately after the convention, the Republican State Central Committee will meet, and Galen L. Tait, who has been chairman since 1914, except for the eight-year period from 1934-42, will resign.

The three most prominently mentioned as his successor are State Senator Stanford Hoff of Carrol County, Representative J. Glenn Beall of the Sixth Maryland District, and Russell H. McCain of Hagerstown, minority member of the State Roads Commission.

Jacob France is expected to be reelected as National Republican Committeeman from Maryland. His faction of the party currently is in the ascendancy.

France, Robert O. Bonnell, a Baltimore banker, and other leading figures of the party held an informal caucus tonight to map convention strategy.

The 152 delegates will caucus tomorrow morning by districts. Each of the counties and six legislative districts of Baltimore County have State convention delegates to the number of its representation in the General Assembly.

There are 152 delegates. They will elect 16 delegates to the June 21 national convention—two from each of the six congressional districts, and four at-large.

The same number of alternates will be named.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., of the United States House of Representatives, is slated to give the principal address.

'Open' Berlin Schools

Eastern Funds Fighting Him, Stassen Says

reclamation and power funds.

Harold E. Stassen said today "combined eastern opposition" will spend a quarter of a million dollars to stop him in Oregon.

Stassen repeated his last night's charge — denied by New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey — that Dewey and Senator Robert A. Taft had combined to block his Republican presidential nomination. Then he added that his opposition will have spent $250,000 in Oregon by Friday's primary election.

"The clear-cut issue of this campaign is development of the West," he said. Yet Taft, as a partner in the opposition, Stassen said, has been a leader in the attempt to cut ment of the West's future.

Although willing to make "unprecedented expenditures in the Oregon primary," Stassen said, his opposition is not willing to spend a few million dollars for developments of the West's future.

"Pipe Dream" Dewey Says

He spoke to 600 persons from the city hall steps, flying here from Roseburg, where last night for the first time he publicly said, "It is apparent that we face a combination of opposition."

Dewey called this charge a "pipe dream" in a comment to newsmen.

Taft is not entered in the Oregon primary, in which Dewey and Stassen are the only candidates.

Meanwhile, Dewey took sharp issue with Taft's stand on development of hydro-electric power projects.

Speaking to a rally in the town of Dallas, Dewey branded Congressional attempts to slash power project appropriations as "sheer folly" and "false economy."

"I have an honest disagreement with those members of the Senate or House who believe we can economize at the expense of the development of our natural resources, which are investments," the New York Governor said.

"It is sheer folly to economize at a time when the production of power within the United States is going to be short by one-third of the power needed in the next five years."

Dewey's statement placed him across the fence from Taft, the only Senator to speak on the floor in support of a Senate motion to send the Army Engineers Civil Functions bill back to committee for a 200-million-dollar cut.

Dewey criticized particularly Congressional slashes in the 40-million-dollar appropriation for McNary Dam on the Columbia River—a project highly important to Oregon voters.

He called the 27-million-dollar allocation made in committee by the Senate "an inadequate sum."

Ignores Dewey Denial

Stassen, renewing his pledge of support for power projects, accused the "combined eastern opposition" of opposing power allocations.

Ignoring Dewey's denial of such a combine, Stassen said in a speech prepared for delivery (11 p. m., E.S.T.) at Astoria:

"This combined eastern opposition in a short-sighted manner is willing to spend a quarter of a million dollars to defeat us in Oregon, but they are not willing to appropriate the additional few million dollars needed to carry forward rapidly the McNary Dam."

Gov. Folsom Withdraws From Presidential Race

Montgomery, Ala., May 19 (AP).—Gov. James E. Folsom said today he will not accept the Democratic nomination for President under any circumstances.

The Governor told a news conference he interprets the primary as a mandate from the people to "stay behind my desk and be the Governor of Alabama."

South Carolina Picks Anti-Truman Slate

By D. Harold Oliver
Associated Press Staff Writer

South Carolina added 20 national convention votes and 8 presidential elector nominees to Dixie's anti-Truman column yesterday. But the President picked up 12 votes in Montana to run his total pledged and claimed delegates for the Democratic nomination to 469.

A total of 618 will be needed for the nomination out of a convention vote of 1234. Delegates with 758 votes have been chosen to date.

While pro-Truman forces are predicting his nomination despite the Southern opposition, Leon Henderson, national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, said yesterday the President will not have a sufficient number of instructed delegates to insure his selection at Philadelphia.

In a memorandum to ADA chapters, Henderson said it is now clear that a majority of Democrats who have voted to elect delegates "want an open convention." The ADA has expressed a preference for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

The anti-Truman Southern delegate bloc now numbers 55, including 20 from Florida and 15 from Alabama. The latter State picks 11 more in a run-off primary June 1.

Pro-Truman forces contend the Dixie opponents of the President's civil rights program cannot block his nomination. They appear more worried over the Southern trendtor Robert A. Taft and Harold E. of naming electors who will go on Stassen will be on hand for the the November ballot pledged to Alabama meeting. vote against Mr. Truman in the electoral college.

The South Carolina Democratic Convention, in nominating eight elector candidates opposed to the President yesterday, followed Alabama's lead. The latter State has named six such electors and will choose another five June 1.

The angry South Carolina Democrats acted after applauding an assertion of Keynoter George Warren, a State Senator, that "we owe no allegiance" to national party leaders—"they have deserted us."

North Carolina Democrats will name a 32-vote delegation today.

Republicans will choose 14 delegates in Alabama and 16 in Maryland today. Maryland's will be uninstructed. Representatives of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Sena-

Auto Injuries Fatal To Ex-U. S. Worker

D. C. Traffic Deaths 1948 31
Deaths This Date Last Year 30
Total Last Year 72

A 74-year-old man died in Emergency Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered when he was hit by an auto operated by a 17-year-old driver.

At the same time, police reported injuries to two youngsters who had dashed in front of vehicles from between parked cars.

The first traffic victim was Elwin H. Forristall, 3711 Fessenden st. nw., who retired 18 months ago as farm supervisor with the Bureau of Prisons, Department of Justice.

Forristall was struck at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday while crossing in the 5000 block of Connecticut ave. nw. He died at 11:20 a. m. yesterday.

Police charged Donald I. Lehman, 17, of 3130 Tennyson st. nw., operator of the vehicle, with driving with improper brakes and held him for action of the coroner.

Forristall had been employed in the Bureau of Prisons here since 1935. He held a bachelor of science and master's degrees in agriculture from New Hampshire College.

He leaves his wife, Effie; a daughter, Miss Esther Forristall, both of the Fessenden st. address, and a son, Carroll, of Hartford, Conn.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at Gawler's funeral home, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Five-year-old Raymond E. Arnold, 1929 L st. nw., suffered possible concussion when he darted from between parked cars into a pickup truck near his home yesterday. The boy was removed to Emergency Hospital. Driver of the truck, police said, was Ernest L. Stribling, 35, of 1820 13th st. nw.

In a similar accident Tuesday night, Rita Helton, 19 months old, 4425 MacArthur Blvd. nw., suffered a possible skull fracture when she ran from between parked cars into the path of an auto. The child was treated at Georgetown Hospital. Operator of the car was Charles L. Huntington, 47, of 20 Ingraham st. nw.

Mary Howarth, 69, of 11 R st. ne., suffered a fractured right arm and possible rib fractures when she walked into the side of an auto while crossing North Capitol st. near Massachusetts ave. yesterday. She was admitted to Cacualty Hospital where her condition was reported as fair. Driver of the car was Lewis B. Stephens, 45, of Arlington.

Toddler Bruised By Auto . . .

RITA HELTON,
19-month-old daughter of Mrs. Bryan Helton, 4425 MacArthur blvd., suffered little more than bruises when struck by an automobile near her home. Police said the child apparently darted into the street between parked cars

Suspect Held In Hit-and-Run Death Inquiry

Arlington police last night held an Alexandria man for investigation in connection with the Saturday hit-and-run death of George S. Scrivener, 59, of 2524 S. Oxford st., Arlington.

Scrivener, a night watchman, apparently was struck by two cars late Friday night. He died the following morning in Arlington Hospital.

Driver of one auto, Alfred Taylor, 38, of 1921 S. Langley st., Arlington, told police Scrivener's body was lying in the street at Seminary rd. and Arlington Mill dr. and he could not avoid hitting it.

Police found 27-foot skid marks. The marks, police said, were not made by Taylor's car.

Police picked up the Alexandria suspect from the license tag number of another car, a 1936 Ford Tudor, which Taylor said had been near the accident scene.

Police said they had found two small pieces of cloth on the car's grille and underbody. The cloth is being sent to FBI laboratories to see if it matches clothing worn by Scrivner.

5 Flee Pa. Jail; Washington Man Later Recaptured

Huntingdon, Pa., May 19 (AP).—Five prisoners escaped from the county jail here today by sawing bars from a washroom window and then descending a 14-foot wall with the aid of planks and ropes made from sheets.

One of the fugitives, identified by State Policeman Robert Daley as Oscar McKinney, 27, Washington, was recaptured about 30 minutes after the break 5 miles south of the prison.

Daley identified the others as Joseph Contrillo, 22, Central City; Gerald W. Iser, Riddlesburg; Clarence Knable, Heston, and William J. Rider, 22, Huntingdon.

The policeman said this was the second break from the jail within a month for Contrillo and Iser, both of whom escaped May 3 but were apprehended a short while later. The two men are serving sentences on charges of forgery.

Daley said Knable was awaiting action on a surety of the peace charge, while Rider awaited trial on a rape charge. He said McKinney was sentenced for assault and battery.

Full Rivers Sum Voted by Senate

By the United Press

The Senate voted $708,586,666 for flood control and navigation improvements last night after rejecting an economy move to cut out 200 million dollars.

Passage came after three days of hectic debate highlighted by angry wrangling among Republicans and Democrats alike over which comes first, the GOP pledge to cut Federal spending or the projects demanded by the voters back home.

The measure carries funds for Army civil functions during the 1949 fiscal year, beginning July 1, and covers a host of flood control and navigation programs throughout the Nation.

Rebuff for Taft, Bridges

The Senate version provides $102,027,900 more than was voted by the House, but it is $29,217,634 short of what President Truman requested in his "rock bottom" spending budget.

The drive to cut out 200 million dollars was turned down, 55 to 18, over protests of economy-minded Senators that the proposed spending would contribute to inflation and violate the GOP pledge to cut Federal spending to the bone.

It was a rebuff for such GOP leaders as Senator Robert A. Taft (Ohio), chairman of the party's powerful policy committee and a presidential aspirant and Senators Styles Bridges (N. H.), Clyde M. Reed (Kans.) and Homer Ferguson (Mich.), top-ranking Republicans of the Appropriations Committee.

Pleads for Recommittal

Bridges, spearheading the fight against his own committee's recommendations, pleaded with the Senate to return the bill to committee with instructions to have the Army engineers weed out 200 million dollars worth of "unnecessary" projects.

He said it "takes guts to be for economy" but that the Republicans nevertheless should abide by their campaign promises "to keep the lid on spending for the next fiscal year."

"There is hardly a man in the Senate chamber who hasn't had pressure put on him from back home not to cut these funds," he said. "But we are not going to be able to give leadership to the world unless the fiscal policies of the Nation are sound."

Byrd Sees 10-Billion Deficit

Taft also preached economy.

One Democrat, Senator Harry F. Byrd, Va., a ceaseless advocate of Government economy, voted for recommittal.

Predicting that the Government will face a 10-billion-dollar deficit during the 1951 fiscal year, Byrd said the Nation has "taken on more than we can handle" in foreign aid and defense appropriations.

"We are rapidly approaching a real crisis in Federal spending," he said. He predicted "an increase in taxes which will shake the private enterprise system to its very foundations."

The District division of the American Cancer Society has exceeded its $175,000 quota in the funds campaign which ended locally Monday midnight.

The campaign here began April 5 as part of a national drive for $16,042,000. Edinger pointed out tha the District division is far ahe d of the National effort, which sq far has amassed eight million of the total goal.

Navy Comdr. Donald J. McDonald, who skippered a destroyer in the sea battle off Guadalcanal in 1942, got a nicer job yesterday.

McDonald takes over the bridge of the luxurious cruise ship from Capt. Charles L. Freeman, who will become commanding officer of the naval station at Annapolis.

AFL Official Hits Speech By Richberg

The third annual Citizenship Conference ended on something less than a casual note yesterday when a prominent labor spokesman arose in the audience to denounce Donald R. Richberg, one of the principal speakers.

Richberg, onetime head of the old NRA, had just finished his talk when Lewis G. Hines, national legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, leaped to his feet and shouted:

"I object first to Mr. Richberg's appearance here today and secondly to the use of his speech as anti-labor propaganda."

Pointing his finger at Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, committee chairman, Hines continued, "Mr. Richberg collaborates with labor's enemies on the Hill and I object to his having this opportunity to circulate propaganda against organized labor."

Richberg, who was at the speakers' table in the Interior Department auditorium with Attorney General Tom C. Clark and the Very Rev. Clarence C. Gorman, S.J., president of Georgetown University, remainded silent after the outburst.

Hines, a delegate to the conference, said later that he spoke out because he resented Richberg's statements on mass picketing and his references to "misguided labor leaders."

"I offered to debate him on the issues he raised—any time and any place," said Hines.

Before the incident, the audience of about 700 had heard Richberg declare it was more important today to revive the faith of the American people in self-government than to draft them into armies.

He spoke of freedom of the individual and said he is opposed to legislation which would destroy this freedom.

Senate GOP Chiefs Fail to Win Clearance of Anti-Lynch Bill

By the Associated Press

Republican Senate leaders failed again yesterday to win Senate Judiciary Committee clearance of anti-lynch legislation.

Chairman Wiley (R. Wisc.), told reporters the committee was unable to agree at a lengthy closed-door session. He said the group will meet again today.

GOP leaders have promised to give the anti-lynch bill first attention in the Senate if the committee completes its work.

Senator Moore (R. Okla.), tried to displace the anti-lynch bill with a House-approved measure that would give States title to all tidelands including rich oil pools in them.

Senator Ferguson (R. Mich.) said Moore's move was defeated on a tie vote, 4 to 4.

Ferguson said a three-man Subcommittee completed draft on an anti-lynch measure more than a month ago but the full committee has made no progress on it.

Chairman Taft (R. Ohio), of the Senate GOP Policy Committee said last weekend it may be necessary to take up anti-poll tax legislation if the judiciary group fails to clear the anti-lynch bill.

Wiley said many arguments yesterday centered upon constitutionality of the proposed bill.

It would make lynching a Federal crime and impose penalties upon members of a lynch mob, peace officers who fail to prevent a lynching, and communities where lynchings take place.

South to Push Education Program, Governor Says

Jacksonville, Fla., May 19 (U.P.).—Gov. Millard Caldwell of Florida promised today the South would go ahead with its regional education plan with or without the support of Congress.

Caldwell said the recent Senate shelving of the regional compact bill greatly handicapped the program of technical and professional schools jointly financed by Southern States. However, he said, other arrangements will be made to raise the standards of higher education.

Southern States recently adopted a plan of establishing separate regional colleges for white and Negro students which individual States would not be able to finance alone.

Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) led a fight against the compact bill because of the segregation clause. It was shelved by the Senate after passing the House.

Caldwell told a woman's club meeting here the Council on Regional Education will begin June 1 a $100,000 survey of educational facilities to determine what the South has and needs for both white and Negro students.

Dr. Slichter Heads Phone Facts Quest

A Harvard University professor, Dr. Sumner H. Slichter, yesterday was selected by President Truman to head a fact-finding board in the threatened strike of some 25,000 CIO long-lines telephone workers.

Other members of the board, due to report by June 6, include Aaron Horvitz, New York industrial relations expert, and Charles A. Horsky, attorney here.

The President's selection of the inquiry board, under provisions of Taft-Hartley Act, came a few hours after the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., parent company of the Bell system, had protested against the setting up of the board. The President had announced on Tuesday that he planned the move.

In creating the board, the President stated that the bitter dispute between the union and phone company imperiled national health and safety. AT&T denied the allegation, insisted only 5 per cent of employes in the telephone industry were involved, and that, at any rate, negotiations were still going on.

A checkup here, however, indicated that negotiations were in a state of collapse, and that the union was about to call a strike when the President acted to halt—at least temporarily—the tieup of the long-distance lines. Here's the behind-the-scenes story as pieced together by an authoritative labor observer:

The company-union contract expired May 8.

The day before, on May 7, representatives of the United States Conciliation Service, which for some time had been trying to bring the disputants together, asked both sides to maintain status quo conditions for a reasonable period despite the expiration of the contract.

The union agreed to the request, but the company would give no such guarantee, stating instead that the employer had no intention "at this time" of changing working conditions or wages. This intention did not cover the contract's arbitration clause, it was understood.

A day-long session was held in New York on May 8, without breaking the deadlock. Whereupon, the Federal conciliators invited the parties to come to Washington for a continuation of the negotiations. The union accepted this proposal, but the company agreed to go to Washington only to present its arguments why the dispute should not be negotiated in the Capital.

As to continuing negotiations in New York, the union said it was willing only if the company guaranteed the status quo on conditions, which the company was not willing to do.

Thus the union was placed in the position of working without a contract, and without any guarantee of the status quo being maintained during further negotiations, or going out on strike.

Having reached a dead end, the Conciliation Service sent the dispute to the White House under the Taft-Hartley Act. The President appointed a fact-finding board to stay, at least for the time being, the impending strike.

The union is asking a 30-cents-an-hour wage boost, a shorter work week and larger pensions. Present pay averages about $1.25 an hour.

No Agreement Reached In Rail Conferences

Union and industry officials failed to reach agreement yesterday in the railroad labor dispute and scheduled new conferences for 11 a. m. today.

Neither carrier representatives nor officials of the three unions would comment on progress of their talks.

Virginia Phone Workers Get 3-Year Contract

Richmond, Va., May 19 (AP). — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia has signed a three-year contract covering wages and working conditions with the Virginia Division 33, Communications Workers of America, it was announced here today.

the plant was trampled. He estimated the crowd at "about 700" although Black Hawk County Sheriff H. P. Wagner earlier had said "thousands" were milling around and "no one is safe."

The rioting started during the 6 o'clock dinner hour when a nonstriking worker fired a shot out the window of his car as he was driving out of one of the plant's gates.

The bullet hit William Farrell, 40, in the head, killing him instantly. Police said the nonstriker told them he became excited when a "large number" of strikers began crowding around his car.

He said he was afraid they were going to overturn his automobile

The same bullet which killed Farrell also hit Margaret Greheim, 34, in the shoulder. Hospital authorities said her condition was "very good."

Meetings of 100,000 To Act on Meat Strike

Chicago, May 19 (U.P.).—The CIO United Packinghouse Workers Union announced today it would hold mass meetings of 100,000 strikers beginning Thursday night to decide whether the nation-wide meat packing strike shall continue.

The announcement came as union officials and representatives of Swift & Co., the nation's largest packer, ended a negotiation session without reaching an agreement.

Federal Conciliator Frank Walsh, who has been guiding accelerated settlement talks this week, said he did not know whether further conferences would be held tomorrow.

A union spokesman said the mass meetings of strikers would go on across the country as scheduled.

At St. Paul, Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl of Minnesota, who flew here to participate in conferences after his State was torn by picket-line violence, indicated the wage issue was settled.

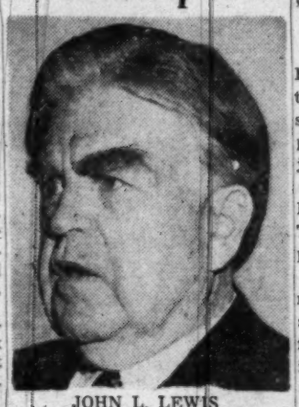

Youngdahl said the only remaining issue was the question of job security.

The packers have proposed that strikers and their leaders discharged for "unlawful acts" have the right of normal grievance procedure in seeking to get their jobs back.

The union, whose members were threatened by the packers with loss of their jobs if they persisted in the strike, charged that the grievance proposal was a device to "break the union."

months, and fined him and his union over two million dollars.

The wage meeting broke up over the seating of Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Association. The operators—with only one break in their solid front—wanted Moody seated. Lewis would not have him. Once the vote was taken, Lewis rose, shook his shaggy gray hair and said:

"I make the observation, Mr. Chairman, that there is no conference. The operators have voted themselves, and the mine workers, out of the conference, and there is nobody to guarantee the hall rent from now on.

"The mine workers policy committee will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow."

Lewis turned away from Chairman Harvey Cartwright and stalked out of the hall. His 100-man negotiating committee followed him.

A few minutes later, John Gall, counsel for the Southern Association, filed charges against Lewis in a letter to Robert N. Denham, counsel of the National Labor Relations Board. A formal charge, with sworn statements, was sent to the NLRB regional office in Baltimore.

The Southern Association accused Lewis of breaking the Taft-Hartley Act by his refusal to bargain with its president, and asked the NLRB to issue a complaint and get a Federal court to order Lewis to bargain.

Will Meet With Each Group

The Southern Association did not take part in drafting the National coal wage contract signed July 7 last year. After the contract was written, Lewis would not let the association sign it, and it was signed by the 14 regional groups—400 mine owners in all—which make up the association. They signed under their regional names, and not in the name of the association.

The old contract binds all who signed it to meet this year to draft a new one. Lewis says he is quite willing to meet with the 14 groups—which have the right to insist that he do so—but that he will not meet with the association—which has not.

Moody claims the 14 groups have named the Southern association their bargaining agent, so he has a right to be heard as its president. Operators who backed up Moody said Lewis was trying to tell the miners whom they should choose to speak for them.

Union Blames Association

Lewis was charged with this, too, in the complaint filed with the NLRB. The Taft-Hartley Act forbids interference with choice of bargaining agents.

UMW Vice President Thomas Kennedy last night said:

"The Southern Coal Producers Association once again has wrecked the efforts of the union and a majority of the bituminous coal operators and producers to bargain in good faith."

Southern mines turn out some 160 million tons a year. The Northern and Western mines, whose spokesmen were seated with no objection, turn out about 270 million tons.

H. K. Cook of Knoxville, Tenn., who spoke for about five million Southern tons, broke away from the other operators to attack the Southern association. He said that in other years the association mines had stayed out of the wage talks. And he said this was because they wanted a separate contract, with a lower wage scale. As for his mines, Cook added, they paid the Northern scale, and there was no reason the other Southern mines could not pay it.

Union Liability For Pay Loss in Strike Denied

By The Associated Press

A National Labor Relations Board examiner yesterday refused to make a striking union pay nonstrikers the wages they lost because picketing kept them from their jobs.

The ruling is the first by an NLRB examiner on the question. The five-man board itself has not passed on it.

The examiner, William F. Scharnikow, found that a group of nonstrikers had been turned away from the Colonial Hardwood Flooring Co. plant at Hagerstown, Md., last October by physical assaults and threats of union officials and pickets during a strike.

The unions involved were the United Furniture Workers of America (CIO) and its Local No. 472.

A claim that the two unions should be required to pay the nonstrikers for the wages they lost was made in the case by aides of NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham.

It was argued that when an employer fires a worker for union activities or some other reason in violation of the labor relations laws, the NLRB makes the employer take the worker back and reimburse him for lost wages.

Denham's office argued that on this principle a picketing union should be made to pay lost wages to workers turned back from their jobs.

Scharnikow, while holding that the Furniture Workers and its local violated the Taft-Hartley act by picketing violence and threats, said any workers excluded from the struck plant could obtain entry with police protection.

"The position of employes restrained by a labor organization from working in a struck plant is not at all comparable to that of employes discriminately discharged by their employer," Scharnikow said.

The Bulge

A communique about the diplomatic reverses of this week and last, written in the language employed by General Marshall in his review of the Battle of the Bulge, would read as follows: Secretary Marshall was determined to give Soviet Russia no chance to recoup from the blows already delivered. Italy had been saved from invasion. The decision had been taken to land ERP in full force on the continent of Europe. The enemy, hitherto committed to the prevention of ERP, had had a friendly warning on May 4 that there would be no faltering in pursuance of our objective of shoring up the defenses of Europe. It was expected that the enemy would retaliate. The problem of where the breakthrough would come preoccupied our strategists between May 4 and May 10. On the evening of the 10th the Russians struck. The blow was delivered through the open door left after our Ambassador had handed his friendly warning to Mr. Molotov. Secretary Marshall failed to react promptly and decisively. Within 24 hours the enemy had gained an initial tactical success with world and American opinion. For the moment we had lost the initiative. And while we were gathering our wits, the enemy launched a second blow, diversionary in intent. The confusion then became confounded, with confidence ebbing away from the command, and the enemy following up the advantage without impediment.

That is the picture, in the language of the Battle of the Bulge, presented by the diplomatic reverses of last week and this. There is still time to recoup the situation. It is not enough to expose the speciousness of the Wallace agenda. On May 5, Senator Vandenberg and Undersecretary Lovett outlined the revision of the U. N. Charter that the United States intended to sponsor. The working paper, which yesterday the Senate Foreign Relations Committee translated into a unanimous resolution, was based upon the relaxation of the right of veto on U. N. membership and on questions relating to the pacific settlement of disputes. Add to these revisions a definition of aggression as spelled out by Molotov in 1939, and the State Department would have an armory of weapons with which to wage a counter-offensive. Such a reaction would restore the State Department prestige with the American people and reclaim the initiative that was seized last June 5 in the presentation of the Marshall Plan and again during the election campaign in Italy. It almost seems as if the State Department wished to keep up a ferment as the necessary atmosphere for actions abroad. That is hardly complimentary to the American people. They have much more sophistication, much more common sense, than they are given credit for by our policy-makers. They expect the tactics actually employed in the Battle of the Bulge to be followed in this diplomacy.

Surplus War Plants

Legislation now pending before the House Armed Services Committee would put a much-needed brake on the profligate disposal of surplus factories built at such great expense by the Government during the war. The bill would assure at least a core of industrial plants readily available for a future emergency. It would require the Secretary of Defense to designate what factories should be sold subject to the national security clause stipulating that they must be reconvertible to their original use on 120 days' notice. Any plants which could not be disposed of by the War Assets Administration with this qualification would be taken over and maintained in readiness by the Federal Works Agency.

It is hard to imagine any measure more directly related to the national security. In the event of another war, the immediate accessibility of industrial plants undoubtedly would be more important than ever before because of the fact, now a truism, that never again is there likely to be a cushion of time for preparedness. Yet up until April 8, when the Administration, after congressional prompting, placed a temporary freeze order on further sales, many plants were being "cannibalized," i. e., disposed of bit by bit with no relation to their future defense use. The importance of the freeze order can be judged by the fact that of approximately 150 remaining plants surveyed by the Munitions Board, 114, which cost taxpayers the tremendous sum of $1,250,000,000, were placed under the protection of the national security clause.

It does not follow, of course, that all of the factories already sold would have been useful for further defense production, or that there was anything illegal in the manner they were disposed of. Nevertheless, there was a great inconsistency in public policy between the destruction of defense plants and the request to Congress to augment the national defense. It is encouraging that action has been taken to secure the barn door even at this late date. Anything else would have made a travesty of the program to draft men to fill the manpower needs of the armed services.

Constitutional Defect

Our present system of electing the President and Vice President is, in considerable measure, a product of two forces that operated a century and a half ago—distrust of the people and spite. Hamilton tells us that the Founding Fathers thought a small specialized body would be better qualified to select an eminent Chief Executive than would the rank and file. On this theory the task of choosing the President was assigned to a group of electors to be appointed by the various State legislatures. It was contemplated that the electors would meet and discuss the candidates and then cast their votes as individuals worthy to be considered men of special discernment. This scheme prevailed in spite of the fact that such men as Madison, Franklin and Charles Carroll preferred direct election by the people.

Spite came into the picture in 1800 when the issue was whether the Presidency was to go to Jefferson or to a Federalist. Several of the Federalist States ordered their electors to vote as a group in spite of the fact that they had previously voted individually and variously in the electoral college. The purpose was to deny Jefferson any votes from those Federalist States. Madison induced Virginia to swing over to the unit system, in spite of his dislike for it, to protect its own candidate against the tactics of the Federalists. Since that time the electors for each State have acted as a unit, with the result of throwing all of each State's electoral votes to the same candidate regardless of how the popular vote may be divided.

That unfair method of utterly denying the minority in each State any voice in the election of the President is still with us. Actually the people took over from the electors the function of choosing the President by the simple device of pledging the electors to vote for the candidate of one or the other of the major political parties. But the unfair distribution of electoral votes persists. Within the States the minority still hasn't a look-in.

Senator Lodge and Representative Gossett are sponsoring amendments to the Constitution to correct this defect. They seek to prevent a candidate with a minority of the popular votes from receiving a majority of the electoral votes and to eliminate the finagling that is threatened in almost every election. Their sensible and much-needed resolutions have been reported out, respectively, by the Senate and House Judiciary Committees. We think it is of the utmost importance that these resolutions be sent promptly to the States for ratification. Fortunately, the Senate leadership has given the Lodge resolution a place in its program of favored legislation. On the House side, however, the resolution reported out nearly two months ago is stalled in that graveyard of legislation—the Rules Committee. Apparently drastic action is needed to dislodge it, and we think the House leadership ought to take such action without further delay.

World's Homeless

A majority of the members of the Senate, according to an informal poll, will support a proposal to admit 200,000 DPs to the United States during the next two years—and without the restrictive and administratively impracticable conditions imposed by the Wiley bill. This would give Senate indorsement to a measure substantially like the Fellows bill, which was approved recently by the House Judiciary Committee. It represents a minimum American contribution to a world-wide task—but nevertheless one that would inaugurate an effective world effort to accomplish that task. This country can absorb 200,000 refugees without the slightest dislocation to its economy. Indeed, these newcomers will prove a valuable addition to a labor force straining to meet the demands of the European Recovery Program in addition to domestic needs. Britain, where workers are recognized as valuable assets to a nation striving to increase production, is now taking in displaced persons at a rate of about 5000 a month.

The Refugee Economic Corporation, which since 1934 has been studying the economic problems of migration, has recently published a booklet, Quest For Settlement, analyzing the suitability of various localities for colonization and development by European settlers. The analysis was conducted under the supervision of Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the Johns Hopkins University and the dean of American geographers. It is interesting to learn from this booklet how wide the world still is and how much of it still urgently needs immigration to realize its potentialities. Madagascar, Southwest Africa, Central America, parts of South America, Australia and the Philippines are among the places enumerated as being now underpopulated and in need of colonization and development.

So far as the Jewish DPs are concerned—they constitute, of course, only about one fifth of the total number—the establishment of an independent Jewish state in Palestine refreshes a hope that has been their sustenance through unimaginable suffering. Israel will welcome all of them who wish to go there and will thus substantially diminish the problem which the rest of the world must meet. Wherever the DPs go, to be sure, economic aid will be needed in order to enable them to make a new start in life. Large-scale irrigation and valley development projects will have to be undertaken in some places. But the whole world will be the wealthier and the healthier for making this migration possible and for assisting in the reclamation of lands now idle and wasted. In all of this, America has a vital role to play—a role which can be played only by demonstrating to the world again the tradition of asylum to the oppressed which has been in the past one of the prime sources of American strength and growth.

Trieste's Moore

The military officer who has been recalled from active duty to be the Army's director of public relations is a man of whom all Americans may well be proud. He is Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, commanding the Eighty-eighth Division, which is guarding the Free Territory of Trieste. The end of the war did not mean relaxation for General Moore; he was given charge of the American section of the so-called Morgan Line in Venezia Giulia, and told to hold it. When the disposition of this territory was made, he was then ordered to fall back on the Free Territory and to do the American part in protecting that, too. His job has been done ceaselessly and conscientiously. Whether his new job will give him any rest or relaxation is dubious. It will certainly be an entirely different kind of service for him, though scarcely less taxing, for the task of dealing with newspaper reporters calls for just as much openness and tact and firmness as the job of dealing with the Yugoslavs.

Why the Yugoslavs, thirsting to absorb Trieste, never broke through the Anglo-American line is a mystery to most people, probably to General Moore as well. Without letup they felt it out, created constant disorder back of the line, and made periodical forays. But they could never make a dent upon the soldierly General Moore and his Eighty-eighth. The general deserves the historic and renowned appellation of Stonewall: Stonewall Moore. On a visit to Trieste we ourselves heard a Yugoslav declare that "everything looks easy except General Moore, but we simply can't get past him." His determination and his rigorous sense of duty are qualities that America needs in this new age of American responsibility. If he were an Englishman, General Moore would doubtless be given a title for his services, something like Lord Moore of Trieste. He is the sort of man who will be quite content with the satisfaction of services rendered. The man on the spot is the man who keeps or throws away the peace more often than is generally realized; General Moore kept the peace because he kept the faith.

Augmented Atom

Security shrouds the details of the tests conducted with the atomic weapons in the Pacific, and it is possible only to conjecture what happened. Staff members attending "Operation Sandstone" have disclosed that there were three explosions "to determine how bombs now under development by the United States would work and to determine their efficiency." It is not impossible that atomic missiles or poisonous atomic clouds also were tested. It is doubtful, however, whether the experiments were concerned with merely larger bombs. Despite the initial prediction of bombs 1000 times as explosive as those dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, it now appears that an increase in explosive efficiency of three or four times is the most that can reasonably be expected.

As Hanson Baldwin notes in his admirable book, The Price of Power, "Since the larger and more powerful the bomb the less its destructive efficiency in proportion to its weight, there would not seem to be much point, even if it were feasible, in increasing indefinitely the power of the bomb." Indeed, probably the most significant finding in the earlier tests at Bikini was the power of the bomb not as an explosive agent but as the dispenser of radioactivity that contaminated water and ships for long periods.

While it is manifestly impossible at this point to determine precisely what the tests disclosed, it is possible to speculate with fair accuracy what they did not show. For all their horrifying proportions, atomic weapons so far have proved to be far from absolute. As a matter of fact, bacteriological warfare is considered by some scientists a much more lethal instrumentality. New uses may have been found for the atom, but there is no more reason to believe that they have suddenly become all-encompassing than there was to believe the first bomb exploded at Alamogordo three years ago would consume the world. In other words, it is important as before to understand the atom for what it is—not a revolutionary, but a tremendous, augmentation of the destructive implements of warfare. Since atoms are not diplomats, we can afford to become neither so indifferent that we fail to comprehend their awful potentialities nor so frightened that we are reduced to a quivering inaction.

TO THE SECRET POETS

Young men of words all stiff like rotten wood,
You young who hide your song beneath a code
To be, perhaps, not clearly understood,
Have scoffed because I bear the poets' load
Of cadenced song and tell so simply what I tell.

Ignore the heart's own rhythm then, you young,
Who say he wins who does it first, not well;
I say he lives whose songs are one day sung.
So let the whole world know the thing I say;
Yes, let it know I love . . . and love the Spring;

I love the secret night and smiling day,
And silver-fountained words that sing, that sing!
Yes, build a moat, young men, and build a wall;
No one will find you out, no one at all.

Check On Graft

That more interest be taken in the proper administration of the affairs of the District, I propose the following procedure relative to participation in its affairs by those from the outside but with interests here:

1. That all nonresidents who are civic minded enough to belong to a club here be allowed, on payment of a poll tax of $1, to vote after such time as legal residents are given the ballot.

2. That all who are part-time workers here be secured in their right to have a voice in District affairs by voting.

A condition that continually brings the cynical eyes of the foreign observers on the methods employed to promote and to protect the various forms of racketeering in the Capital of the world's greatest Nation should be remedied.

Only the interests of Americans all over the United States can stop and prevent the mushroom growth of vice and graft here. Certainly the Nation's Capital should be of concern to all who help to maintain it.

Gambling Defamed

It seems to me that The Washington Post, and the other newspapers here, too, have fallen into an etomological inexactitude which should have been avoided, and which is endangering the success of the district attorney's efforts to stamp out crime.

I refer to the current campaign against the policy racket, and against bookmakers. Why, in heaven's name, do you refer to these sure-thing boys as gamblers?

As one who enjoys flipping the pasteboards and indulging in some other games of chance on occasion, I am by Webster's definition, a gambler. So was George Washington. So were many others. That dictionary definition is too long to quote here, but lengthy as it is, it does not include the crooks Mr. Fay is trying to drive out of town.

Gambling is not dishonorable, whatever else it may be. I believe a true gambler resents, at least subconsciously, having himself linked up with the sure-shot crooks. They never gamble. Why not pin the right label on these crooked gentry? Call them robbers, swindlers, crooks, or anything. Don't call them gamblers. That is what they definitely are not.

Mundt Bill Threat

The Mundt anti-Communist bill aims to discriminate against a political party by legal harassment and terrorization of its adherents and is, therefore, an attack on one of the fundamental freedoms we enjoy. It subverts the system of free choice of representatives on which our whole political structure is built.

The claim that Communist plans for the overthrow of the Government make severe restrictions necessary is a reflection on the well-known willingness and ability of the self-governing American people to take matters into their own hands when their liberties are endangered. The citizen's self-reliance is challenged, his will to freedom is impugned and doubt is cast on American solidarity against attack.

If freedom is to flourish, the accent must ever be on latitude in its practice. This rule holds good in the face of threat. The dictatorship in Russia is founded and sustained on the alleged threat of interference from without. The Mundt bill invites a similar result here. Reliance must be put on the willingness of the people to be free. If such willingness be absent, restrictive laws and the use of force will not avail to keep them free.

But the Mundt bill takes on a more intimate danger to a large segment of its supporters. When interpreted in accordance with its definitions in Section 3 describing what constitutes a breach of the law, the restrictions and penalties can easily be applied to the temporal Catholic Church organization and the large number of voters of that religious persuasion who vote concertedly at the behest of the Vatican.

Without debating the merit and propriety of their activity this classification is unavoidable under the proposed act.

Cooperative Apartments

In Washington and many other cities, apartment house owners are frequently attempting to get around the rent law by selling apartments on the high sounding cooperative plan. In some cases it may be desirable but as a rule it is an evasion. Unless it is checked the rental law will be a law in name only. The Government should make a thorough investigation of the "cooperative plan."

When the owners of "flats," many of which are ancient, wish to reap a golden harvest, they may employ high pressure salesmen to sell them at ridiculous rates. They are aware that tenants have no place to go in a city packed to the gunwales. Elderly persons, who have paid their rentals for decades, are threatened with eviction. Nothing at all is said regarding the disadvantage of purchasing apartments on this basis.

Electoral Vote Units

I write in opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment which would require States to divide their electoral votes instead of casting them as a unit.

It is true that the electoral college can stand considerable reform. However, the proposed amendment would be very unfair. The power which the large States wield by voting as a unit is largely balanced, today, by the advantage which the small States have in casting more electoral votes in proportion to their population than do the larger States. (Nevada, for example, has almost eight times as many electoral votes in proportion to its population as New York does.) The proposed amendment would leave the small States with their excessive representation, while stripping the large States of their balancing advantage.

The proponents of the amendment have two answers for this. One is an appeal to State sovereignty. But, if States really are sovereign, why should they be compelled to split their votes? A sovereign acts as a unit, not in two or three conflicting ways! For example, if opinion in the United States is divided 60-40 on an issue of foreign policy, would anyone expect our representatives at the U. N. to vote 60 per cent for one side of the question and 40 per cent for the other side?

Their other answer, a realistic and frank one, is that the small States will not vote for the amendment unless the advantage which they enjoy is retained. If the small States are that selfish, why should the large States vote for such a one-sided amendment?

Mexican Oil Resources

Much has appeared recently in the press about the oil needs of the United States, our own oil resources and our interests in the oil deposits of the Middle East and in the development of the oil resources of Latin-American countries.

The first, inexorable fact we must face is that our oil needs are increasing more rapidly than is our domestic oil production. That is the overall consideration that must be taken into account. Against that consideration there are a number of other important items:

1. The natural oil resources of the continental United States, while considerable, are being depleted more rapidly than new reserves are being developed.

2. Our capacity for production of oil from other natural resources, while progressing, does not hold out an early prospect of adequate supplementation of natural oil deposits.

3. The Near East oil deposits are considerable and should be available to us. There are, however, some sobering considerations on that source of supply. They are far away from us and involve heavy costs in construction and transportation. Above all, their defensibility in times of crisis and the availability of their oil in times of war are not to be taken for granted. This, of course, does not mean that their peacetime development should be ignored. It does mean that we must make a sober appraisal of their availability to us at a time when they may most be needed.

4. Finally, there are the Latin-American oil deposits. In Venezuela they are being adequately developed. The oil resources of Mexico are not being adequately developed. Yet in all reason Mexican supplies should receive priority in our thinking.

Precise estimates as to the extent of the Mexican oil deposits are not possible. But enough is known to justify the belief of the most eminent geologists and oil experts that the subsoil and off-shore deposits of oil in Mexico constitute an enormous reservoir.

Unfortunately past involvements, misunderstandings—a long and troublesome history in which there is no white or black—have had the effect of confusing or sidetracking immediate realities. My conviction is that there is much to be said for both sides; and, above all, that it is time to let bygones be bygones and to make a new start in a mutually advantageous collaboration in regard to those oil deposits.

Toward such collaboration I think only a few basic conclusions are necessary.

1. The oil is in Mexico and full regard must be had therefore for Mexican sovereignty and for the Mexican constitutional provisions whereby the subsoil treasures are the property of the Mexican people and government.

2. Outside investors and entrepreneurs have a right to just protection of their interests and to a reasonable return out of a fair regard for the contribution to the development of Mexican oil by United States financing, equipment and industrial skills.

No one formula is indicated within the limitations of the above two points. There are several forms whereby there can be cooperation. All that is necessary to insure such a mutually satisfactory cooperation is a recognition of sovereign rights of Mexico and an awareness on our part of the importance, relative safety, and proximity of this oil pool for our own economy and safety. A clear directive is in order from American public opinion to the State Department to explore this possibility most sympathetically and to give every encouragement to proposals along that direction.

Fresh Slant On Europe

By Malvina Lindsay

New Faces Abroad

THE SECOND postwar invasion of Europe by American tourists will really get under way this summer, travel bookings indicate. Yet it will be markedly different from that of the 1920s. It will lack particularly the showy free spenders and the disillusioned, arty young rebels.

True, the rich globe trotters will be on hand as usual—and their dollars will be greatly welcomed. Already in their vanguard is Movie Actress Lana Turner with her $30,000 trousseau and her new millionaire husband. The internationalist set—what remains of it—will be back at the spas and beaches. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are expected to be in southern France.

The best hotels will be filled with those who have to have their service, but even there the high, wide and handsome living of a quarter of a century ago is not expected to be so much in evidence. Americans don't feel so hilarious as they did then—and with good reason. And though the richer ones may be ready to buy what they want, they are beginning to count their change.

BUT THE BULK of the 300,000 or more tourists that Europe is waiting to clasp to its bosom will be average Americans—students, teachers, professional people, clerical workers, honeymooning couples on modest allowances, and above all, housewives.

In place of the bored, rebellious young men and women who fled in the 1920s from a "soulless" country that didn't "understand" them there will be around 6000 enthusiastic college boys and girls eager to improve themselves and the world. Two American ships, the Marine Tiger and Marine Jumper, are being allotted to student-exchange service this summer by the United States Maritime Commission. The Netherlands government is giving the services of two Dutch transports. These four will provide low-cost travel for students. European universities are offering special summer courses for the young visitors. Work opportunities abroad also are being rounded up for youths who want them.

Europe is also expecting to get better acquainted with the average American housewife. For she is becoming this country's chief foreign emissary. A survey of 1391 air travelers made for TWA's international division showed that of all occupations of passengers, housewives led the list, numbering 18 per cent. Merchants were next, then students, technical workers and skilled laborers. It was found that tourists in average wage groups far outnumbered those in higher income brackets. Occupations ordinarily rating high from a traffic standpoint provided only 11 per cent of the total.

ALL OF THESE average Americans will be swarming over Europe this summer, traveling in the fleet of new Swedish superbuses built to cart tourists, or on trains, on bicycles or on foot. Some of them, eager to get the most foreign flavor out of their trips, will lodge with foreign families.

While none of these visitors will be throwing money around or tipping recklessly, yet in their solid expenditures they will be helping to speed European recovery—and increase American foreign trade. The dollars they spend for food, lodging, transportation and goods will be used by foreigners to buy the American products so desperately needed. These tourists will be able to do a great deal more toward European recovery if Congress passes legislation now before it to raise the amount of duty-free goods an American may bring back from $100 to $500.

All western European countries are sacrificing in order to offer the best hospitality possible to this summer's tourists. They are also planning to make such hospitality in the future a major industry. For under the European Recovery Program help can be given in building up investment in tourist trade, as hotels and equipment. And this country may help the cause if it decides to build the 50 new passenger ships recommended by the Navy Department. It begins to look as if Europe will soon be something more to Americans than a varicolored splotch on a geography map.

Tit For Tat

It is fascinating to observe the amount of publicity that is being given to the story of the American Embassy soldier who succumbed to a Soviet temptress and deserted his country. Apparently he picked the right moment, too. For isn't this precisely the time when we are supposed to be righteously in favor of the Soviet Embassy employe in Canada who deserted his country and let them make a motion picture about it?

It is to be hoped, however, that the Soviets will not counter "The Iron Curtain" with an equally inept attempt to show up the United States as a country full of villains and idiots. There are enough bad-will ambassadors in the world already. How about overlooking the incident, Comrades?

Salary Blunder

Why didn't George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion get its basic facts straight in its poll of May 16? The salaries of the Vice President of the United States and the Speaker of the House of Representatives were fixed at $20,000 per annum (not $15,000) by the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Stalin And The Wallace Letter

IF GENERALISSIMO STALIN is as much of a political realist as he is a military realist he must know that Mr. Wallace's open letter could not become the "concrete program" for a peaceful settlement of our differences.

Lippmann

MR. WALLACE proposes a general reduction of armaments, "outlawing all methods of mass destruction," that is to say, strategic air power. He proposes to stop "the export of weapons by any nation to any other nation," that is to say, any form of lend-lease. He has nothing to say about the size of the Red army and of the satellite armies of eastern Europe.

No wonder that on first thought his proposals were so attractive to the Generalissimo. But on second thought Stalin will have to admit that they are too good to be true. For the Wallace program, though Mr. Wallace may not realize it, would leave the Red army supreme and unopposed on the Eurasian continent. It is not a program for general disarmament. It is a program, more naive than it is ingenious, for the unilateral disarmament of the non-Soviet world.

INSTEAD OF redressing the balance of power, which is essential to the negotiation of any true settlement and to its maintenance, the Wallace program would, if we were so silly as to adopt it, leave Russia paramount throughout Europe and Asia and the United States isolated in the Western Hemisphere.

For Russian military power consists of some 20 million men of military age, recruited by conscription, under unified command, capable of marching into all the disputed areas of Europe and Asia. They are armed with deadly weapons, deadly enough to have defeated the flower of the German army. But they are not, "weapons of mass destruction." They are machine guns, artillery, tanks, tactical airplanes—weapons which would not be "outlawed" by the Wallace program.

THE RUSSIAN military power cannot, as a matter of fact, be disarmed. It is not in "armaments". It is in inexhaustible reserves of soldiers. These soldiers can be withdrawn into the Soviet Union. They can be demobilized and sent back to the farms and factories. But that is all. There is in reality no such thing as Russian disarmament. There is only Russian demobilization.

The United States, and the western nations, on the other hand, have no great mass of military manpower. They are separated by the ocean. The military power of the non-Soviet world is in its armaments, which are capable of striking at long range—in complicated and expensive engines and machines which take years to manufacture, which only the United States can in fact manufacture in large quantities.

The non-Soviet world can, therefore, be disarmed. Indeed, it becomes disarmed whenever the manufacture and replacement of its engines of war is stopped. Then, while it might take Russia three months to remobilize fully, it might take the United States three years to rearm fully. For this reason, there is no acceptable basis of settlement in a program which could at best bring about a partial and temporary demobilization in Russia and would surely bring about a long disarmament in the West.

The basis, therefore, of any discussion which could lead to a genuine settlement is not the abandonment but the completion of an American program of rearmament and of military assistance to western Europe. There has been some fear expressed that the Russian "peace offensive" is designed to influence Congress to cut down appropriations and to postpone the draft. Perhaps. But we must assume that Mr. Taber and his colleagues will not be hornswoggled that easily, and that they will see that what has made the Kremlin so interested in talking is the growing strength and unity of the western world.

BUT IF a redressment of the balance of power is indispensable to negotiation, it is at the same time imperative that we should try to make it clear to ourselves and to the Russians what is the basic issue that has to be settled.

This we have not yet done directly, explicitly, and affirmatively. The issue is whether Europe is to be partitioned into a Soviet and an American bloc, or whether the European nations are to become sufficiently united to be an independent power in the world—friendly to both Russia and America but not the satellites and clients of either.

If and when genuine discussions begin, intimate, frank, and thorough, that will be the central subject of the discussion. It is a subject which Churchill, Roosevelt, and Stalin would at least have known how to discuss, however difficult it might have been even for them to reach agreement. The problem now is to find men competent to discuss it and to create the conditions under which they could begin to discuss it.

FOR THE moment all that can be said is that though the atmosphere is bad, though the statesmen are tired and irritable, and disposed each to go on playing his own phonograph record, there is throughout the world, in Russia, in America and all over Europe a rising popular demand for statesmen who will seek the answer, no matter how long it takes, no matter how often they fail.

4 Maryland 4-H Youths Will Go To Europe in June

Four young Maryland 4-H members will sail for Europe next month to take part in international farm youth activities, the University of Maryland Agricultural Extension Service reported yesterday.

One, 26-year-old Ruth Akehurst of Sparks, will represent Maryland 4-H in an international exchange project sponsored by the State Department and Federal and State extension services. After a short stay in England, she will go to a farm in Denmark for the remainder of the summer.

Maryland's 1947 champion 4-H cattle judging team will represent the United States in international competition at the royal fair in York, England, on July 6-9. Members are William Curry, 17, Queen Anne, Talbot County; Allen Hill, 19, Woodbine, Howard County, and James Moxley, 17, West Friendship, Howard County.

Teams from the Free State visited England in 1922, 1923, 1926 and 1931, copping the world championship every time except in 1926.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Danger To Freedom

THE HOUSE of Representatives has approved a piece of legislation the like of which has never been seen under the American form of government with its guarantee of freedom to speak, freedom to worship and freedom to vote. It would give to the Attorney General of the United States powers so broad that he could regulate and coerce the thought of millions of Americans.

Childs

In its first test, the Mundt bill won approval by more than seven to one. It got the votes of those very Representatives who talk loudest against regimentation and the power of the state.

In this and two following columns, I want to analyze that bill in relation to the problem of freedom versus security. The Stassen-Dewey debate has helped to put the issue in the forefront of public interest. But even so, most Americans, distracted by the problems of living in a period of soaring inflation, are hardly aware of what is at stake. It is high time, in my opinion, that they understand the issue.

In the haystack of fact and fiction that the House Un-American Activities Committee has put together, the pattern of the conspiratorial Communist intrigue is clear enough for anyone to see. It has been spelled out many times before, perhaps most clearly and authoritatively in the report of the Canadian Royal Commission that investigated the conspiracy directed by Soviet agents to steal secrets from the government in Ottawa.

Such a conspiracy is illegal, immoral; it shatters all the relationships of faith and confidence that hold a society together. Therefore, says Representative Karl Mundt of South Dakota, there ought to be a law.

MUNDT'S intentions are clear enough: This is an evil and we can abolish it by law. He and his colleagues put a great deal of time and study into drafting the Mundt bill.

In my opinion, that bill threatens the foundation of the house of freedom. It gives a grant of almost dictatorial power that could be used not merely to check the Communist conspiracy but to end all independence of thought in this country.

The bill, in section 4, provides that it shall be unlawful for any person "to attempt in any manner to establish in the United States totalitarian dictatorship, the direction and control of which is to be vested in, or exercised by or under the domination or control of, any foreign government, foreign organization or foreign individual." It goes on with even more specific language and provides penalties including imprisonment up to 10 years.

As Representative John Carroll of Colorado pointed out in the debate, this would include the Communist Party, and therefore the bill outlaws the party even though its sponsors say it does not do so. Harold Stassen said the same thing in his debate with Governor Dewey.

UNDER THE BILL, "Communist-front organizations" must register with the Attorney General and publicly make known, in a variety of ways, the fact that they are Communist-front organizations. The bill sets up four tests to determine whether a "front" is "under the control of a Communist political organization."

The fourth test is "the position taken or advanced by it (the front) from time to time on matters of policy." If it fails to pass "some or all" of the tests, then "it is reasonable to conclude" that it is a front organization and therefore subject to the law. This conclusion can be reached if the Attorney General decides that the front's views and policies are in general adopted and advanced because such views or policies are those of a Communist political organization, a Communist foreign government or the world Communist movement . . . (previously defined)."

One of the "methods commonly used" by Communist political organizations, the bill sets forth, is "the inciting of economic, social and racial strife and conflict." It is not hard to see how the power granted to the Attorney General could be stretched to cover any organization or individual advocating social or economic change of any kind.

Here, in my opinion, is the essence of the danger. The power granted the Attorney General would not have to be stretched very far to cover organizations proceeding in a wholly American way to advocate reforms that might not be popular with the majority or with powerful minorities. Judicial review is provided, but this remedy would come after an organization had been publicly branded as Communist.

Before this can appear in print, the bill may be amended. But in the opinion of many who have studied it, no amount of amending can remove the danger to freedom inherent in it, nor will amending make it constitutional.

23 Evangelical and Reformed Synods Approve Merger With Congregationalists

The Evangelical and Reformed Church has approved a proposed merger with the Congregational Christian Churches, according to an announcement made in Philadelphia this week.

Originally approved by the General Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the merger was referred to the 34 Synods for action. Approval of 23 (two thirds) was required. To date, according to the announcement, 27 have voted on the plan and only one, the Dakota Synod, has turned it down.

The Potomac Synod, which includes the Greater Washington area, has not yet taken action on the merger, according to the Rev. Charles Enders, pastor of Concordia Evangelical and Reformed Church. He said the matter will be taken up at a meeting at Frederick, Md., June 10 and 11.

Would Have 9000 Congregations

The new denomination, if approved by the Congregational Christian Churches, would include four bodies which were separate in 1930 and will be called the United Church of Christ. It would have about 9000 congregations and nearly two million members.

The Evangelical Synod of North America and the Reformed Church in the United States united to form the Evangelical and Reformed Church in 1934. The Congregational Christian Churches are the result of a 1931 merger of the Congregational Churches in the United States and the Christian Church.

Congregational Units Voting

The Congregational Christian Churches are voting on the union by conferences, associations, churches and members. If three-fourths of each group voting approves the measure, the General Council will approve the Basis of Union at a meeting in Oberlin, Ohio, in June, and arrangements for a uniting meeting of the denominations will be made.

Frederick L. Fagley, associate secretary of the general council of the Congregational Christian Churches in New York, said yesterday that complete returns from his denomination will not be available before May 27.

Goes to Court on Oriole License

The Capital Transit Co. yesterday asked District Court to set aside an order granting the Oriole Motor Co. a license to pick up passengers along a loop line running into Maryland off Georgia and Alaska aves.

The Interstate Commerce Commission order grants the Oriole firms the right to a line running between the Georgia ave. terminal and between Wheaton and Four Corners, Md.

Capital Transit said the order is illegal and creates unfair competition. It has pending before the Public Utilities Commission in Maryland a license covering the same area the Oriole Co. would service.

Miss Frances Brown Becomes President of Chevy Chase Junior College

Miss Frances Raymond Brown yesterday became president of Chevy Chase Junior College, a post she has held in acting capacity since the resignation of Miss Carrie Sutherlin last July.

Brown

Announcement of Miss Brown's appointment was made on Tuesday by the Board of Trustees.

The new president joined the college staff as dean in July, 1944. During the war, she was associated for 18 months with the Red Cross, engaged in editorial work at headquarters here.

The daughter of Dr. Barnum Brown, curator emeritus of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, Miss Brown holds B. A. and M. A. degrees.

The educator attended schools in Oxford, N. Y., and was graduated from St. Agnes School, Albany, N. Y. Her B. A. degree with honors in English was awarded by Wells College, Aurora, N. Y. Her master's degree was granted by the University of Chicago. In addition, Miss Brown holds a teacher's certificate in voice from Peabody Conservatory, Baltimore.

At one time, Miss Brown was English instructor at Hannah More Academy, Reisterstown, Md.

Her other activities included heading the English department of the former Arlington Hall Junior College, Arlington, and acting as dean of the former Mary Lyon Junior College, Swarthmore, Pa.

AMERICAN'S CONVAIRS ARE COMING!

Baptists Deny Truman a Pat For Palestine

Memphis, Tenn., May 19 (AP).—The Southern Baptist Convention today rejected a move to commend President Truman for his recognition of the new nation of Israel.

The motion was offered by the Rev. Ed Solomon of Jacksonville, Fla., editor of the Florida Baptist Witness. It was defeated by a standing vote after the Rev. L. E. Barton of Montgomery, Ala., convention parliamentarian, charged that Truman's action was "probably for the purpose of winning the Jewish vote in New York State." The convention indorsed its executive committee's proposal for a minimum over-all South-wide goal of 10 million dollars for 1949.

The foreign misison board was allotted the highest figure of the budget—two million dollars.

The Rev. Slater A. Murphy of Memphis, chairman of the committee on local arrangements, estimated that 15,000 messengers—delegates—and visitors are attending the five-day convention.

Trial of Canning Slated for Today

The thrice-postponed trial of Greenbelt Mayor Thomas J. Canning, accused of assaulting a former town policeman, is slated for 10 a. m. today in Hyattsville Police Court.

Canning was accused in a warrant sworn out by former Policeman Robert Dodge, now a Public Building detective, after he shook his finger in Dodge's face during a discussion at a meeting of the Greenbelt Town Council last March 15. The mayor has entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

Canning declined to have the case dismissed for lack of evidence two weeks ago, when Dodge expressed a wish to nolle prosse the charge.

'Don't Remember,' Rape Suspect Says

Theodore M. Holmes, 22, who is being tried for the rape of a 9-year-old girl, testified yesterday he couldn't remember whether he was convicted of manslaughter in North Carolina January 2, 1945, and whether he served 18 months in prison.

The prosecution, which has asked for the death penalty in Holmes' District Court trial, rested its case yesterday and Holmes took the stand.

On direct examination he said he didn't remember anything about the rape. He said on the day of the rape—March 18—a truck driver, Alfred Louis, struck him in the mouth and after that he remembered nothing.

Holmes testified there was a gap in his memory until the night of March 19 when he found himself in a police station, being questioned by police.

Says Policeman Slapped Him

He said he was slapped by one police officer and picked out Lieut. John B. Layton of the sex squad in the courtroom as the man. He declared another detective rapped him on the head with a blackjack.

"If you don't remember what happened for a day and a half, how would you remember that the police hit you?" inquired Justice Edward M. Curran.

"I don't know," Holmes replied.

"Did you tear this girl's clothes off?" asked Justice Curran.

"I don't know," said the defendant.

"Did you rape her? Did you beat her? Did you kick her?" inquired the jurist.

Suggests He's "Out of My Head"

Each time Holmes replied, "I don't know," then adding, "Maybe I'm out of my head."

When questioned by his attorney, Maurice Weeks, Holmes testified he had had relations with his girl friend earlier in the week the rape occurred.

"You don't remember serving 18 months in prison," said Justice Curran, "but you do remember having relations with your girl friend?"

"That's right," answered Holmes placidly.

After a bench conference Assistant United States Attorney John C. Conliff, jr., told reporters he will call Government psychiatrists to the stand today to prove Holmes is sane.

'Mystery Witness' Identified

Miller said he had not, and had no idea he was going to testify until he received a subpena.

With Jury 2½ Hours

Lieutenant Blick was closeted with the grand jury yesterday for 2½ hours. Blick came out of the grand jury room carrying a bulging black briefcase and just smiled when asked for comment.

Before the probe began, Lieut. Blick was assisting United States Attorney George Morris Fay in attempting to acquaint regular grand juries with Washington's gambling situation.

After Fay announced that a special grand jury would be impaneled to investigate a "100-million-dollar-a-year" gambling racket here, Blick was named to head a special squad, which compiled from police information the records on 145 "bigger gamblers" operating here.

Fay and his assistants, John W. Fihelly and Charles B. Murray, who are presenting the gambling information to the grand jury, yesterday maintained their strict policy of "no comment" to reporters during the probe.

The special grand jury, which had met Tuesday in the criminal division of Municipal Court, held its session yesterday in the District Court Building.

No information on when or where the special jury meets is being announced, with reporters left to their own devices to "find" the jury, and identifying witnesses who appear before it.

Network Kills Stassen-Dewey Communist Reply

New York, May 19 (AP).—A broadcast scheduled for tonight to permit the Communist Party to reply to charges made in the Thomas E. Dewey-Harold E. Stassen debate Monday night was canceled today.

The Mutual Broadcasting System said the 9 p. m. (EST) program was cut out when the Communist Party refused to appear against Norman Thomas, Socialist presidential candidate.

A Communist Party spokesman said, however, Mutual had informed the party it had been unable to find a Congressman who would appear on the program in opposition. The Communist answer to the Dewey-Stassen statements was to evolve around a debate on the Mundt-Nixon bill to control subversive activities.

The spokesman said the party had declined to debate with Thomas because "his views on the bill are not clearly defined." He said no reply had been received from the ABC and the NBC networks to similar requests for radio time.

Special Improvement Districts Approved

Creation of two new special improvement districts in Prince Georges County was approved by the County Commissioners yesterday at a zoning hearing in the County Service Building at Hyattsville.

The new districts will be set up in Beaver Heights subdivision, near Kenilworth, and in Pine Crest subdivision, near Takoma.

The commissioners approved six applications for rezoning, denied three and continued action on three others. Three of the rezonings were for commercial use, two were for apartment construction and one was for industrial purposes.

One on the Aisle—

Art Suffocates A Noble Notion

By Richard L. Coe

THE IMPECCABLE PERFORMANCES of Productions, Incorporated, often make one feel like a subscriber of the Reader's Digest trapped in a salt mine with a copy of the Kenyon Review.

In short, I am much interested in what the folks up at the tiny theater in the courtyard of 2118 Massachusets ave. are doing, though I am by no means certain exactly what they think they are doing.

At the moment, under the direction of Horton Foote they are playing his latest drama, "Themes and Variations." This is, to quote the program, "a composite of the many influences and themes indigenous to our country's life and culture—religious, literary, musical and human."

What Foote and his colleagues appear to be attempting is to evolve a new use for the stage, a means of stating things in a different form than that to which theatergoers are accustomed. By fusing poetry, dance and music with the traditional magic of make-believe, they certainly are on the right track.

Indicative of the potential effectiveness of this style is New York's "Ballet Ballads," the Experimental Theater offering which has just moved uptown to the Music Box. The result of coordination from John Latouche, Jerome Moross, Mary Hunter, Katherine Litz, Paul Godkin and Hanya Holm is generally agreed to be delightful.

I wish I could say the same of "Theme and Variations." Fundamentally, however, Foote's play is simply an overlong twist on Denman Thompson's warhorse of the '80s, "The Old Homestead," though, to be sure, Foote's hero doesn't make good in the big city. His story tells of a farm boy's preference for a city's glamour to a farm's labor; his girl waits for him while he's exposed to the hard life of the city and his parents keep the bank from foreclosing on her parents' far

Repetitious Form Irritating

This certainly might have made a charming piece in briefer form. But Foote's imitative repetition of lines: "Are you going to the dance?" "Are YOU going to the dance?" "Are you going to the DANCE?" becomes simply irritating. His over-all tone is somber and even his brighter sequences are gray rather than light-filled. There is certainly no originality to either his theme or to his handling, which one might have followed in Paris 20 years ago under the guidance of Henry Miller.

The music, which has been composed by Robert Evett, is just as artificially contrived as Foote's prose. His central theme is the Doxology ("Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow"', the harmony of which he has altered to a presumably solemn mood and the tune of which he has tampered with by shifting certain notes so that one imagines one or two keys of the back-stage piano are out of condition.

Certainly the music seems to fit Foote's prose, but that is exactly the essence of my criticism. I do not object to innovations or even to altering accepted forms, but surely something equally strong must be substituted. While Evett's score is limited to a piano, which would presumably make impossible such effective use of the same music as Deems Taylor so thrillingly achieved for his "Plow that Broke the Plains" score, if Evett insists on "interpreting" the theme he would do better to do so in a less-self-conscious way.

As usual with Productions, Incorporated, offerings, "Theme and Variations" is impeccably presented, precise and finely drilled. But what this group would benefit from is less manner and more matter. The play will continue through Sunday, June 6, with no Monday night performances.

THE BUS AND THE BUSS highlight the opening of today's only new film, "The Mating of Millie" at the Warner . . . tonight's performance will be attended by a group of bus drivers from Capital Transit who will pass on Glenn Ford's performance as a bus driver who makes time with Evelyn Keyes . . . the buss has to do with what the Warner promises is something new in kissing . . . called the "sliding kiss," this, the Warner insists, "has to be seen to be appreciated" . . . "It slides!" they cry! . . . where do you suppose the Warner people have been all these years?

THE HOLDOVER parade includes "The Iron Curtain" at the Capitol, "The Search" at the Playhouse, "Die Fledermaus" at the Little, "Jenny Lamour," successfully contending with the iron obstruction (we almost said curtain) in front of the Dupont . . . "Duel in the Sun" comes back today to the Palace at, as they so charmingly put it, "popular prices" and "The Mark of Zorro," after months of postponements, returns to the Columbia with Tyrone Power . . . Saturday "Old Los Angeles" will bring William Elliott and Catherine McLeod into the Metropolitan and "Fanny" will start its second week at the Hippodrome.

THE ROOSEVELT MASQUERS will play "The Rose of the Rancho" tonight and Friday night at 8:30 at Roosevelt Auditorium, 13th and Upshur sts. . . . this is the David Belasco drama in which Frances Starr scored one of her earliest successes and one wonders if the now Mrs. Whitten of Kalorama rd. will be on hand to see Pauline Eaton Oak's cast of 40 . . . A good deal will be made of the music from the Takoma Mandoleers.

PICTURES, and a lot of them, of the Celebrities Golf Tournament will go on view at the Trans-Lux today.

Rise Stevens Wins 6-Love in Coliseum

By Paul Hume

Maryland: 46—Visitors: 56.

That's the way the score board read all through Rise Stevens' concert last night in Ritchie Coliseum at Maryland University. Nothing could have been further from the truth.

As far as the 5000 listeners in the packed house were concerned, Stevens won six-love, six-love, six-love, as they say in tennis. The concert wound up Maryland's cultural series for the year, which included a program by the National Symphany Orchestra under Howard Mitchell. Presented by the Public Functions Committee of the University, the program included offerings from the men's and women's glee clubs separately, and Bizet's Agnus Dei with Miss Stevens on the solo line.

Dressing her Metropolitan Opera glamour in a stunning gown named "The Egg and I," Stevens sang almost the same songs she presented earlier this season in Constitution Hall. The dress had a nice big barnyard placed in a strategic spot. The lower part of the dress was covered with roosters, hens and eggs.

It almost makes us wish Stevens had sung poorly because then we could say she laid an egg. But factually, she was in the best voice we have heard in several years and reminded us of how well she used to sing all the time.

Brooks Smith was her accompanist as usual. It was fun to translate the Maryland State motto hanging on the wall behind the artists as they went through the program. Loosely translated it might go, "Men do all the work while the women talk."

The evening proceeded peacefully enough through some fine songs and good singing. When we reached the final group of Carmen arias, Miss Stevens remembered that she was wearing her barnyard dress. According to her interpretation, Carmen was brought up in such a place. From then on, as far as Bizet was concerned, sex was rampant. You should have heard the whistles mixed with thundering applause.

The choruses under Harlan Randall sang well. Maryland is a large university, and with its potentialities, ought to devote more time to its cultural program. Last night was a good close to an ambitious start.

X-Ray 'Scope To Let Doctors Peer Into Body

New York, May 19 (AP).—An "X-ray telescope" announced today promises to give doctors living movies telling scores of things about the human body that they couldn't see before.

In effect, it nearly brings sunlight into the human body. It can make X-ray images on a fluorescent screen 500 times brighter than they now are, Westinghouse research laboratories scientists said. It was developed by Dr. John W. Coltman, 32-year-old physicist.

Dr. Coltman said the new tube would enable physicians to make out objects separated by as little as five-thousandths of an inch.

Some backaches can be cured just by "painting" behind the nose to put certain nerves to sleep, Dr. J. Lewis Amster said today.

The painting consists of applying a local anesthetic to a little cluster of nerve cells on the wall of one of the sinuses.

The treatment has been effective in relieving some cases of low back pains, of the kind that seem to have no physical reason, Dr. Amster told the New York State Medical Society.

The New York City physician reported some success also against a few cases of migraine headaches, painful shoulder spasms, persistent hiccoughing, stiff necks and shingles—a painful nerve disease.

Big Increase Seen for Schools

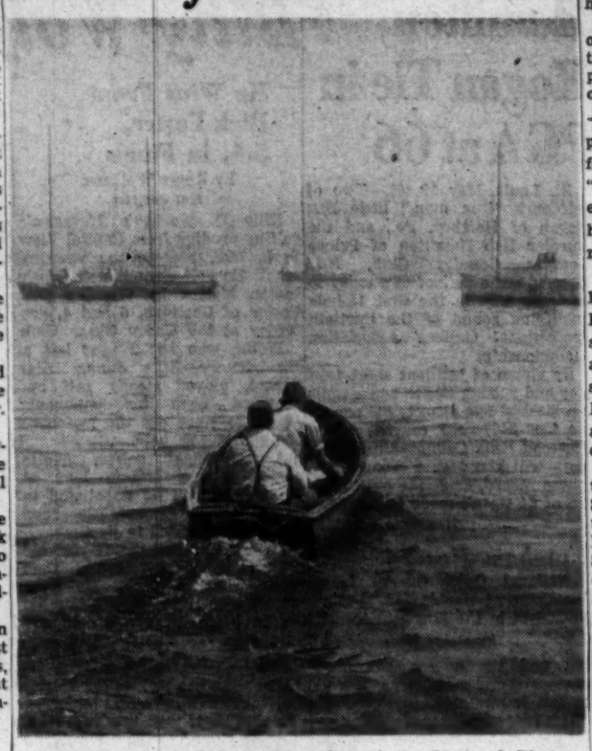

Arlington public schools can expect a one-third enrollment increase over 1947-48 in the first grade during the next school year, the county School Board said yesterday.

After studying a recently report released U. S. Census Bureau survey of Arlington school population, the board said first-grade enrollment would jump from the present 1451 to an estimated 1950.

Of the new first-graders next year, 1800 are expected to be white and 150 nonwhite. Boys and girls are expected to be about equal in number.

Plant Does 15,000 Rolls of Film a Week

Grand honors at this month's salon of the National Photographic Society went to Mortimer Friedman for this marine scene called "Into the Fog." Friedman has captured the feeling of early morning readying of the sail boats and the misty atmosphere of the harbor

By Ollie Atkins

IF YOU think processing a single roll of film is a headache you should visit one of the country's largest photo finishing plants—the Hicks Photo Finishers, 1420 Wisconsin ave. nw., and see where they put 15,000 rolls of film through the mill weekly.

"Bud" Schulman, sales manager of the corporation, showed this writer through the Georgetown plant on the day which marked the first month's operation of a $20,000 kodak automatic processor which can roll forth 3240 prints per hour.

Some 400 stores in the Washington-Baltimore area gather films for Hicks' finishings. Schulman claims his outfit is the second largest operation of its kind in the country. He said the biggest is in Kansas City.

Eighty employes work in two shifts to turn the picture out. Men in the film developing room work in nigh total darkness and the girls in the printing rooms under weak yellow safelights. Music is piped in to keep spirits up.

12 Minutes in Tank

Two developing machines drop the films in temperature-controlled tanks filled with a new fine grain developer called "durol" for 12 minutes. Next the film gets a quick dunking in short stop and then goes through two tanks of rapid fixing solution. Final dipping is into the washers. All steps in the developing processes are mechanical and films are developed strictly by time and temperature. Drying of film is with infrared lighting and spot-proof manner which takes 40 minutes. The entire time lapse from unrolling the film to its removal from the drying rack is 1 hour and 40 minutes.

Printing is with a photoelectric cell roll head printer, a development of the V-mail machine. An operator can turn out about 8000 prints in an eight-hour day. The printing paper is coated with "unicontrast" emulsion which can properly print most negatives. Unusual negatives are sent through special and printed by hand.

On the $20,000 automatic processor, the first to be installed in this section, exposed rolls of paper are unwound mechanically, fed through the print developing, fixing and drying chemicals, and onto a circular ferrotype drum for drying.

Darkroom Havoc

Some of the things which worry the amateur in a small way raise havoc in darkroom operations of the Hicks' size. For instance, it was found that every so often all the prints going through the electric eye printers would run underexposed. Technicians from Eastman came down and after exploring all reasonable causes finally found the trouble happened only when Wisconsin ave. trolleys were passing the building and somehow altering the current and operation of the exposing gear.

Schulman spoke well of amateur snapshooters by reporting only 1 per cent of the films taken are total flops. Seventy per cent of all the pictures developed are made by local cameramen, the other 30 per cent being made by tourists.

The peak of the processing business comes during the cherry blossom and Easter seasons with a record of 86,000 rolls of film handled during one month when the shutterbugs were really clicking them fast.

Camera clubs and interested groups who would like to visit the Hicks Photo Finishers may call Schulman at Michigan 2050 for appointment.

Mrs. Sandra Thaw, 5037 Millwood la. nw., and Marlys Edman of 705 18th st. nw., took honors in the color slide (2x2) contest conducted by The Camera magazine of Baltimore.

Twenty-five dollars and a fourth-place ribbon went to Mrs. Thaw for her color picture entitled "Tending Their Flocks." A shot entitled "Water Lilies" won an honorable mention for Marlys Edman.

Judges were Alfred DeLardi of Holiday magazine; Franklin L. Fisher, chief of illustrations division, the National Geographic magazine; Wilbur Hunter, Peale Museum in Baltimore; H. J. Johnson, Photographic Society of America, and Victor Keppler, advertising color photographer.

An exhibition of photographs by the students and faculty of Silver Spring's National School of Photography will be on view at the Hecht Co., Silver Spring, through Saturday. Each photograph is catalogued as to lens, shutter speed and paper used.

Slides Down Bannister On 101st Birthday

Scranton, Pa., May 19 (AP).—Florence Dolp slid down the bannister of her home today to start her 101st year.

After the before-breakfast slide on what she calls "my horse, pet," the Pennsylvania Medical Society presented a plaque in recognition of her age.

Each holiday and anniversary Miss Dolph takes a ride on the bannister. She did the trick twice on her 100th birthday but this year didn't seem in as good health.

In gay spirits, however, Miss Dolph had hearty greetings for friends and relatives.

Wynn Pinch-Hits Nats to 4-1 Victory

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

CHICAGO, MAY 19.—They call it the PGA Tournament but the man who wins it is closer to being the golf champion of the world than the winner of any other tournament. That's the honor they're contesting for this week at the Norwood Hills course in St. Louis, where the qualifying started today.

POVICH

The National Open is supposed to be a bigger tournament, but the pros will argue about that. The National Open is medal play, and that's the difference. The PGA is knock-down, drag-out match play, more demanding in competitive spirit, with your opponent always in view and the pros always knowing how well they have to shoot to win.

Norwood Hills is one of the better tests. The course wasn't fashioned for the long drivers. It isn't a lengthy links as championship layouts go and its 6400 yards in fact rank it among the shorter courses. But it's hilly and it's bristling with trouble for the errant pros, particularly the 555-yard fourteenth hole, all up-grade, and it's rumored that the architects hired the three Marines of Iwo Jima fame to plant the flag on the green.

IT'S A COURSE where Bobby Locke, the down-the-fairway South African who is rarely in trouble, would be a distinct threat, but the American pros do not have Locke to contend with in this tournament. George Schneiter, PGA boss, arbitrarily banned Locke this year after he was permitted to play last season. In justice to most of the pros they didn't like Schneiter's action.

Jim Ferrier, the transplanted Australian, is defending the title this week. He could win it again, of course. There was nothing tainted about his victory of last season and he has demonstrated that he belongs in the top bracket of the pros. He has the match play temperament that is so valuable in head-to-head golf.

The man who would be the top favorite to take it all in this tournament isn't in it, however. He is Byron Nelson, who retired from competition in deference to his health. But there was nothing apparently serious about Nelson's health last weekend in the Celebrities Tournament at Columbia Country Club where he slogged through the rain with an amazing sub par 67.

THERE'S A MAN with a mission in the tournament, too. He's Lew Worsham, the National Open champion, who would like very much to win this one and solidify his fame. Worsham has won little since his upset victory in last year's open, and is eager to deliver himself from the label of fluke champion. He's back on his game, and is partial to the match play conditions of the PGA.

Somewhere among the tournament favorites and ranking high will be Ben Hogan and Sammy Snead, the two men with all the shots if Snead's putting is to be excepted. Hogan won the PGA two years ago, and is such a good golfer that it is somewhat surprising whenever he doesn't win a tournament. But he has been in trouble more this year than in any other season, despite his diligent practice-tee sessions.

Snead's putting is one of the favorite topics of both the golf pros and the duffers. They don't quite understand the putting-green yips of Slamming Sammy, who is not fazed by heavier trouble in the rough and traps, yet blows short putts. The fact is, though, that Snead is a good long putter. It's only the little ones that bother him.

THE CASH AWARD to the PGA winner isn't much. The winner of any tournament on the pro circuit gets a bigger cash prize, but indirectly it's a valuable tournament to win. It establishes the winner high in the golf scale and nets him connections with the golf equipment firms, or if he already is connected it wins him a better contract.

In fact, the people with perhaps the biggest stake in the PGA tournament are Spalding's and the Wilson Company and Goldsmith, whose golf ball and club sales are affected directly by the success of the pros who bear their banners. The exclusion of Locke was a blow, in fact, at Dunlop, whose colors are borne by the South African and whose sales have skyrocketed with his success.

Hamilton, Hogan Tie in PGA at 66

St. Louis, May 19 (AP).—Two of golfdom's "iron men," little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and the sturdier Bob Hamilton of Prince Georges Country Club, Md., chipped out a pair of 66's today to lead the way in the first 18-hole qualifying round of the thirtieth Professional Golfers' Association championship.

By virtue of brilliant short iron play and putting Hogan and Hamilton slashed five strokes off par 71 for the 6467-yard course at the Norwood Hills Country Club. This score will stand as a competitive course record, since the old standard of 64 wasn't made in competition and the course has been lengthened and made more difficult for this tournament.

Worsham Has 74

National Open Champ Lew Worsham, of Washington, shot a 36-38—74 in the first round.

This pair of former champions—Hamilton won in 1944 and Hogan in 1946—held only a one-stroke lead after the opening round, as the short, tricky course took quite a beating from the 133 starters.

Keiser Has 67

Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, winner of the Augusta Masters tournament two years ago, had a 67 for the opening round and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Kenmore, Wash., and Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., another Masters winner, were only two strokes off the pace.

Another 18-hole round will be played tomorrow after which Defending Champion Jim Ferrier, who is exempt from qualifying, and 63 others will begin match play on Friday.

Although their appearance is contrasting, Hogan and Hamilton used similar tactics to achieve the same results. Hogan is a 140-pounder who unleashes power like a steel spring; Hamilton a big, broad man whose strength is apparent. But it was accuracy at the short game rather than power that paid off.

Hamilton Chips In Twice

Twice Hamilton sank chip shots from off the green, on the thirteenth and eighteenth holes, and he laid his approaches dead on a half dozen others to complete his round with a total of only 25 putts. Hogan, placing his shots carefully so the rolling Norwood Hills fairways couldn't make much trouble for him, also made the most of fine pitching and putting. He needed only 29 putts, sinking long ones for three of his five birdies and a 20-footer for a par on the sixth hole the only time he was in real trouble.

Oliver, although he three-putted twice, also got down in 29 putts and Keiser needed only 30.

Billy Wolfe, 14, Wins Schoolboy Golf

He Wins From Dick Foster, 5-4, in Finals

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Billy D. Wolfe, a 14-year-old golfing prodigy from Capitol View Park, Md., became the youngest scholastic golf champion in Washington history by downing Dick Foster of Coolidge, 5 and 4, yesterday at the Chevy Chase Club.

Wolfe, who has a year left at Montgomery Hills Junior High School, played steady golf and profitted from his opponents' lapses to close out the match on the fourteenth hole.

A self-taught golfer, Wolfe moved into a two-up lead at the turn, which he negotiated in 39 to Foster's 45, and proceeded to finish the match in jig time.

Young Billy and the 16-year-old Foster halved the tenth, then Wolfe went to work. He went three up on the eleventh, four on the twelfth, and five up on the thirteenth.

Wolfe Inherits Crown

When the two youngsters halved the fourteenth, Wolfe inherited the title held for the past two years by Marvin (Bubby) Worsham, younger brother of Lew Worsham and presently captain of the Wake Forest University golf team.

It was a particularly sweet triumph for Wolfe, as Foster had eliminated Billy's older brother Gene, in the semifinal round of the tournament.

Foster, another self-taught youngster who has been playing for six years, was not up to his best, and this was fatal against a competitor such as Wolfe.

Poised Competitor

Billy, who seems to possess poise and seasoning far beyond his 14 years, never let up for an instant.

He went one down on the first hole after a poor drive, but evened it on the second as he chipped in a 40 footer for a birdie three.

He took the lead on the next hole with a par four to Foster's seven, then lost the next two holes to the Coolidge lad to fall one behind. That situation lasted only long enough for Billy to even the match on the sixth and move ahead on the seventh with a par four to Foster's five.

The boys halved the eighth but Billy took a two-up lead by paring the ninth with a three as Foster went one over.

Dressed in a striped polo shirt and wearing a pair of old basketball sneakers, Wolfe was using the wood clubs of Dr. H. F. Bernstein, for whom Billy caddies at Woodmont.

The Cards:

Par out	443 344 453—35
Wolfe out	634 455 453—39
Foster out	557 347 554—45
Par in	344 34
Wolfe in	354 34
Foster in	365 44

Wolfe wins, 5 and 4.

Chisox Held At Bay by Masterson

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Chicago, May 19.—The Nats produced a pair of winning pitchers today—Walter Masterson who pitched nine innings and Early Wynn, who didn't pitch at all. But Pitcher Wynn functioned nicely as a pinchhitter and provided the big blow of a 4-1 victory over the White Sox.

Wynn got into the act in the seventh inning with two out and the bases full, and the White Sox holding a 1-0 lead. Batting for Johnny Sullivan, he whacked a fiery single into right field and fetched the game's two most important runs over the plate.

Masterson pitched himself a beaut for his third victory of the season. The one run he did yield was tainted by Outfielder Ed Stewart's gallop in the wrong direction for a fly ball, and of the seven hits he did allow, three were infield bleeders.

The Nats' victim was Joe Haynes, one of the tribe of Clark Griffith's sons-in-law, who was thumped for three hits in the Nats' three-run seventh and driven somewhat giddy, too, by the Nats' antics on the bases in that inning.

The base-running Nats packed four stolen bases into the seventh inning with a pair of double steals.

Kuhel's Strategy Wins

The Nats muffed scoring chances against Haynes in the first and fourth innings and it appeared that they were on their way to flunking out, too, in the seventh after Stewart led off with a single to right. Coan flied to right, but Vernon moved Stewart to second with a single to right and the situation stacked up nicely when Stewart and Vernon pulled a double steal that put 'em on third and second with one out.

In that crisis Carden Gillenwater took a third strike for the second out and all his barking at Umpire Jim Boyer was useless despite the lowness of the pitch. Then the Sox went strategic and walked Jake Early purposely to fill the bases.

Manager Joe Kuhel met that strategy by wheeling Wynn in as a pinch hitter for Johnny Sullivan and there was some doubt about how the situation would resolve itself. After reaching a 3-and-2 count with Haynes, Wynn fouled off the next six pitches. Then he singled solidly to right and Stewart and Vernon pranced home.

But the Nats weren't through. Pieretti, running for Wynn, feinted a steal of second and the now-discomboobered Hayne was caught flat-footed and on his throw to second Jake Early scored from third, ahead of the relay home. Pieretti was safe, too, and it was the Nats' second double steal of the inning.

In the eighth, Masterson cushioned himself with another run by center field against Howard Judleading off with a two-bagger to

Macks Ruin His Shutout in 9th

Cleveland, May 19 (AP).—Bob Feller lost a shutout in the ninth inning tonight but turned in a brilliant three-hitter as the Cleveland Indians remained in first place by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 1 before 33,871.

The Tribe fireballer, who notched his fifth win against two losses, entered the ninth inning with a one-hit shutout. Buddy Rosar, Feller's former battery mate, got a single in the third inning on a smash which Third Baseman Ken Keltner knocked down, but his throw to first was too late to nip Rosar.

Pete Suder obtained the Athletics' second hit when he singled to open the ninth. Pinch-hitter Don White flied out, but Eddie Joost doubled to send Suder across the plate.

Feller retired the side in order in seven of the nine innings.

Newhouser Back in Form, Tigers Spank Bosox, 4-1

Detroit, May 19 (AP).—Hal Newhouser returned to form today with home run backing at the plate and double play support in the field as the Detroit Tigers took their second straight decision from the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 1.

Newhouser, shelled from the box his last five times out, scattered four hits to take his first victory since opening day.

Newhouser equaled a major league mark for pitchers by starting four of the double plays himself—and the total of six by the Tigers fell just one short of the major league high of seven, by the New York Yankees August 14, 1942.

It was the first time this year the Tigers' No. 1 lefthander has approached his brilliant form of 1944-46, when he won 80 games in three seasons.

All four Tiger runs scored on homers, one by Pat Mullin in the fourth with nobody on base and another by Vic Wertz in the ninth with two men aboard.

Neil Berry and Mullin had singled before Wertz lifted his game-winning clout into the third deck in right field with two men out in the ninth.

Detroit committed five errors in the infield, but six double plays made up for the boots, helping pin the loss on Ellis Kinder who had a two-hitter going into the ninth.

Firemen's Feud Flares Into 20-13 Win for Wild Men

A smouldering feud between Engine Company 3 and Engine Company 18 of the D. C. Fire Department was settled—or fanned into a blaze—on the softball diamond yesterday as No. 3's athletes, calling themselves Winter's Wild Men, took a 20-13—repeat—20-13, victory over Fletcher's Fumblers.

Winter's Wild Men scored 13 runs in the first inning, which put the Fumblers a little too far behind to catch up. Then, too, the Wild Men committed only six errors while their foes were busy living up to their name with 11 miscues.

Games with either perpetrator of the above-mentioned classic may be arranged by calling the Fire Department—on the phone, please.

Over Janiro-Jack Postponement

There's An Unscheduled Fight in Town With Promoters at Each Other's Throats

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

IF WASHINGTON WASN'T in a fighting mood last night, two persons who would like to see it that way were.

Goldie Ahearn was busy denying talk that Tony Janiro planned to skip out on his scheduled bout with Beau Jack at Griffith Stadium Monday.

Turner's Arena Matchmaker Gabe Menendez was just as occupied rapping the circumstances that forced the Jack-Janiro bout to be postponed a week, thereby muscling in on a week of publicity he thought he had reserved for his first outdoor venture—Jake LaMotta vs. Ken Stribling on May 31.

Confronted with the rumor that Janiro planned a walkout next Monday, the Liberty Athletic Club's Ahearn bellowed:

"If I was as sure of a $60,000 house Monday as I was of Janiro being there I wouldn't have a worry in the world. The whole idea is preposterous," added Mr. Ahearn, with help from Publicist Joe Holman over that last four-syllable obstacle.

"What would Janiro be doing training in New York if he planned to pull out? What would he be doing that for?"

It was suggested to Mr. Ahearn that if he knew the answer to that one it would be considerate of him to supply it as now is the hour for such a reply.

"It's pre, pre-something, whatever Holman said it was," the slightly excited Goldie shouted. "Sure Janiro will be there. And there'll be plenty of general admission seats, too."

Senor Menendez was a bit calmer than his cross-town rival, but just as het-up.

"Who ever heard of a fight being postponed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon unless it was raining like the devil then and more rain was forecast for the night?" asked the Senor.

"The weatherman said afternoon showers, and they came about 3 o'clock. After that it was clear and the fight could have been put on. In this business you gotta take a gamble on the weather unless the odds are so much against you it would be suicide.

"You know as well as I why it was postponed. The advance was poor. And why didn't the Boxing Commission set up the show for the next night, Tuesday, instead of the following Monday? Maybe because the circus was in town. Yeah, maybe the circus' opening had something to do with it."

Both impressarios agreed they wouldn't hold it against the fight fan who sat in on both shows.

Eddie Ault Wins Indian Spring Medalist Honors With 72

Five Tie For Second With 73s

Shooting a 36-36—72, Ault topped a field of 125 entrants, 96 of whom start match play today in six flights of 16 players.

Right behind Ault were Ralph Bogart, Chevy Chase; Buddy Sharkey, Indian Spring; Spencer Overton, Rolling Road; Billy Griffin, Prince Georges, and Tom Taussig, unattached, all with 73s.

With only 16 players qualifying for the first flight, there was quite a battle for the last two places.

Parker Nolan, Congressional; Bill Wenzel Congressional, and Jerry Hart, Annapolis Roads, finished in a deadlock with 76s, necessitating a sudden-death playoff.

Wenzel grabbed one of the spots by getting a four to his rivals' fives on the first extra hole and Nolan bested Hart on the second with a four to Hart's five. A 20-foot putt by Hart rimmed the cup in heartbreaking fashion to eliminate him from the first flight.

All six flights will play two rounds of match play today with the survivors meeting in the semi-final and final rounds tomorrow.

Wynn's Hit Wins for Nats

son. With two out, Gil Goan's second hit of the day scored Masterson from second.

Nats Help Chisox Score

The run on which the White Sox took their 1-0 lead in the fourth was something of a gift. Appling singled to left with one out, Hodgin doubled to right and Robinson got Appling home with a long fly to center. But Hodgin's two-bagger was the donation of Right Fielder Stewart who was off at the crack of the bat—in the wrong direction.

Masterson pitched himself out of deep trouble in the sixth when the Sox filled the bases with none out on a walk to Baker, Kozar's fumble of Lupien's grounder and Masterson's muff of Appling's bunt. Then Vernon started a masterful double play, grabbing Hodgin's grounder, rifling it to the plate for a force play and scampering back to first to take Early's throw for a double play before Hodgin reached the bag.

IN SHORT.—When Jake Early threw out Dave Philley of the White Sox on a base-stealing attempt, it raised the record of Washington catchers to sensational proportions . . . Early and Evans have thrown out 13 of 15 would-be base stealers this season . . . In contrast, the Nats have stolen 15 bases in 22 attempts . . . In the first inning, Gil Coan stole second base to everybody's satisfaction except Umpire Art Passarella, who called him out for no good reason . . . The White Sox are suffering at the gate as well as in the league standings. Their crowds for their seven home games, including the opener, have averaged only 5000 daily, and they've lost 12 of their last 13 games . . . Early Wynn, whose pinch-hit won today's game, will try to make it two straight in St. Louis tomorrow night, but as a pitcher.

Coaltown Sets Record At Belmont

Belmont Park, N. Y., May 19 (AP).—Blazing the fastest 7 furlongs in the 47 runnings of the race, Warren Wright's Coaltown galloped off with the Swift Stakes in 1:23 2/5 here today before 27,359.

New York turf fans, who never had seen Calumet's charger before, joined those of Florida and Kentucky in wondering just how fast Coaltown can run as Citation's brilliant stablemate won by six lengths, under wraps, to better by two fifths of a second the Stakes mark shared by Parasang (1940) and Mantagna (1935). Roseben holds the track record of 1:22 flat, set in 1906.

A prohibitive choice in the field of a half dozen 3-year-olds at 1 to 10, Coaltown earned $12,250 to make his total $47,950. He did not run as a juvenile due to a throat ailment.

Ben Whitaker's My Request, third behind Citation and Coaltown in the Kentucky Derby but winner of four straight prior to the Blue Grass classic, again chased Coaltown home today as he beat William Helis' Salmagundi by four lengths for the place.

Filly Takes Feature by 5 Lengths

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., May 19.—Frank (Happy) Christmas, former star horse-show rider, is the latest member of Marlboro's Christmas clan to take up a career as a horse trainer. The son of B. Frank Christmas and nephew of Yancey and Ed saddled his first horse—a winner—today.

La Vega, a 3-year-old filly, teamed with Jockey Sammy Palumbo to win the featured Don Kneesi Purse, named for a Washington sporting goods merchant. The daughter of Tintagel, making her first start of the year, finished five lengths in front of a photo for second in which C. Waggoner's French Nine took the nod from N. Ledas' His Whizz.

With the favorite, John Foster's Vete off poorly and unable to reach Contention at any time, La Vega returned an $8.20 mutuel. She was clocked in 1:19 3/5 for the 6½ furlongs, only 1 1/5 second over the track mark held by Misty Lady.

Got Good Ride

Although young Christmas sent out a fit filly, Palumbo turned in a masterpiece of a ride of getting his second winner of the day home. He broke the 3-year-old Alertly and hustled her into the lead while on the outside.

At the first turn, he had room and cut over to the rail. From that point to the end it was a case of chasing La Vega and there were no catchers in the field of eight.

French Nine and His Whizz, a pair of longshots, caused some excitement with an almost-dead heat battle for the place money.

Palumbo's other winner came in the second race and put the finishing touches on an $18.80 daily double. He brought Augie August's Sticky Fussy from well back in the pack and the Washington-owned 7-year-old was up in the final strides to win from Chestnut and Poe's Take Little.

Sticky Fussy paid $7.40. The first race went to Dr. P. A. Rothfuss' Dusty Moment at $4.60.

BETWEEN RACES . . . Horsemen were grieved to learn of the sudden death of E. Roy Routt, veteran owner-trainer at his home in Silver Spring, Md. Johnny Goetz, District tarainer, took temporary charge of the Routt horses now stabled at Hagerstown . . . Jockey Benny Brady arrived today . . . The fellow who caused the minus pool here yesterday with the $5000 show bet on Lawless Miss is reported to have said he will bet $20,000 the next time the mare goes in the same kind of company . . . Maryland Beats W&L in Lacrosse

Lexington, Va., May 19 (AP).—Jules Freeman, ace attackman on the University of Maryland's lacrosse team, whipped in six goals and assisted on the seventh in sparking the Terps' 10-7 victory today over Washington and Lee.

The Blue stickmen threatened unexpectedly in the last period after Maryland had gained a seven-goal margin. Tommy Tongue fired two shots into the nets, and Jim McDonald and Frank Brooks added one apiece before the clock cut short the Generals' rally.

Scoring in every inning, including a fulsome 12 runs in the fifth, Gonzaga trounced Devitt, 22-8, yesterday at 16th and Kennedy.

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Kluttz

Keefe Plans to Widen Red Rider to Include Many State Employes

Representative Keefe (R., Wis.) says he'll amend his Red rider to make it tough on the CIO's left-wing United Public Workers.

As now written, his rider would stop the payment of salary to any Federal worker who belongs to a union whose officials refuse to sign non-Communist affidavits. Keefe now plans to broaden his rider to cover the thousands of State employes who are paid in part from Federal funds.

The UPWA claims several thousand members among State employment service and Social Security workers whose salaries are paid in part from Federal funds.

Keefe also revealed he has no intentions of compromising or modifying his rider. And he believes the House will support him overwhelmingly. There are reports that the Senate may seek to rewrite the rider to exempt the International Typographical Union and other unions that have a small membership in Government. Keefe said there was no good reason why ITU officials shouldn't sign the non-Communist affidavits.

Meantime, there are reports from Atlantic City, where the UPWA is in convention, that the right-wing Build-the-Union faction will leave the UPWA because of its left-wing policies. The BUC has challenged the UPWA leaders to follow the policies of CIO President Murray.

However, it has been slapped down on its every move, as UPWA President Abram Flaxer and his henchmen have the convention under complete control. If it does walk out, the BUC group may try to obtain a separate charter from the CIO. The BUC'ers claim upwards of 5000 members—a claim belittled by Flaxer and his group.

PAY REPORT: The joint session of Senate and House pay-raise subcommittees is now scheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow. It was canceled yesterday because the House met at 10 a. m. on the Mundt-Nixon bill.

Meantime, several members of Congress spoke out in favor of action on the pay problem. Senator Taft, the GOP leader, had this to say:

"It seems to me that we have a prior obligation to Federal employes to see that their salaries are increased at least as much over prewar as their costs—to see that they receive a reasonably decent wage level." He added that the cost of pay raises would be easily 400 or 500 million dollars a year.

In the House, Representative John Dingell (D., Mich.) needled the GOP leaders for delaying pay action. He said the long delay "is due entirely to the uncompromising opposition against the pay increase held by a concentrated and dominant force within the Republican Party."

Dingell said the "situation is critical and needs prompt, positive, and corrective action." He urged Federal workers to be on their guard to prevent further delays.

It now appears that Dingell's advice was accepted before it was given. A group of employe leaders in the AFL met yesterday and it was decided to again urge their members to start letter-writing campaigns to their Congressmen. About a month ago these same leaders pleaded with their members to stop the pressure after they had been assured the pay bill would be voted.

LABOR Undersecretary David Morse is a good bet to be elected director general of the International Labor Organization. The present director, Edward Phelan, an Irishman, must retire soon because of age.

ILO's governing board will meet next month in San Francisco to consider a successor to Phelan. Morse is the United States delegate and a member of ILO's governing board and he has solid support for the No. 1 spot.

FEDERAL HOUSING has lost another of its able men to a better-paying industry job. He's F. A. Van Patten, commissioner of Zone 2, who will take a private job in Norfolk. His successor is Herbert C. Redman, who has been Zone 1 commissioner, and W. Stanley Newlin has been moved up to the Zone 1 post.

STATE: Civil Service has exempted from its rules and regulations until June 30, 1950, all political, economic, financial and other technical and professional State jobs (not including information jobs) that pay $4149 and more. These jobs require specialized foreign relations knowledge and training.

NACA: Civil Service also has given the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics the authority to give emergency indefinite appointments until June 30, 1950, to 1 per cent of its new appointees . . . ARMY: The Army is working out plans with Civil Service to hire new employes direct through the emergency indefinite process . . . Economic Cooperation Administration has full authority to hire through this new system, provided the veterans preference laws are observed.

NOTES: Senator Chavez (D., N. Mex.) will speak tonight at a meeting of Agriculture's professional employes in the South Building Auditorium. You're invited . . . Marshall Dimock will speak at tonight's meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Management in the YWCA . . . Rural Electrification Administration could hire about 200 additional employes under its budget as approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

2 Junior High Buildings Asked By School Board

New Senior High Also Sought; Two Auditoriums Are Ordered Closed

Funds for replacing two junior high schools and constructing a new senior high school were urged yesterday by the Board of Education.

The board permanently shut off use of auditoriums in the white Hine and Negro Terrell junior high schools, declaring the buildings are not worth the repairs needed to make the auditoriums safe.

After being told it would take $25,000 to repair Hine and $15,000 to repair Terrell, the board voted to seek immediate replacements for the schools.

The board unanimously adopted a resolution asking the Commissioners to seek additional authorization money from Congress for the proposed Negro Spingarn High School, after it was advised that Cardozo High School is used so far above capacity that it is in danger of losing its accreditation.

Cardozo Double Shift

Garnet C. Wilkinson, first assistant superintendent of schools, said that Cardozo will be forced on a double shift within the next several years unless relief is supplied by construction of Spingarn.

Adelbert W. Heinmiller, business administraftor for the schools, explained that Congress has appropriated $1,200,000 for beginning construction of the school but that a contract cannot be let until the authorized cost is raised from $2,500,000 to the $3,500,000 it actually will take to build the school.

Wilkinson said that 1700 students are crowded into Cardoza, which has a capacity of 1040. If accreditation is withdrawn by the Middle State Association of Secondary School and Colleges, which has found the school grossly inadequate for high school purposes, graduates would not be qualified for admission to colleges.

Property Buying Urged

The board, noting the high cost of land in areas where large housing development are underway also passed a resolution notifying the Commissioners of the necessity of buying unimproved property throughout the city for future school sites.

It pointed out that the purchase price for an elementary school site at Oxon Run has jumped from $20,000 to $50,000.

Action on a request by the Recreation Department to use school playgrounds as recreational areas over the summer vacation was postponed after two Negro members of the board, George E. C. Hayes and Mrs. Velma G. Williams, asked clarification of the Recreation Department's segregation policy.

Last year, Recreation Superintendent Milo C. Christiansen ruled that interracial meetings could not be held in the schools.

"If that is the position of the Recreation Department it is contrary to the policy of the Board of Education," Hayes said.

Albert E. Steinem, chairman of the board's committee on recreation and community use of buildings, said that he will hold a public hearing on the question before the next meeting of the school board June 2.

The board reaffirmed its stand that teachers should receive an increase in pay only if Federal employes are granted a raise, and voted to oppose a bill now before Congress to amend the Teachers' Salary Act.

A proposal by Schools Superintendent Hobart M. Corning that lobbying before Congress by teachers on school measures that have not been approved by the board as a reason for dismissal was returned to the superintendent for further study after Board of Education President Mrs. Henry Gratton Doyle described it as "a violation of the rights of loyal employes."

In other actions the board:

Approved preliminary plans for a new Negro Armstrong High School.

Turned down a request by the Stanton Citizens Association that the old Hilton school be given over to the Health Department for a clinic. The building is needed for storage, the board said.

Voted to ask Parent-Teacher Associations and teacher organizations for their views on opening and closing schools next term a week earlier than is the custom.

Beers School Addition To Get Under Way Soon

Construction of an eight-room addition to Anne Beers School, 36th pl. and Alabama ave. se., is expected to begin with 30 days, Director of Construction Archie Hutson revealed yesterday.

Lowest of four bidders was T. Calvin Owens, 412 Albee Bldg., who submitted estimates totalling $433,220. The addition also will include a combination assembly hall and gymnasium.

Bids for replacing three elevators in Gallinger Hospital's psychiatric buildings also were opened yesterday, Hutson said.

Lowest of four bidders was the Warsaw Elevator Co. of Warsaw, N. J., whose local representative, the Whiting Elevator Co., submitted a bid of $44,798, he announced.

At Naylor Gardens

200 Veterans Approve of Rent Boost

Approximately 200 veterans, who own homes at Naylor Gardens but can't move in until the present tenants decide to leave or rent control expires, found a bit of solace yesterday in a rent boost petition.

Their homes were among 532 units of the huge development at 30th st. and Naylor rd. se., for which the Veterans Cooperative Housing Association asked a 15-per-cent rent hike. And as members of the association, they voted for the boost.

The petition affects all apartments of the 732-unit development which are not both owned and occupied by association members, Attorney Francis J. Ortman, of Robert and McInnis, general counsel for the association, explained.

Face Boost In Expenses

The 200 members who do not own and occupy homes face a possible 15-per-cent hike in "expenses." (They pay no rent.) A meeting will be held Friday to vote on the proposed expense boost, Ortman said.

The hikes are necessary to meet mounting costs of utilities and maintenance, he said.

This unusual situation stems from the agreement under which the Veterans Cooperative Housing Association purchased Naylor Gardens, a Federal wartime housing project, from Defense Homes Corporation last February.

Members of the association may buy homes, but cannot occupy them until either (a) tenants living in the units at the time of the sale leave voluntarily, or (b) rent controls are lifted. Units not sold to members are rented by the association.

McLean Gardens Hearing Set

This was the second case where private owners of former Government wartime housing developments have sought a boost over rents charged by the Federal Government.

Wife Weeps at Shooting Scene . . .

By William Klemm—The Washington Post

TENSE MOMENT—Mrs. Julius Bradshaw (right) is questioned by a reporter. Mrs. Virginia Wine, a neighbor, tries to console the weeping wife, whose husband was allegedly shot by his landlord yesterday in an argument over rent for their apartment, 934 I st. nw.

Tenant Shot In Argument With Landlord

A landlord shot and wounded one of his tenants here yesterday during an argument over back rent and an eviction notice, police reported.

The landlord, Albert Sheldon, 46, who doubles as a cab driver, walked into his attorney's office at 12:30 p. m., and according to the attorney, dropped a revolver on the desk and announced he had just shot Julius A. Bradshaw, 30, one of his tenants at 934 I st. nw.

Bradshaw was reported in "fair" condition at Mount Alto Hospital with a .45-caliber bullet wound in his right hip.

Sheldon's attorney, James Shenos, said Sheldon came to his office in the Southern Building, dropped his gun on the desk and said, "There it is."

Shenos said Sheldon told him he served a notice of an eviction suit on Bradshaw's wife, Kathryn, 27, yesterday morning in the Bradshaw's second-floor apartment.

Some time later, the attorney quoted Sheldon, Bradshaw came to the landlord's first-floor room and despite Sheldon's warning pushed his way into the room.

The attorney said Sheldon had the revolver in his hand as Bradshaw lunged past a table to get at him.

"All he remembers is hearing the shot," said the attorney. "Then he noticed the gun in his hand was smoking."

Shenos accompanied Sheldon to police headquarters where he surrendered himself. He was booked on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and freed in $1000 bond. In 1945, Sheldon sued the Washington Terminal Co. for $50,000, claiming he suffered a broken leg when beaten by a terminal policeman.

Police said that after the shooting, Bradshaw staggered to the street, hailed a cab and went to Emergency Hospital. After treatment at Emergency Hospital, Bradshay, a World War II veteran, was transferred to Mount Alto.

Mrs. Bradshaw said she and her husband, a mechanic, had got a week and a half behind in their $12.50 weekly rent because her husband had been laid off. She said he obtained another job last Friday.

She said she was out shopping at the time of the shooting. Bradshaw, his wife said, served with the Army in the South Pacific and was wounded in action.

D. C. Probing Oil Seepage Complaints

The Corporation Counsel's office yesterday began investigating complaints that fuel oil is seeping from underground pipes onto a waterfront area at 13th and Water sts. se.

In the area are pipes of L. P. Steuart Co., and the Washington Gas Light Co. So far, complaints have been received from Albert M. Rose, a boatyard owner in the area and from the United States Engineers, which have a dock nearby.

According to Assistant Corporation Counsel Philip Brophy, the complaints indicate that on rainy days oil oozes out of the soil and covers an area 400 feet long and 200 feet deep.

He said that he cannot place charges at this time, since he cannot determine who owns the defective pipes. But, he said, if responsibility can be placed, he will charge the pipe owner and recommend the maximum penalty of a $100 fine for each day the oil has been allowed to flow on the land.

He said he was recommending that the Interior Department be constulted by District authorities on measures that may be taken to determine which pipes are causing the seepage.

The jeweler, 55-year-old John Ionesco, 2439 18th st. nw., told police the youth entered the store about 6:30 p. m. and threatened him with robbery. In a fight that ensued, Ionesco got the upper hand, and his shouts brought passersby who helped subdue the young man.

At the Thirteenth Precinct station house, police identified the captured youth as Eddie Brown, 1717 Euclid st. nw., and charged him with attepted robbery.

Lane Refuses Individual Pay Rise Approval,

Annapolis, Md., May 19 (AP).—Governor Lane today said he had disapproved all recommendations for pay raises to State employes that were hanging fire when he called a special session of the Maryland Legislature.

The special session is to consider a blanket 10 per cent salary hike to all employes who have not benefited that much since September 1946.

The Governor said he followed a suggestion of the committee that had investigated the need for a general pay increase.

The Governor refused comment today on picketing of his Baltimore office by Department of Public Welfare employes. Members of Local 17 of the United Public Workers (CIO) said the demonstration was a protest of what they termed the Governor's rejection of a higher base salary for non-clerical employes.

Fire Department Official Is Found Guilty of Driving Vehicle Improperly

A trial board yesterday found Ivan J. Dalstrom, Fire Department superintendent of machinery, guilty of driving a department vehicle improperly to cause a collision last month and recommended he be fined $125.

Dalstrom was found not guilty by the three-man board on an intoxication charge. The board recommended, however, that he lose approximately $150 in pay as a result of his suspension from April 11 to 20.

The verdict was reached by a 2-to-1 vote, with Deputy Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew dissenting from the guilty decision which was returned by Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry E. Wixon and Assistant Auditor Robert L. Mudd.

Paul E. Jamieson, attorney for Dalstrom, claimed the decision "outlandish," and said an appeal will be filed with the District Commissioners. "I feel that the penalty imposed for a minor violation is unconscionable," he declared.

He said he believed it "illegal" to withhold Dalstrom's pay during the suspension, which was ordered for "alleged intoxication," since he was cleared of the charge.

The accusations resulted from Dalstrom's arrest on drunken driving charges April 11 after the Fire Department sedan he was driving hit the rear of another vehicle at 38th st. and Bladensburg rd., Colmar Manor.

Dalstrom was acquitted of the drunken driving charge, but was fined $50 for reckless driving in Hyattsville Police Court April 19.

Hearing Set For District Postmaster

Roy M. North, 58, District postmaster nominee, will be the subject of a "full and complete" Senate investigation, Chairman William Langer (R., N. Dak.) of the Postoffice and Civil Service Committee, announced yesterday.

Langer said there was no personal question about North, but that the investigation would be concerned "with certain actions on the part of various officials of the Postoffice Department with which the committee intends to ascertain Mr. North's connection."

Langer explained the "certain actions" involved administration of the Civil Service laws by the Postoffice Department.

"We're going to find out how many Republicans they've appointed, and what kind of men they've appointed," said Langer. "Civil Service was supposed to take this whole thing out of politics."

Langer said the investigation would start next week. It will be handled by a subcommittee of three: Senators Langer, Zales Ecton (R., Mont.) and W. Lee O'Daniel (D., Tex.).

North has served as Deputy Third Assistant Postmaster General since his appointment by President Roosevelt in 1933.

Senator Langer indicated that information turned up in an investigation of the Detroit, Mich., postoffice might carry over into the hearing on North. A hearing before a subcommittee of Langer's committee is slated for 10 a. m. today on the Detroit postoffice. Postoffice Department and Detroit Postoffice officials are to be heard. The hearing is in Room 135 Senate Office Building.

Eviction Suit Of Clark's Goes To Jury Today

The eviction suit by which the family of Rear Admiral Joseph J. (Jocko) Clark seek to evict a tenant from an apartment house at 2500 Massachusetts ave. nw., will go to a jury in Municipal Court today.

Judge George D. Neilson yesterday refused to direct a verdict either in favor of Admiral Clark, who is Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for Air, or the tenant, Huston Thompson, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Admiral Clark's wife, Shannon, purchased the 2500 Massachusetts ave. property for $200,000 and seeks the first and third floor for her own use and for their family. They have a court judgment for the third-floor apartment, but it is being appealed. Thompson is the tenant of the 10-room suite that comprises the first floor.

Most of yesterday's session was spent in arguing motions and deciding on instruction to be given the jury.

Eighty-four per cent of the graduates surveyed were 25 to 29 years of age.

It also learned that divorce has affected the lives of the graduates only slightly, with only 2 per cent being divorced, separated or widowed.

Realty Brokers Deny Laggard Rent Returns

Joseph R. and Francis E. Murray, through their attorney, Irving Yockelson, told the Real Estate Commission it took two weeks to prepare a statement on three months' rent demanded by the client. The commission took the case under advisement.

The client, Lawrence Watson, filed a complaint with the commission April 26, alleging the Murrays failed to pay him $1235 due for rent collections on apartment buildings in the 2100 block of Newport pl. nw.

He asked permission to withdraw the complaint after the Murrays paid him in full April 28, but the commission denied withdrawal.

Better Pension Asked for Fire, Police Orphans

Representatives of the Police Association and the Firemen's Union will seek the Commissioners' support today for raising the pension age limit from 16 to 18 years for orphans of police and firemen.

The higher age limit would be included as an amendment to the Commissioners' bill for increased widow and orphan pension payments. The city heads will be asked to favor the amendment when they testify on the bill before the House District Public Service Subcommittee Monday.

The bill would raise widows' pensions from $60 a month to $125 for widows of men killed on duty and $100 for widows of officers who die of natural causes. Pensions for children under 16 would go up from $10 to $25 a month.

Capt. Joseph W. Conroy, chairman of the legislation committee for Local 36, International Association of Firefighters (AFL), said the proposed 18-year-old age limit would insure all police and firemen's orphans of at least a high school education and thus help combat juvenile delinquency.

At a meeting Monday, Conroy said, police representatives agreed to withdraw their own pension increase bill and support the Commissioners' legislation. The new age limit proposal originally was part of the police group's bill.

Area News in Brief

Wandering Watch Mystery Unraveled

It took a lot of sleuthing, but police finally unraveled the mystery of the missing watch. Yesterday two men were sent to jail because of it, and another fined on a false report charge.

This is the story as it was related before Judge Walter J. Casey in Municipal Court.:

On April 11, Raymond Dickerson, 47, a porter, of 1801 Fenwick st., ne., reported that five men had robbed him of a $70 gold-plated wristwatch. He gave police the serial number. Then on May 1, Herman G. DeBidgel, 46, of 1207 10th st. nw., reported a watch of a similar discription had been stolen from his wrist as he slept.

On May 3, police learned that a watch bearing the same serial number had been left with a dealer at 1340 7th st. nw., by one Louis Proctor, 25, of 31 I st. ne. Proctor implicated one Johnnie Williams, 23, a laborer of no fixed address, who he told police, helped him take it off DeBidgel's wrist.

That set police to wondering where DeBidgel got the wrist watch that Dickerson said was taken from him. They learned that DeBidgel bought it from Vernon Bond, 30, of 511 New Jersey ave. nw. Bond in turn said he bought it from a 17-year-old boy. The youth said he found it on the ground near 20th and M sts. nw., when a crap game ended in a fight and someone yelled "Police."

Police talked to Dickerson, who admitted he reported the watch stolen because he didn't want his wife to know it was lost in a crap game, police said.

In court, Dickerson was fined $15 for turning in a false report, and Williams and Proctor each got 60 days in jail for petty larceny.

Circus Sued

Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey Circus was sued yesterday for $15,000 because a 14-year-old boy fell from the stands when it played here two years ago.

The suit was filed in District Court by Mrs. Mary P. Grace, in behalf of her brother, James Turner, 1702 62d ave., Cheverly, Md.

The suit says that at the circus on June 17, 1946, James fell over a loose board or similar object and dropped to the ground from the stands, suffering a broken hand and other injuries.

Robbery Charge Dropped

The United States Attorney's office yesterday directed that a robbery charge be dismissed against Augustine E. Brailer, 42, who was accused of a "holdup" in a hotel lobby.

Assistant United States Attorney Richard M. Roberts said he ordered the nolle prosse because the circumstances indicated that Brailer, a clerk in the Federal Security Agency, had "blacked out" and was not responsible for his actions on May 5 when he robbed two men in the Dixie Hotel.

Brailer agreed, Roberts pointed out, to take psychiatric treatment. Brailer has a perfect record and owns his car and home at 9205 Bradford rd., Silver Spring.

Brailer had a previous record for "blackouts" and had been on a drinking spree just prior to the hotel holdup. He placed his hand in his pocket as if he held a gun and, forced the clerk and a bystander to hand over $99, but they managed to subdue him and hold him for police, it was said.

"Folks, I'll need most of my wage-boost for the increase in my coal bill!"

"That's the situation!

"I thought I was paying plenty when I settled my 1946 coal bill. But the very next year it shot up another million and a half dollars and what's more, my 1947 coal bill at today's prices, would have been over $3,000,000 more than I paid in 1946! And my other expenses have gone up too—That's why I had to ask for an increase. So you see it will take most of the pay raise I'm asking just to pay the increase in my coal bill.

"But with my raise, it will cost the average Washington householder only about ten cents a week more for his Electric Service and he still will have the solid satisfaction of getting his Electricity AT A BARGAIN!"

Panama's Ambassador Given Farewell Party

By Elizabeth Maguire

THERE WAS a fire within and a fountain without for the party given at the Panamanian Embassy yesterday afternoon. The day was bright enough for a garden party, but the warm fire in the drawing rpom was a welcome addition.

Guests were received at the head of the staircase by the Ambassador and Senora de Jaen Guardia between the hours of 6 and 8. The fete was a farewell as Ambassador Guardia has been named Minister of Foreign Affairs for his country, and will be leaving soon for Panama. Octovio A. Vallarino, a second cousin of former Ambassador J. J. Vallarino, will succeed him, arriving sometime at the end of June.

The most artistic hors d'oeuvres in town are served at the Panamanian Embassy, and yesterday's selection was near perfection. A watermelon in the garden was scooped hollow, tied with satin bow and orchids, and filled with radishes, olives, melon balls and ice chips. An eggplant on the dining room table bristled with toothpicks strung with tiny squares of ham and cheese, and from a platter were served hot empanadas — a Panamanian pastry filled with spiced meats.

Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin was at the party, said she had had King Peter and Queen Alexandra to tea. The Queen would touch nothing, however, as she refuses to eat between meals. After the royal couple departed, Mrs. Goodwin said her maid remarked, "You know the most classical people."

Another guest at the party was Miss Louise Steinman, who talked with Mrs. William Langor and Marvin Coles. Senora de Caceres, wife of the Ambassador of Honduras, was a guest, as were Raymond Muir, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newbegin and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Daniels.

Others included the Commercial Counselor of the Embassy, Julio Ernesto Heurtematte, Col. Robert Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Albert de Obarrio of Panama, Col. and Mrs. William Nutter, Mme. L. Bassett and her two daughters, Mrs. V. L. Pottle and Mlle. Georgette Bassett.

Judge and Mrs. George D. Neilson were there, and Gen. and Mrs. Gordon Young and Col. and Mrs. George McCoy, jr.

Everyone was sorry to say goodby to the Guardias, as they have been here but a short while, and Senora de Guardia has made an unusually lovely ambassadress. Senorita Anita Ramirez-Duque, the attache who assisted her yesterday, was at the embassy when the Vallarinos were here, and she will remain to greet the new Ambassador and his wife. The young attache was smartly gowned in an off-shoulder frock of brown silk with bustle back.

Army Gets Together

Gen., Mrs. Arnold Entertain At Quarters at Fort McNair

By Marie McNair

GET THE Army together and it's sure to be a good party.

Yesterday Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William H. Arnold entertained at cocktails at their quarters at Fort McNair, a lovely old white columned house with a garden at the front and the Potomac River wending its way less than a stone's throw from the porch at the back.

It was a happy crowd which had gathered there, most of the men having seen service together at some time or other during the course of their careers.

Mrs. Arnold and her two daughters, Emily and Betty, added pictorially to the scene, the hostess in a long frock of black lace with a draped satin pannier about her slim hips. Emily's frock was black, too, with a flurry of cerise ruffles down the front of the draped skirt, and Betty was in hunter's green crepe, her frock also made with a front draped skirt.

General and Mrs. Wade Haislip had come over from Fort Myer, Mrs. Haislip in a trim black silk suit and a ring of white roses on her hat.

Tiny Mrs. William D. Connor who had been earlier to Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck's tea, stopped at home to pick up her general, and then brought along Mrs. Parker West, who had been at the same tea.

Uniform From 'Down Under'

The scarlet tabs on the uniform of Gen. John Chapman, head of the Australian Military Mission, were a bright spot of color in a room full of American uniforms.

Gen. A. C. McAuliffe was in khaki, Mrs. McAuliffe had fuschia trimmings on her gown. Tall and distinguished Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer wore his uniform, so did Gen. Lawton Collins, Deputy Chief of Staff. Mrs. Wedemeyer's simple black frock was worn with a black beret pinned far back on her head and Mrs. Collins had combined pink and black with a pink felt hat trimmed in black bows.

There was a bar on the windswept porch where guests gathered to watch the sun go down over the river. And inside there was another bar and a buffet. On the porch I saw Col. and Mrs. Roy Evans, Miss Agnes Shands, cousin of the hostess, in dark blue with a white straw hat; Col. and Mrs. Frank Cocheu and Gen. and Mrs. Ray McLain.

Others there were Admiral Sir Henry Moore, Admiral and Mrs. Luther Sheldon, Capt. and Mrs. Alfred Zimerman, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ferguson, the Military Attache of the French Embassy and Mme. Mathenet, and also from the French Embassy, the Minister and Mme. Berard.

And coming in on my way out I met Dr. Brison Norris, all alone, because Mrs. Norris is on her way home from a trip with Mrs. Samuel Alexander to the Virgin Islands, and Laura May Norris, their daughter, is just too popular and had another date.

She's Mrs. Howard Here

Miss Lamour, Prim in Blue, Joins Capital Partying; Men's Daisy Chain Forms

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

MRS. WILLIAM HOWARD 3d to Baltimore and Washington, Dottie Lamour to Hollywood and the wide world, is in town for a brisk run around. As friendly a gal as you could ask for, Mrs. Howard, minus tropical trappings, looks positively prim. At Mrs. George Holmes' party for Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall Tuesday, Mrs. H. turned up in something pleasantly navy blue with a white pique bow at the throat, a smallish hat rolled back from the forehead.

But Washington's interest centered more around tall, handsome Bill Howard, who's merely a temporary Californian and maintains his legal residence at Chattolanee, Md. Back in 1934 Bill was a member of the Maryland State Legislature, did a good job, and now there is talk of his returning to Baltimore and another political whirl.

At any rate Miss Bertha Joseph, who ran things so smoothly for former Maryland Senator Radcliffe, is doing her best to dream up a job—campaign manager of Howard-for-Governor. While the ladies burbled on, Mr. Howard remained discreetly silent. But Mrs. Howard, nee Lamour, possesses a neat sense of humor and was intrigued with the idea. "Maybe I could do a few jungle pictures around Annapolis!" she said with a grin.

Dinner Guests Must Speak

"I'M DOWN here to be in a daisy chain!" remarked Jimmy Moffett casually. Naturally, we thought this department, oil tycoon Moffett, or both were delicately insane. But no! Mr. Moffett DID come to our fair Capital especially to help carry a daisy chain! The daisy chain is to be carried around the Mayflower ballroom Saturday night at the John Russell Young School of Expression annual dinner.

John Russell Young, now chairman of the District of Columbia Commissioners, stages the hilarious event for some 200 highly honored guests. It all started years ago when Commissioner Young, then a newspaper man assigned to the White House, decided too many of the prominent boys around town couldn't make a decent speech. He "founded" the JRY School of Expression as a gag, and now its ritual and tradition are more complicated than any real alma mater.

The White House grounds are its "campus" and at the dinner everyone comes rigged in academic cap and gown. During the meal any guest may be called upon to make a speech. He can talk about anything or nothing, but must be witty. The time limit is anywhere from 30 seconds to 2 minutes, no longer! No one knows when he'll be called upon—and only those who make a really "good" speech are awarded the coveted JRY School of Expression diploma. But before anyone gets a spoonful of soup, all sorts of "exercises" are run through. The Supreme Court justices, most of the Cabinet, outstanding newspaper gents, lads such as Jimmy Moffett, are among the guests—so you can imagine the picture when a dozen or more of them, usually led by Jesse Jones, former Secretary of Commerce, march into the ballroom in cap and gown, carrying a chain of paper daisies.

Next comes a tree planting ceremony. A shrub, sometimes a rubber plant, is brought in in a pail and a suitable oration is delivered. Next in line is a speech by the "Class Orator." In the past few years Senator Taft, Chief Justice Vinson, Secretary of the Navy Sullivan have all had this honor. From then on the free-for-all of speech-making commences. At the moment several of the Capital's most prominent citizens are "candidates" for a JRY School of Expression diploma. A few of them have tried, but failed to achieve "passing grade" at the last few dinners.

Houses for Rent in Bar Harbor

ONE place where the housing situation has eased considerably is Bar Harbor, Me. Though last autumn's disastrous fire wiped out a number of the larger houses and a great part of the town—there are plenty of attractive residences left standing and such social centers as the swimming pool are untouched. Yet old-time Bar Harborites are hesitating about renting, afraid that their pals won't be there. As a result, desperate real estate agents are sending out lists containing over 40 available houses—all at comparatively reasonable rent. So if anyone wants to sniff invigorating Maine air at a bargain, Bar Harbor is the place to go!

Texas Society Plans Cruise

The Texas State Society has chartered the S. S. Potomac for a nonstop moonlight cruise on Friday night, May 28. The gangplank will open at 7:30 p. m., the ship will pull away from the dock at 7th and Maine ave. sw., at 8:30 p. m. and it will return just before midnight.

A seven-piece orchestra will provide music for dancing, and there will be food, refreshments and entertainment. The ship has been charted on the assumption that at least a thousand or more Texans will make the trip. If enough tickets aren't sold, however, any of the public who would like to be Texans may join the cruise.

Tickets may be bought from Miss Helen Snelling, 815 15th st. nw., ME. 3054; Dale Miller, Mayflower Hotel, EX. 0615; Representative Tom Pickett at the Capitol; O. L. Mimms, 4909 South Building, Agricultural Department, Ext. 2895; Tom Wrenn, Commerce Department, Ext. 2317; Dr. Harvey Young, Interior Department, Ext. 2273; Capt. William C. O'Kelley, Room 4D371 Pentagon, Ext. 74409; Lieut. Comdr. Herschel Schooley, Navy, Room 1227, Ext. 5372; Jim Kilday, Justice Department, Ext. 571; and John Mayfield, War Assets Administration, Temp. Bldg. "J," Ext. 2151.

Pen Women Vote to Ask UNESCO Membership

By Genevieve Reynolds

Delegates to the National League of American Pen Women's biennial convention yesterday indorsed a resolution to apply for membership in UNESCO. Purpose of the motion, which was introduced by Mrs. Edith M. K. Tibbetts of Berkeley, Calif., was to put league members' talents at the disposal of UNESCO to assist with the program of promoting world peace through understanding and freedom of the press.

Several national women's organizations, including the American Association of University Women, previously voted to assist UNESCO in its educational program. Organizations are screened by UNESCO before admitted to voluntary membership to aid with the international project, according to Mrs. Tibbetts.

Other motions passed at the concluding business session of the conclave, held in the Washington Club, included an amendment to the by-laws making it imperative for branches to keep their constitutions and by-laws compatible with those of the national league policy; eligibility for membership was changed from five years to three. Specifically, in order to be eligible for league membership a woman must have sold an original manuscript within three years of application. Heretofore, a person who had successfully marketed an original manuscript was eligible for membership.

Only controversy of the five-day convention arose during the morning business meeting when Mrs. Owen Kildare, retiring president of the New York Branch, declared that the District Branch, in cahoots with national officers, "was conducting the convention on unfair lines and parliamentary procedures by shoving aside a resolution to reduce yearly national dues from $5 to $3.50 per person."

Mrs. Kildare declared that the vote on the dues motion "was deliberately put aside until a majority of delegates had departed for home."

She opposed the $5 membership dues on the contention that the amount charged prevented increased membership in the New York branch.

Mrs. Harry W. King of Silver Spring, Md., chairman of convention elections, said that the resolution pertaining to reduction of national membership dues had been issued to branches several weeks ago for study . . . that the balloting was held according to the printed program . . . that the voting power of all branch delegates had been set on a score card, which was given in advance of the meeting. And that, furthermore, any delegate could leave a vote along with her credentials to be counted, if she found it necessary to be absent during the balloting.

Final tabulation of ballots showed 177 opposing the measure to reduce dues to $3.50. Those favoring the reduction were 104. Although the District branch proposed the motion, only one of the 22 delegates voted to reduce the dues.

A reception honoring newly elected officers followed the installation dinner held in the Mayflower Hotel when Mrs. Clyde H. Porter of Kansas City, collaborator with Bernard De Voto in his historic novel, "Across the Wide Missouri," was principal speaker. Mrs. Porter was presented the Nell Eberhard award in commemoration of her Pulitzer Prize for outstanding research on the book.

Summer Slack Season Expected

Booming Fashion Show Business Faces Slump

By Peggy Preston

THE fashion show business, which saw the greatest boom in its history this past winter, is in for a slight recession. Washington's on-coming torrid season is the principal villain in the piece.

After June 5 a slackening up period will set in which will last until the latter part of August when the fall showings begin. Next Monday will see the closing for the summer of the Fashion Fair luncheons at the Statler. Frank Fay, of "Harvey" fame, promises to be guest of honor and there will be other celebrities on hand for the grand finale. Reopening date is set for September 20.

MISS PRESTON

Early in June the luncheon-fashion shows in the lounge at the Mayflower will be discontinued as will those at the Raleigh. The latter will close officially on June 5, but an additional show is scheduled during the tea hour on Saturday, June 12. At that time models from the Southeastern University School of Fashion Modeling will show summer outfits from Connecticut ave. shops.

Congressional Country Club's last fashion show for a few months will also take place June 5. Instead of being put on during the luncheon hour, however, it will be held on the swimming pool terrace just before dinner.

LAST of the big benefit fashion shows takes place Wednesday, May 26, on the terrace at the Shoreham Hotel. Sponsored by local Wellesley College alumnae, it will attract scores of prominent guests.

Among those who have made reservations are Signora Tarchiani, wife of the Italian Ambassador; Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador; Mme. van Kleffens, wife of the Netherlands Ambassador; Senora de Restrepo-Jaramillo, wife of the Colombian Ambassador; Senora de Dillon, wife of the Ecuadorian Ambassador; Mrs. Ramos, wife of the Minister Counselor of the Philippine Embassy; Mrs. Harold Burton, Mrs. Owen Brewster, Mrs. George C. Warner, jr., Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mrs. David L. Wing, Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Ralph Church, Mrs. Ridgely Chapline, Mrs. Lawrence Groner, Mrs. Charles H. Maddox, Mrs. Donald F. Roberts, and Mrs. Irving McQuiston.

Also Mrs. Jack Bryson, Mrs. Josn S. Delano, Mrs. Fritz Kjoelsen, Mrs. Wilbur R. Pierce, Mrs. W. Richmond Wheeler, Mrs. Florence B. Webb, Mrs. Thomas J. Barlow, Mrs. Gerrit S. Miller, jr., Mrs. Josephine Prescott, Mrs. Frederick D. Evans, Mrs. Albert W. Hawkes, Mrs. Barrett Prettyman, Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. John Peurifoy, Mrs. Jessie M. Holton, Miss Sybil Baker, Mrs. Edwin G. Nourse and Mrs. Greene Dugger.

ONE of the first hair stylists to sponsor the current revival of the short hair cut was Michel of the Helena Rubinstein salons. This week Michel is making his annual spring visit to the local Rubinstein shop, and as usual, has an itchy scissors' hand.

According to Michel, the coiffures for this summer should be extremely short—and sweet. They'll have a close-to-the-head sleekness and an appealing natural look that is youthful and gay.

Greatest recommendation for the short hair-do is that it is easy to manage, neat to behold.

How to Make Pumpernickel Bread

MANY THANKS to J. G. and M. C. N., both of whom sent in the following recipe, recently requested by a reader:

PUMPERNICKEL BREAD
1½ cups cold water
1½ cups boiling water
1½ tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon caraway seed
2 cups mashed potatoes
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cake yeast
6 cups rye meal (rye graham flour)
2 cups wheat flour

Stir cold water into corn meal until smooth. Place over fire, add boiling water, and let cook, stirring constantly, about two minutes or until it forms a mush. Add salt, sugar, and fat, and let stand until lukewarm. Add mashed potatoes and the yeast dissolved in ¼ cup lukewarm water. Then add rye meal and wheat flour. Mix and knead to a smooth, stiff dough, using wheat flour on board. Cover; set aside in warm place until it doubles in bulk. Shape into small loaves and place in greased pans. Bake 1 hour or until thoroughly done in hot oven (350° Fahrenheit).

Living in a small apartment, we have a closet that is packed to the limit with clothing, bedding, books, and all sorts of personal belongings. The apartment is immaculate, but there is an odor in this closet that makes the most distressing problem imaginable. A bottled deodorant with a wick helps the room temporarily and generally, but does not seem to get at the source of the trouble or the separate articles in the closet. Washing or dry cleaning can be done where possible, but what about other articles and the walls?
A Reader.

As you infer, getting everything in the closet as thoroughly clean as possible is the first step in getting rid of the odor. Brush and sun the things that can't be washed or cleaned. Scrub the inside of the closet with washing soda and let it dry before putting the things back. (Use an electric fan in the closet if it's slow about drying.) Spray, too, with one of the liquid deodorants sold for this purpose in the housewares section of department and 10-cent stores. Since moth crystals (paradichlorobenzene) have a deodorant effect, you might use these plentifully among woolen clothing in the closet. Or hang tin boxes filled with moth repellent (on sale in many stores) there. Chloride of lime is a good general deodorant and placing a pan of it in the closet may prove helpful. Bear in mind that it is poisonous.

I have a shower cabinet which has been painted but stood out in the weather and got rusty. Can you tell me how to treat it before enameling it? C. A. G.

Use wire brush, sandpaper or steel wool to remove all rust and scale, as well as old paint, before repainting it. Brush and wipe off dust from this scraping thoroughly before applying fresh paint.

In the last couple of weeks, I have noticed several small, black, hard bugs on my living room and bedroom floors. The largest bug I've seen is about 3/16 of an inch long, oval in shape, and with a rounded back. I've seen them on the wood floor, as well as on the woolen rug in the living room and cotton rug in the bedroom. Can you help me identify these pests and tell me how to get rid of them? W. P.

This could be any one of several types of insects. For positive identification, capture a few and mail them to Mr. C. F. W. Musebeck, Insect Identification, 3130 South Agriculture Building, Washington, D. C. Until you find out exactly what they are, you might try spraying with 5 per cent DDT solution (there are numerous sprays of this type on the market). They are effective in combating many kinds of insects and may hold them in check.

Is there a place where you can purchase the printed feed bags which can be used in so many ways? J. C. A.

As far as I know, the only way to get such bags is to buy feed or to obtain them from feed-buying friends. Do any readers know of a place where they may be purchased?

Can you tell me how to remove coffee stains from a white crepe (rayon, I believe) blouse which has never been laundered? The stains have been on the blouse for several months. A. F. M.

Sponge with lukewarm water, then let dry. If grease remains, sponge with carbon tetrachloride or other cleaning fluid. If this doesn't remove the stains, sponge with clear water, then with a solution of 1 teaspoon sodium perborate to 1 pint hydrogen peroxide. If necessary, sprinkle sodium perborate on stain and let stand half an hour. Rinse well with water.

A friend of mine gave me a heavy black linen suit, lined with black silk. At one time, she had loaned the jacket to someone and when it was returned it was saturated with underarm odor. She sent it to the cleaners, but every time the jacket is worn the odor comes back. Is there any way to remove this odor? C. M.

Dampen the underarm area with water and dust with powdered pepsin. Allow to remain on the fabric for 30 minutes or until dry and brush away the pepsin. If this treatment does not entirely remove the odor, washing the jacket in mild soap and water seems the only remaining solution. Since both jacket and lining are black you should be able to wash it without difficulty or, if you wish, you could ask a cleaner to wash it for you.

Would it be satisfactory to wash a plastic shower curtain and window curtain in an automatic washing machine? M.J.K.

I'm afraid it would not be. The most satisfactory way to clean them is to lay them on a flat surface and sponge first with soapy water, then with clear water to rinse thoroughly. Soap scum can be removed by sponging with vinegar before washing the curtains. Hang to dry.

I have a summer rug which is tan with a dark green border and rust flowers. I would like to paint this rug light rose. Is this possible? If so, what kind of paint should I use? W. I. H.

It is not usually a good idea to try to paint the rug a lighter color than it now is. However, you should be able to change the color from tan to rose with little difficulty. The dark green of the border may not be completely covered with one coat of rose, though. In this case, you could give the border a second coat, or it might not be objectionable if it does show through. Before painting it, clean the rug thoroughly by using a vacuum sweeper on both sides. Now, place many layers of newspapers under it and use a good grade of house paint thinned with one part turpentine to three parts paint. Use an inexpensive brush and work the paint well into the fibers of the rug. Allow to dry thoroughly before using.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Man Is Demoralized by Wife's Philosophy; She Was Unfaithful While He Was Overseas And Thinks He Should Forget It; He Can't

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: A short time ago I learned that my wife had an affair with another man while I was overseas. The discovery was a devastating blow and my first reaction was disbelief.

However, she admits her guilt and is openly honest about the whole thing. It wasn't planned or anticipated, she says; just the result of playing around.

Her attitude is, "I'm sorry, but it's done. I loved you then and I always will. It was unexpected and happened more than once only because I felt that our life together was already ruined. But common sense returned and now it's all over. You will have to accept it; nothing has really changed and I'm dreadfully sorry that I have hurt you."

Wife Says Nothing Is Really Changed

I LOVE HER so much that I would give my soul if nothing had changed; and when I am with her I can feel beyond question that our real love of many years still exists, perhaps even a little deeper on her part nowadays; but at other times, when we are apart, I am so depressed that I can hardly think.

She has no idea of my inner conflicts. If she knew, she would be frightened. Actually she feels she has done me no great injury and that it's simply unfortunate that the affair came to light. Obviously her standards differ from mine and no further good would be accomplished by talking to her.

Why do these things happen? How can I justify her conduct to myself or get over my old fashioned ideas that are really the cause of my anguish? Would having an affair myself help any? I would be miserable if we parted, as neither of us want that; and we have a child now seven years old. Please set me straight. E. D.

The Increasing Purpose of Life

DEAR E. D.: I am reading a remarkable book, Lecomte du Nouy's "Human Destiny" (Longmans, Green & Co.), that illuminates the shadings of difference, in character and viewpoint, between you and your wife.

In his poem, "Locksley Hall," Tennyson writes, "Yet I doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose runs, and the thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns." Now, in du Nouy's book, we have an internationally known scientist of the first magnitude bringing tremendous erudition to bear, to tell us what that purpose is.

Although it is almost impossible to convey in short space the essence of du Nouy's comprehensive statement, here is an attempt to brief it in my words:

His scientific conclusion is that the consistent discernible purpose of evolution, so far, has been to bring forth, and to establish in sentient form, a growing awareness of, and responsible cooperation with, the causative Spirit which energizes the universe.

He says the "divine spark" has come to life in the human species, and therefore it is human destiny to strive toward the fuller realization and the orderly expression of this Spirit, to make tangible all its joy, beauty, sublime harmony and good.

Wife Is Stumbling In Outer Darkness

DU NOUY speaks of the sparkling trail of the evolution of spirit already blazed on the dark background of eternity by Jesus, the saints and prophets of all religions and their truth-seeing followers; yet he indicates that we as a species are just at the beginning of this growth, that hundreds of centuries of sustained effort will be required to evolve the whole human family to creative spiritual consciousness, and that in process many will fall by the wayside, eliminating themselves from the evolutionary struggle by repudiating their true destiny in favor of the sensory pleasures of "natural man."

Appraising your problem against this epic concept of the meaning of life, one sees your wife falling by the wayside, without the slightest cognition of her self-betrayal, or of the outer darkness in which she exists. And one sees you, on the other hand, rent by anguish at her insensitivity, because it suggests to you that marriage in the best sense of spiritual kinship and spiritual rapport isn't in the cards with her.

Certainly it wouldn't help to fall back to her benighted level of "having an affair," and since you love her dependently, too much to leave her, the constructive solution is to learn to love her cherishingly as well; and for guidance in this, study 1 Corinthians 13. But study du Nouy's book for perspective also. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

System May Ease Kitchen Chores

For the bride beginning housekeeping the following system is suggested:

Open windows, top and bottom, or open ventilator for free circulation of air.

Put away food.

Dust radiator or register.
Take out garbage and put clean liner in garbage can.
Clean sink. Wash dish cloths.
Hang up fresh towels and wash soiled ones.

Once a week the stove, refrigerator and garbage pail should be cleaned thoroughly.

Southern Rwy. Cost Cut Laid To Diesel Use

By S. Oliver Goodman

Southern Railway Co.'s dieselization program is paying off in lower expenses, President Ernest E. Norris told stockholders at the annual meeting in Richmond.

Norris

Gross revenues of the Southern in the first quarter this year totaled $61,301,000, he said, an increase of 8.7 per cent over the $56,376,000 in the like 1947 period. Net operating income rose to $7,121,000 from $5,660,000.

Ratio of transportation expenses to gross revenue was reduced to 37.76 per cent from 38.52 per cent a year ago, Norris pointed out, "largely due to the Southern's dieselization program."

Southern is one of the country's largest users of Diesel power, Norris said, adding that the road has Diesel units with a total of 554,360 horsepower and costing about 52 million dollars now in service or on order.

As of March, 1948, Norris declared, 6.9 per cent of the system's freight locomotives were Diesel and they handled 41.4 per cent of the gross freight tonnage. On the passenger side, Diesels represented 16 per cent of the system's passenger locomotives and during March made 54.9 per cent of the passenger train-miles. Diesels now comprise approximately one-fourth of Southern's switching locomotives.

Reelected as directors were Robert M. Hanes, Leverett F. Hooper and Knight Woolley. Directors reelected Norris as president and all other oficers.

SPEED AGE: American Airlines, Inc., stockholders were told by C. R. Smith, chairman, that completion in early 1949 of deliveries on the line's order for 75 Convair flagships "will give us a 5-mile-a-minute passenger fleet." Seventeen of the ships already have been received, he said. The 40-passenger twin-engine Convairs are to be used in service the company expects to start on June 1 to a number of cities in Central and Eastern United States.

BLAME PLACED: The black market on new cars and the high prices on used ones will continue for some time because of steel shortages which hold production below prewar rates, M. E. Coyle, executive vice president of General Motors, told the Philadelphia chapter of the American Marketing Association. He added that it is the customer, not the maker or the dealer, who traffics in the black market.

HEADACHE: One retailers' headache is getting worse. That is the problem of consumers' merchandise returns. A survey of 182 stores by the National Retail Dry Goods Association shows that customers' returns in the first quarter amounted to 7.1 per cent of total sales, compared with 6.5 per cent a year ago. One reason, the association believes, is that supplies are increasing, causing consumers to become more discriminating.

BUILDING: Awards of construction contracts in April in 37 eastern States continued at a record level, F. W. Dodge Corp. reported. The month's total in the area was $875,882,000, which was 27 per cent greater than the March figure and 45 per cent ahead of the total for April a year ago. For the first four months of 1948, dollar volume of contracts amounted to $2,860,818,000, some 29 per cent larger than for the similar 1947 period.

ODD LOTS: Railway operating revenues last month were estimated 4 per cent greater than in April, 1947, by the Association of American Railroads . . . F. W. Woolworth Co. plans to spend 24 million dollars this year for new buildings and modernization . . . Servel, Inc., has reduced prices on two models of its gas refrigerators . . . Washington Chapter, Society for Advancement of Management, will hear Dr. Marshall E. Dimock at dinner meeting today . . . Home Loan Bank Board reported real estate financing was valued at 955 million dollars in March, up 11 per cent from last year . . . Venezuela, while respecting the integrity of oil concessions already made, does not propose to make any more.

New York Cotton

New York, May 19 (AP).—Cotton futures closed 40 cents a bale higher to 35 cents lower today. Trading was slow and prices moved over a fairly wide range, reflecting confusion over the export outlook for the balance of the current crop season.

Stocks Churn Unevenly, End Little Changed

New York, May 19 (AP).—The stock market steadied today after Tuesday's abrupt break but aggressive selling barred the way into higher price ground.

Except for a handful of issues, prices seesawed back and forth most of the day. Some oils, rails and metals managed to hang on to gains of fractions to around a point but for the market generally small changes either way were about in balance.

During a mid-morning sprint volume expanded rapidly. When increased selling took the edge off this attempt to rally, volume dropped. The day's turnover of 1,850,000 shares was well below yesterday's 2,480,000.

Oils and rails resumed the leadership which they have held off and on during the spring rally. Gains running from fractions to more than a point were posted for Sinclair Oil at 26⅞, Pacific Western 59, Mission Corp. 66, Santa Fe 113⅛, N. Y. Central 17¼, Southern Railway 46⅝, Illinois Central 38¾, Montgomery Ward 64¼, J. I. Case 48½, Kennecott Copper 57¼ and Chicago Corp. 13¾.

Marked down were U. S. Steel at 79⅛, Youngstown Sheet 79⅜, Chrysler 60, Douglas Aircraft 62¾, Consolidated Natural Gas 48¼, General Electric 39¼, Radio Corp. 12⅞, Union Pacific 187, Standard Oil (N. J.) 79 and Sears Roebuck 41⅛.

American Distillers bounced ahead with a gain of 4⅝ points at 39⅞, a new high. One source associated the gain with the company's use of a quick-aging process, but this was no more than a guess.

Transcontinental & Western Air took it on the chin again, losing a point at 17⅛ after dropping 2⅛ Tuesday. Weakness followed disclosure of the company's financial position.

Sinclair Oil Net Doubles in Period

New York, May 19 (AP).—Earnings of Sinclair Oil Corp. in the first quarter of this year were more than double the $8,700,000 net in the first quarter last year, Harry F. Sinclair, president, told stockholders today.

He said he would recommend to directors next month that the capital stock be placed on a 50-cent quarterly-dividend basis compared with the present 25-cent quarterly rate, plus extras.

Sinclair said the company now has 91 drilling rigs in operation and this number will soon be increased to 125.

Goodyear's Labor Negotiator Keeps in Pink to Bargain

By J. A. Livingston

JOE LOUIS and Jersey Joe Walcott, training for their world's championship boxing bout on June 23, have nothing on Fred W. Climer, vice president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., in charge of industrial relations. Climer goes into training just before a major bout with labor leaders at the collective bargaining table. He takes a vacation so as to be in the "best physical and mental condition" for the ordeal by charts, statistics, contract comparisons and table thumping.

Livingston

Climer exposed his method at a recent conference of labor leaders, business executives, and numerous practitioners of the fast-growing art of industrial relations. It was held under the auspices of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. And you can readily understand why Climer has to keep himself in the pink. Goodyear is a far-flung industrial enterprise, comprising 55,000 employes, and nearly a dozen separate bargaining unions.

As Climer expressed it, "We have 10 rubber manufacturing plants scattered from Vermont to California under contract with the United Rubber Workers, CIO. We operate two textile mills represented by the AFL Textile Workers; another is represented by Emil Rieve's Textile Workers of America, CIO." At that point Climer turned to Rieve, who was on the platform, and remarked: "Thank goodness that contract was signed just a few days ago." The fourth textile mill had rejected both the CIO and AFL at two separate elections.

A GOODYEAR chemical plant at Niagara Falls has a contract with CIO chemical workers. Workers in two Government-owned synthetic rubber plants are represented by several AFL craft unions. The United Auto Workers (CIO) bargains for workers in an Akron aircraft plant. "And last but not least, measured from the standpoint of headaches, we operate a coal mine in southeastern Ohio whose 500 employes are members of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers."

Thus, for Goodyear, as for any large corporation, labor relations has become a big business in itself. Not only must the negotiator know all the clauses in all the major contracts in his industry, but he must know the ins and outs of union politics and strategy.

Consider a recent example: Nobody can fully appreciate the recent threat of a rail strike without knowing that Alvanley Johnston, 73-year-old grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is being pushed by a younger man for the leadership of that union. J. P. Shields, assistant grand chief engineer, ran against Johnston at the last election.

You also have to know that A. F. Whitney's Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which struck in '46 but was compliant this year, competes with A. J. Glover's Switchmen's Union of North America for members. Also that A. F. Whitney and David B. Robertson, who heads the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, have been rivals for years. It's customary to find Robertson and Glover lined up against Whitney and vice versa. Also, you ought to know that all of the brotherhood major leaders are in their seventies: Whitney was born April 12, 1873; Johnston May 12, 1875, and Robertson May 13, 1876.

YOU ALSO have to try to figure out the kind of strategy a union will use. After the war, for the first time, the Big Four rubber companies — Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S., and Firestone — met with the United Rubber Workers jointly. "No one could stand the prospect of being down on strike with its chief competitors still running," explained Climer.

Not so in the automobile industry. There the union has bargained company by company. In 1946, the UAW struck against General Motors. This year it has singled out Chrysler for a strike; but also has served a strike notice on G. M. Apparently the UAW figures it has greater chance for success by pressing a particular company for a settlement and establishing that as a pattern for the industry. And apparently, the big companies feel that they can afford to resist, regardless of whether their chief competitors are still running.

All of which explains why George W. Taylor, onetime head of the War Labor Board, arranged the conference at the Wharton School. Labor-management relations and strategy are varied and changing. What prevailed under the Wagner Act doesn't work under the Taft-Hartley Act. Both sides have much to learn and study. And so it's expected that sessions such as Taylor conducted — with experienced negotiators and arbitrators speaking frankly and directly — will increase at universities everywhere.

Defense Plans To Cut Income, Nourse Warns

Chicago, May 19 (AP).—Mounting taxes and strong controls are in prospect if Congress overshoots President Truman's defense-program recommendations, an economic adviser to the President said tonight.

Even the more moderate defense program probably cannot be carried through "without significant modification of the program of production and purchasing power that we would hope to achieve otherwise," said Edwin G. Nourse.

Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said in a talk prepared for an Illinois Tech Alumni Association dinner:

"We cannot have our cake and eat it too. Five, 10 or 15 billion dollars' worth of goods and services a year cannot be withdrawn from our economy during the next few years and still leave the real income of consumers as high as it would otherwise be during this period."

He said he found "ground for optimism" in the fight against inflation over these developments:

The announcements of some industrial leaders that they would cut prices; a decision by some big unions to stand by their no-strike pledges; quick action of the Federal courts in preventing some crippling work stoppages, and sound credit controls.

A. T. & T. Votes Usual $2.25 Dividend

New York, May 19 (AP).—Directors of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today declared a dividend of $2.25 a share on the capital stock, payable July 15 to stock of record June 15. This rate has been in effect since 1921.

The dividend calls for distribution to more than 700,000 stockholders of $50,481,371.

Wool Prices Soar In Australia

Sydney, May 19 (AP).—Your new suit may cost more because of soaring prices on the Australian wool market.

Sensational prices were paid on the third day of the Brisbane auctions, where wool today averaged more than £70 (about $210) a bale. This was £21 more than the average per bale for the 10 months ended April 30. The approximate weight of a bale is 310 pounds.

With a world hungry for wool, Australia took in nearly £17,000,000 (about $55,000,000) from April wool sales. Prices were up 56 per cent over the preceding year.

America has not bought heavily in this year's sales and some local traders feel she has "missed the bus." Bidding by the Russians was a highlight of the third day of the Brisbane sales. Prices were up to 5 per cent above Monday's record opening rates.

Broker's Registration Rescinded for Fraud

The Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday accused a Wall Street broker of fraud of the "crudest and most flagrant type" and took away his broker's registration.

The commission's formal order was directed at James E. Scott & Co. of 70 Wall Street, New York. The firm operated as a partnership of James E. Scott and his wife, Helen A. Scott.

The firm, the SEC charged, took for its own use about $32,000 in cash and securities and trusted to it by 12 customers.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, May 19 (AP).—Corn prices eased on the Board of Trade today after the May contract had reached a new high since February in early dealings. Wheat and oats closed steady with small price changes. Soybeans and lard moved ahead for fair sized gains.

The slump in May corn followed upon news that cash dealers had obtained a large quantity of the grain from the country. Bookings were officially placed at 265,000 bushels, although some dealers estimated them at around 300,000 bushels. In any case, they were much larger than normal.

Some traders doubted if these heavy bookings really represented a freer country movement. They said it might merely have been exchanging to the grain between commercial interests.

At the close wheat was ¼ to ½ higher, May, 2.47@2.47¼; corn was ⅜ to 2 lower, May, 2.31¾@2.32; oats were ¼ lower to ½ higher, May, 1.13⅝@½, and soybeans were 5 to 8 cents higher, May, 4.25. Lard ended 15 to 70 cents a hundred pounds higher, May, 23.52.

Court to Hear Charter Fight In Montgomery

A court fight over Montgomery County government proposals will get under way today at 10 a. m. in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville.

Seven lawyers, representing the defendants, are expected to argue that the Circuit Court is without jurisdiction in the suit, which attacks constitutionality of the charter.

The action, filed by Hubert A. Schneider, Bethesda lawyer, seeks to prevent the charter question from being placed on the ballot in the November election.

Original defendant was the county board of election supervisors. The Montgomery County Charter Board and the county charter committee recently joined as voluntary defendants.

Annual Fireman's Award Studied

A committee of the Arlington County Firemen's Association is studying the possibility of making an annual award to the county's outstanding fireman.

The committee, which will report back to the association later, was appointed at the group's meeting Tuesday night at Arlington No. 1 Fire House, 1041 S. Edgewood st.

A commendation for William R. Biggs, Ballston Volunteer Fire Company chief, for his "outstanding work" in putting out a recent oil fire in Rosslyn also was voted by the association.

Fairfax County Citizens To Elect Officers Today

The Federation of Fairfax County Citizens Associationse will elect new officers at 8 p. m. today at a meeting at Annandale School. Also scheduled for discussion are means to raise funds for county school construction and the desirability of amending the Hatch Act to allow Government employes to take part in partisan county politics.

MEN
READ CAREFULLY
Thursday, May 20, at 1 p.m. sharp I want to talk with 26 men who are really ambitious in securing a position that will give them steady employment the year round. In other words, there are no laying off periods and consistent income is the income that really counts. It doesn't matter what your past employment has been, study and learn as we teach you our work. It will also be necessary that you be willing to get along on $75-$85 week for the first 4 to 6 weeks while learning our work.
You must also be able to give the names of 3 people who will vouch for your honesty and integrity. We prefer men who are married or men who have some source of responsibility.
I would also like to talk to a few men who are mechanically inclined and who know a good thing when they see it.
Therefore, if you are honest and of good character and a willing worker, and neat in appearance, come in and talk with me.

How to Torture Your Husband

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

Left-Handedness

To some people, left-handedness seems almost an abnormality. When they notice the young child beginning to use the "wrong" hand they do many things to prevent it. But it is no more abnormal to be left-handed than it is to have red hair.

Movements of the hand are controlled by nerve centers in the brain. The centers controlling the right hand are on the left side of the brain; those controlling the left hand on the right half of the brain. In most people the left half of the brain seems to be better developed. That means, of course, that they have more strength and skill in their right hands. But the reverse is true for others.

MARK TRAIL

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

District Party Line Is Still Busy

Our recent discussion of gadgets by which the phone company could let us know another call is waiting on a busy line has drawn a varied response.

The local telephone office tells me that part of the difficulty lies with party lines. Right now, new subscribers sometimes have to take a party line or nothing, because shortages make it necessary to share the service as widely as possible.

Lack of instruments has now been licked, and a shortage of cable is almost licked. But there still isn't enough central office equipment, and that's the current bottleneck.

When that one is cracked, everybody who wants a private line will be able to have one.

But that will still leave the problem of advising private line subscribers that another call is trying to reach them.

I find that many patents have been issued on variations of the same basic idea. Some use a "tone" or "peep," while others employ a signal light, attached to the phone. If you're talking to somebody and your signal light goes on, you know somebody else is trying to call you.

The reason the idea hasn't been put into use is that (on dial systems) it requires a tremendous amount of additional equipment—i. e.: money.

So, for the time being at least, the best solution to the problem would appear to be for subscribers to keep their conversations short.

Speaking of telephone gadgets, I understand that a local broker has invented a labor-saving device for people who customarily call the same numbers at frequent intervals. It works like a set of push-buttons on a radio.

There are about 20 buttons, each for a different number. When you want one of those numbers, you just push the button and the rest is automatic.

Other numbers are dialed in the usual manner, and so long as you don't bet on them you won't get in trouble with Mr. Fay.

MISCELLANY

Local cab drivers are very much interested in the Chrysler strike because most cabs here are Plymouths and Dodges, and replacements are no longer coming through . . . Conrad Horn of 2311 15th st. nw. chimes in that he has a Bing Crosby record that's so old it doesn't even have Bing's name on it at all. In those days the groaner was just one of Paul Whiteman's original Rhythm Boys . . . Mrs. M. J. Quinn thinks The Washington Post ought to swipe an idea from the Windsor (Ontario) Daily Star. The Star's front page weather forecast is as staid and dignified as the forecasts in other newspapers, but it is always topped by a snappy headline like "Hot Stuff," "Going Up," "Chilly and Wet" or "Poor Plants" (when a freeze is expected) . . . Old timers wonder whether the upcoming renovation of the White House will bring the workmen on the job as much revenue as repairs made in the Coolidge Administration. Carpenters who removed worn timbers began to sell pieces as souvenirs—and when the original timbers were gone they continued to do a booming business by selling ordinary old scrap lumber.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Mother cat and six 6 weeks old kittens." (Randolph 3862).

POPPY, MISTER?

Louise Puleo of 1312 Tuckerman st. nw. tells me that her 3-year-old niece came home from church with some exciting news last Sunday.

"Next week," she announced with great animation, "they're going to raise money for the veterans by selling puppies."

Not puppies, of course—but it is time for the annual poppy drive again. The poppies are made by disabled and hospitalized veterans, and they're sold by young ladies who volunteer to help the boys.

Charles Kohen, the stamp and coin man, who has headed the local drive since Clark Griffith was a kid in knee britches, tells me he doesn't have enough volunteers yet, and he wonders whether any District Liners would like to help a good cause.

Girls are needed for work on the 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th of this month. You can call Charlie at District 1272 or, on a nice day, you can find him out in front of his shop at 716 17th st. nw., catching a little sun and planning another benefit show for hospitalized vets.

PERSONAL NOTFS

George Nealon, Arlington, Va.: Station WWDC says that of the 25,381 entries in the Mr. F. M. contest, approximately 17,000 correctly identified Peter Donald. A committee headed by Charles Stofberg, assistant to District Commissioner John Russell Young, selected the winner on the basis of "neatness and originality."

Mrs. Charles G. Jaquette of 36 Hawaii ave. ne. wonders whether it's any coincidence that "Sightseeing, Inc." is located on "Eye" st.

NEW YORK.—The Jewish Agency for Palestine has appointed Aubrey Eban to be its representative at the United Nations. Eban's sister is employed at the U. N. Secretariat. The man for whom she works there is an Egyptian.

Bobby Brown of the Yankees is a medical student at Tulane Medical School. In the evenings, after ball games, Brown spends his time reading medical books. . . . His roommate is the Yankee catcher, Yogi Berra. Last week Berra noticed that Brown was engrossed in a book and asked: "What're you readin'? . . . "'Gray's Anatomy,'" the medical student replied . . . "Interestin'?" asked Berra . . . "Very," said Brown . . . The next day Berra noticed that Brown wasn't reading "Gray's Anatomy,", and asked: "Did you finish it?" . . . His roommate nodded. Berra asked him: "Well, how'd it come out?"

The students at Smith College are holding a mock Presidential election this week. Last week they had mock political conventions, but with real campaigning and real tallies. The Republican Convention produced a Stassen-Warren ticket . . . There was a split at the Democratic Convention, when Henry Wallace supporters walked out and insisted on running him independently. These supporters are being heckled with the shout, "Haw!", a derisive combination of Wallace's initials. The Democrats, by a 2-to-1 vote, nominated a Douglas-Arnall ticket on the first ballot. And the Smith College girls are campaigning with such slogans as "Get in the Know With William O."; "Court Douglas," and "She's Lovely, She's Engaged, She's Voting for Douglas."

Polk Death Laid to Greek Rightists

By Drew Pearson

Copyright, 1948, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

George Polk, the American news commentator, whose bullet-pierced, bound-up body was found in Salonika Bay, wrote me a letter about his troubles with the Greek government. Based on this letter and otherwise, evidence points to the probability that rightest forces within the government were responsible for Polk's murder.

In the first place, only the Greek government had access to his broadcasts. Only they knew how critical he had been of Greek rightist attempts to sabotage the American reconstruction program.

In addition, all sorts of obstacles had been placed in Polk's path. The Greek government did not want him in Greece and did everything possible to get him out. Here is a sample of Greek obstruction:

"During the past four days, I've been trying to make arrangements for flying to Salonika," Polk wrote. "I've been to the Foreign Ministry press section, to the Greek air force headquarters, to the Greek commercial airline, and to the government air travel priority department. Today, after four days of leg work and innumerable telephone calls, I have not succeeded in making any arrangements.

"Everything is tied up in red tape. The airlines will not say whether they have a seat or not. First, I've got to produce a priority; but I can't get the priority until I give the seat number and flight number and date of the plane I will take. So, back and forth I've been like a tennis ball. The plan is to make me fret myself into a tizzy—or perhaps give up the trip. Yet if I made an issue of all this red tape, everybody would blandly say that Polk is simply 'impatient'."

Polk Was a Battler

George Polk was a fighter, whether as newspaperman or in the service of his country. During the war as a Navy pilot he was in the thick of the battle of Guadalcanal, broke his back in a crash landing, came home to fight for unification of the Army and Navy.

In Greece, George fought the grafters and the right wing extremists. An article in Harper's Magazine told a revealing story. In writing to me, he told how reactionaries in the government sought to discredit American newsmen who were critical. Apparently he had some premonition of trouble, for he said: "The right wing is trying to get a number of us discredited or removed from Greece."

"Royalist 'Ethmos' has denounced 'irresponsible correspondents who write 'unfavorable and misleading' stories about the Greek government," George continued.

"The attack upon the correspondents is being made by the Royalist political group known as the Populist Party. Under leadership of Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Constantine Tsaldaris, key Populist members throughout the government appear to be implementing a carefully devised offensive.

Greek Envoy Criticizes

"As an illustration of the method of attack, consider a letter concerning me written by Greek Ambassador Vassili Dendramis, an ultra-rightist supporter of the Tsaldaris clique. Strangely enough, Dendramis wrote to CBS President Frank Stanton complaining about my article on Greece in the December Harper's Magazine.

"However, my case up to the present is rather mild compared with the attack being made against other out-spoken reporters on the scene. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs has just written to the Christian Science Monitor complaining that their correspondent in Greece, Constantine Argyris, is guilty of using offensive language in dealing with Greek Government officials and also is guilty of drunkenness at interviews. Knowing Argyris as well as I do—and having the highest respect for his professional attributes—I know this charge is a lie.

"Another correspondent who has drawn Greek right-wing fire is Ray Daniell of the New York Times. He arrived in Greece unaccompanied by his wife and when his articles proved displeasing for the right-wing politicians, they spread malicious slander about Daniell.

"Yet another reporter who had provoked the Greek right wing is Homer Bigart, of the New York Herald Tribune. At the moment, being a newcomer in Greece, Bigart is getting the 'treatment' that others of us already have had. In particular he is being denounced by name as a Communist; he is being ridiculed for 'looking at things upside down;' he is being refused interviews by persons he needs to see for news purposes—such as Foreign Minister Tsaldaris.

"The pattern of the right-wing's attack on the other American correspondents here is clever—public denunciation plus official refusal to allow a reporter to visit the civil war areas; instead, there is a clever plan of making news work in Greece as difficult as possible for critical correspondents.

"In addition, now that so many correspondents are writing such critical stories on the dominant right-wing faction of the government, there are a number of vague hints that 'somebody is likely to get hurt.'"
